TRIBUTE PAID TO THE MEMORY OF MCKINLEY

Former Vice-President Fairbanks
Tells of Personal Intimacy
With Martyred President.

With a deeply touching note of personal intimacy, Charles Warren Fairbanks spoke in eulogy of William McKinley at Centenary Methodist church last night, and held a large audience breathlessly attentive while he recounted, for nearly an hour, unwritten passages in the life history of the martyred President, says Monday's Oregonian. As his voice sank to a tragic note in the concluding passage of his address, the emotions he stirred among his hearers were at times audible. Dignity, grace, nobility, modesty, a high type of patriotism and charitable Christianity, were the qualities the speaker outlined as distinctively those of the slain President. He reached the zenith of his glory, declared the speaker, when he withstood the assaults of a yellow press, which impugned his patriotism and valor because he would not rush unprepared into a war with Spain.

SENSATIONAL PRESS SCORED.
"And let me say that the most debilitating influence in our National life today is the unbridled, sensational press. All other evil influences together do not equal it." This parenthetical remark was greeted with applause.

"William McKinley was my friend, and I was his; he was your friend," said Mr. Fairbanks. "Twelve years ago we were at the summit of our National prosperity and contentment, and our prestige among nations was at its greatest. Asperities of one section against another had disappeared and we were emerging from a war commanded by the voice of Christian America, and in which he had shown our fallen foe Christian magnanimity. Then a storm burst, and a voice was heard to say, 'It is God's way.' Those were the dying words of William McKinley.

"He lived through some of the most trying periods of our history, and was a part of them. As a soldier in the Civil War, President Hayes, who was his commander, told me he looked every inch a soldier.

END OF ESTRANGEMENT WISH.

"Viewing the battlefield of Antietam with him, when he was President, he told me that he felt the crowning glory of his Administration would be to bring the estranged sections completely together. He never appealed to prejudice or passion and we can learn from him that our greatest danger is from class and caste. God help the Nation when its President loves peace less than war! McKinley was our ideal President. He neither was aloof from the people, nor noisy and spectacular." Most graphic and beautiful was the speaker's description of the movement of the cortege from Washington to Canton, when, at every village, the funeral train passed between ranks of people singing and bands playing the dead President's favorite hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." At the conclusion of the address the congregation sang this as a closing selection.

THE DIGNITY OF LABOR

Abraham Lincoln was a "hired man." His sister Sarah "worked out" as a "hired girl."

Jim Hill was a section hand on a railroad, and in the employ of a packing company in St. Paul earned 50 cents a day.

The list of barbers who have become famous would amaze anyone not already familiar with it, and there is a vast army of junk collectors who have made enough money to travel in Europe.

One of these successful refuse artists runs one of the best organized businesses in Central Illinois.

It is a peculiar folly of most men and women to look down upon those who render them the most valuable service.

When Jesus Christ washed the feet of his friends he tried to express the fundamental doctrine of His great philosophy, but nobody understood it then, and it is probable that very few understand it today.

It is one of the absurdities of life that we all stand in line eager for a chance to take our hats off to any man with money enough to loaf at public expense, and hold our noses high in the air when we pass the man or woman who washes our dirty shirts for us.

It is a characteristic of most great men that they have never hesitated to do any useful thing when it was necessary.

The same "hired man" whose sister was a "hired girl" was found by one of his body guard, when he was President of the United States, sitting on the edge of the bed, clad in his nightie, sewing a suspender button on his pants.

This was not a freak of greatness. It was an evidence of it.

The highest ambition is the desire to serve. It is a disgrace to remain a street laborer, but it is not a disgrace to be one.—Harlan Read.

Beware of Fake Cures Many Have Been Worked

Within the last five years, no less than 500 fraudulent "cures" for consumption have been tried upon thousands of victims in the United States, and the exploiters of these nostrums have reaped a clear profit of not less than $50,000,000. This is an estimate made by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis in a bulletin issued to-day.

The National Association estimates that not less than $20,000,000 is invested in the business of manufacturing and exploiting fake cures for tuberculosis, and that the annual income from these concerns and individuals is $15,000,000. About one-third of this amount is spent for advertising, leaving a profit of $10,000,000 a year, which is "blood money" taken from ignorant consumptives.

