Time No Use to Him.

When Robert H. Davis was young and loose in the feet he once wandered into a little Mississippi town. It was a bright day in the early spring, and he walked down the one street. By and by he came to the county jail—a two-storied affair, standing flush with the sidewalk.

"There was a negro pressing his face against the barred window on the second floor," said Mr. Davis, "holding on to the bars and yawning. By and by an old negro came limping along the street, toting a whitewash bucket.

"Hello, Uncle Ephraim," says the one in the window.

"Howdy," says Ephraim, limping on.

"Wait a minute, Uncle," says the lonesome negro in the window. "What time is it, Uncle?"

"Uncle Ephraim limped right on. He hardly looked up. "What diffunce does it make to you, niggah?" he asked. "You ain't goin' nowhere."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Guessing.

A lady was looking for her husband, and inquired anxiously of the housemaid: "Do you happen to know anything of your mother's whereabouts?"

"I am not sure, mum," replied the caretful domestic, "but I think they are in the wash."—Harper's Magazine.

Not the Same.

They were strolling through the woodland.

"Yes," the youthful professor was saying, "it is a very simple matter to tell the various kinds of trees by the bark."

She gazed at him soulfully. "How wonderful!" she exclaimed. "And can you—er—tell the various kinds of dogs that way?"—Lippincott's.

The Nut-Cracker.

Mrs Cooke had a new servant, and after the first cake was baked, the mistress went to the kitchen.

"Delia," said Mrs. Cooke, "your cake was very good, but there were not enough nuts in it. When you make another, please remember I like plenty of nuts in the cake."

"Well, mum," replied the girl, "the reason I didn't put more in was because I couldn't crack any more today. Indeed, mum, an' my jaw hurts yet from them I did crack."—Lippincott's.