Three kinds of consumption cure frauds are distinguished by the Association, the first being the "institute" fraud, where a pseudo-hospital or dispensary is established and the wily "doctor" or "professor" administers "treatments" at so much per head. These concerns also carry on a mail order business with great profit. The second group of cures contains over a hundred different kinds of drugs and "patent" devices, any of which may be purchased at a drug store. Usually the consumptive is charged from $1.00 to $5.00 for these and the institute "cures" when he could make them up himself in exactly the same form for from one to five cents.

The third group of "cures" includes home-made remedies, which certain self deluded individuals believe will cure tuberculosis. Among them are such things as onions, lemons, coal smoke, pig's blood, alcohol, dog oil, teas of various kinds, and a variety of diets, including goat's meat, clabbered milk and a score of other articles. These are not usually advertised for profit, but are usually given publicity in various ways.

The consumptive is the most hopeful individual in existence when the question of a cure is suggested. The National Association has stated that no specific cure for tuberculosis has been discovered, except the well-tried hygienic-dietetic method of fresh air, rest and good food.

Progress Made in Oregon Gon Farm Development

At the annual convention of the Oregon State Bankers' Association, held recently at Corvallis, the progress made in agricultural development and education during the past year was carefully reviewed. Reports from all over the state indicated that the effort made last season to interest the school children, as well as their parents, had met with remarkable success, enabling the association to hold fairs in every county in the state except two at which the various articles made and the products grown by the children were exhibited. At these county gatherings the finest specimens were selected and forwarded to the State Fair at Salem, where the children were awarded prizes in an amount aggregating $20,000.

It was pointed out that under the provisions of Senate Bill 72, passed at the recent session of the legislature, the counties of the state are authorized to provide an unlimited amount of money for the purpose of carrying on educational farm work and to pay the salaries and expenses of field agents, with a further provision that appropriations made by the individual counties will be duplicated by the state. From the splendid reports coming in from all over the state to the Superintendent of Public Instruction and to the Agricultural College, the Bankers' Association was convinced that it could not afford to discontinue its support of the movement until such time as it could be taken over and carried forward by the state.

MRS. G. A. BEST ENTERTAINS

One of the most enjoyable events of the season took place at the home of Mrs. G. A. Best on west Illinois street on Wednesday from 2 p. m. until 5, when she entertained about thirty ladies. The afternoon was spent doing fancy work and guessing games, Mrs. D. Johnson winning the prize. Miss Ethel Morris gave a reading in her usual pleasing manner.

A most delicious two course lunch was served. Mrs. W. Langton and Mrs. H. Best assisted the hostess in serving, after which the guests departed to their homes declaring Mrs. Best the best entertainer ever. The guests present were: Mesdames E. Goff, D. Kopp, N. E. Britt, A. Palmer, I. Hanning, W. Wharton, Wallace, W. W. Nelson, C. A. Eldridge, J. Barcroft, E. C. Baird, W. Wight, J. Whiton, D. Johnson, E. Harvey, J. Larkin, G. Larkin, C. Larkin, G. Lutz, H. Gordon, W. Morris, R. B. Linville, T. H. Patterson, W. J. Langton, H. Best, Miss Ethel Morris and Miss Ella Best.

MAN AND WOMAN SHOT AT BALLSTON

Lou W. Davis Slays Mother-in-law and Wounds a Neighbor.

Dallas, Ore., June 30.—(Special.)—In the little village of Ballston, about nine miles northwest of Dallas, Lou W. Davis shot and killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Eliza J. Stewart, this morning and shot and morally wounded Ben Agee, a neighbor.

Davis went to the Stewart home at Ballston this morning about 7 o'clock and inquired for his wife. Mrs. Stewart and her husband, G. M. Stewart, were in the house. Mrs. Davis was outside. Stewart had a revolver and told Davis not to enter the house or he would shoot. Davis started for the door and went inside. Stewart left the house by a back door and went to a neighbor's for aid.

He secured the aid of Ben Agee. In the meantime Davis had been told that his wife was outside. He went out to get his wife and they returned to the house together. When Stewart returned to the house with Agee they found Davis, Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Davis together in the kitchen.

DAVIS BEGINS SHOOTING.

As Stewart and Agee entered Davis began shooting with a .32-caliber automatic revolver. The first shot struck Mrs. Stewart in the mouth and the bullet ranged upwards and came out at the top of the head, piercing the brain. Three shots struck Agee, one in the shoulder, one in the breast, penetrating the lungs, and one in the back.

Though mortally wounded, Agee aided Stewart in grappling with Davis and together they threw him and tied him. Davis was beaten considerably in the scuffle. Agee was rushed to a Portland hospital.

Davis had been drinking this morning. Information will be filed against Davis charging him with murder in the first degree, but little hope of convicting him is entertained here, as Davis has an unbalanced mind. He was released from the State Asylum for the Insane about four months ago.

WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE.

About two years ago Davis' wife Mattie M. Davis, began suit for divorce, charging drunkenness. Davis had been a heavy drinker. The suit unbalanced his mind, weakened as it was by drink, and he was sent to the asylum. At the time he was arrested on this charge, he was carrying two loaded revolvers with him and had made repeated threats to kill the Sheriff, his mother-in-law and father-in-law, and several others whom he thought had injured him. It took three men to land him in jail.

About two months ago Mrs. Davis filed a new suit for divorce. Davis had the idea that his wife's parents were to blame for the trouble between him and his wife and often stated that if it were not for them that his wife would come back to him.

FLOWER MISSION DAY

The Annual Flower Mission program was given, Wednesday 25th, at the home of Mrs. Matthews. On account of the inclemency of the weather the luncheon was served in the dining room instead of on the lawn.

A great number of bouquets were distributed, where needed to the living.

A program consisted of appropriate selections of readings and songs. One beautiful song, seemed to be made for the occasion, was sung by Mrs. Whiteley, with Miss Vera Seely accompanying on the piano. These are the words:

You can help a load to lighten
As you go;
Shedding smiles the way to brighten
As you go;
You may never know the token
Of a kindly word that's spoken,
You may cheer a heart that's broken,
As you go.
You may fill the world with beauty,
As you go,
Every moment find some duty
As you go,
Let each day be filled with blessing,
Seek to comfort the distressing,
Joy your heart will be possessing,
As you go.
Tho' the way may oft be dreary,
As you go,
Let your heart be never weary,
As you go,
Let your life with joy be ringing,
To the cross of Christ still clinging,
In the darkest hour keep singing
Chorus.
Send out the sunshine as you pass along,
Seek some heart to brighten,
Cheer it with a song,
Little deeds of kindness
Set the world aglow
Scatter them about you
As you go. Sec'y.

SARAH TRENHOLM DECEASED

Died at her home near Amity, June 30, 1913, Mrs. Sarah Trenholm, of heart failure, aged 72 years. Ten years ago she came to Newberg where Mr. Trenholm died. She continued to make her home here until a few months ago when on account of failing health, she went to Amity to make her home with her daughter. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Farnsworth and Mrs. Hattie Withee, both of Amity. She had been a faithful member of the Methodist church since a young girl. Funeral services were held at Amity, Wednesday morning after which she was laid to rest beside her husband.

Yamhill County Chautauqua
WILL OPEN ON SATURDAY, JULY 5, AT McMINNVILLE AND CONTINUE UNTIL THURSDAY, JULY 10TH

Chautauquas are not a money making proposition, nor were they ever intended to be, but the man who first got the Chautauqua idea into his head and carried it out as a starter was a public benefactor. In an association of this kind a lot of wholesome and instructive entertainment is furnished the public at a nominal cost, and to make it a success somebody must sacrifice time and do a lot of hard work for the love of the cause.

McMinnville is to be congratulated in that somebody has been found who was willing to make the sacrifice this year in taking the management of this, the first Chautauqua Assembly ever attempted to be held in the county.

A good program has been provided and all who may attend, are sure to be repaid for the time spent. McMinnville is close at hand and doubtless many Newberg people will take advantage of this opportunity to get a day or two off and enjoy a series of good programs of entertainments.

Cuts of two of the attractions offered will be found on this page.
