W. A. King and family were up from Portland to spend the Fourth.

Mrs. H. R. Morris is planning to start on a visiting trip East within a week or two.

Pastor Keim, of the Brethren church, was over from Ridgefield, Washington, last Sunday.

Mrs. M. McDonald and Miss Ethel Morris went to McMinnville Wednesday to attend Chautauqua.

Thomas Prince, who is home from his trip to his former home in Massachusetts, was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. John Hutchinson and Mrs. W. A. Bales returned from a visit with friends in Salem Wednesday.

The Misses Lorine Otis and Reta McDonald have been in McMinnville during the week attending Chautauqua.

Mrs. Nettie Nicholson, a sister of Mrs. J. C. Coleord, and her daughter, Alta, are here from Caldwell, Idaho, on a visit.

Alexander Hull took his departure for Port Orford on last Monday where he will rusticate during the vacation season.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mills came out from Portland Thursday evening and spent the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hollingsworth.

Ezra Nash has taken a five-year lease on a small but well improved farm out south of Dayton where he and his mother are expecting to locate soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Smith, who were recently married at Vancouver, Washington, returned home from a short trip to Tillamook on Wednesday morning.

D. G. Kneeshaw, former cashier of the First National Bank, came out from Portland with a young gentleman friend and some young ladies for the Fourth and he is still in town.

Maxfield Davis, of Minneapolis, Minnesota, has been in town during the week visiting with his uncle, Francis A. Morris. He contemplates engaging in the insurance business in Portland.

Lester and Marvin Moore went to Portland last Sunday to see their mother who is in the hospital. They found her getting along nicely and good reports have since been heard from her.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Mittering, who recently arrived in Portland from Chicago, spent the Fourth in Newberg with his aunt, Mrs. R. Bahringer. They are expecting to locate somewhere in the Northwest.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, of Corvallis, stopped over in Newberg on Wednesday for a visit with friends and relatives, while on their way to Oregon City to visit their son who is in the drug business in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, of Afton, Iowa, have been in town during the week, visiting with Dr. Hesters. This is their second visit to Oregon and they express themselves as being pleased with the improvement noted in this section of the state.

J. E. Eldridge was in town last week rigging up a wagon for a trip to the McKenzie hot springs located on the McKenzie river east of Eugene. He is going for the purpose of trying the healing virtues of the hot spring water and will remain for some time if conditions seem favorable.

Tom Herd Sr. was home from Timber Wednesday for a visit with his family.

W. E. White and Frank Baughman are planning a trip to Tillamook to take a look at the country.

W. G. Allen and family, of Salem, passed through Newberg by auto on the way to Portland Monday.

Miss Nell Adams expects to leave here this, Thursday, afternoon for Seaside where she will spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Coulson and little one spent last Sunday in Portland, visiting at the home of Mrs. Coulson's mother.

Oliver Charles spent several days in Portland last week in attendance at the World's Christian Citizenship Conference.

Mrs. Mary Pearson, a sister of Mrs. Ruth Heston and Mrs. Rebecca Marr, is here from Redlands, California on a visit.

W. S. Parker remained at home last week to take his father's place in the store, the latter being off his rations for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Ferguson have gone to Bayocean Park to attend the annual meeting of druggists which is being held there this week.

Prof. M. D. Hawkins writes the Graphic from Baker that he saw the "wild west" to a finish in a two days' celebration in that city July 4-5.

Miss Edna B. Newlin who arrived here on last Monday from Whittier, California, for a visit, is making her home while in Newberg with Mrs. J. T. Smith.

S. A. Mills and family and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hollingsworth are off on a fishing and auto trip to the McKenzie river. They will probably be gone a couple of weeks.

J. C. and C. A. Hodson received information last week from Spiceland, Indiana, of the death of their oldest brother, Levi Hodson, which resulted from a fall from a wagon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Elliott were down from Salem last Sunday, visiting with the Parkers. Dr. J. R. and Mrs. Pemberton, of Metolius, and A. T. Hill, of La Grande, came with them.

Horace Cox, who was a resident of Newberg at one time and who has been cashier of a bank in Arlington for the past several years, was in Newberg on business for a short time the first of the week.

T. H. Thorne returned home on Monday from a trip to Morrow and Umatilla counties. He formerly lived in Umatilla county but says the valley appeals to him most. Crop prospects are promising in the sections he visited.

The fish car belonging to the state and being used to transport trout from one point to another for propagating purposes, passed through Newberg Tuesday evening, being attached to the 5:27 passenger train. The attendants in charge said they had a supply of Rainbow trout that were to be carried out to the Coast Mountain streams from La Fayette and McMinnville.

At the council meeting held on Monday night final action was taken in the matter of paying South College street from Second to Sixth and notice of said improvement will be found in this issue of the Graphic. A petition was presented by property owners on Wynoski street asking for hard surface paving which was favorably considered by the council. The billiard and pool-room proposition was tabled in compliance with a remonstrance with many signatures, which was presented.

Miss Fay E. Price, of Portland, was the guest of Miss Golda Wilson the latter part of last week.

Mrs. L. T. Price and daughter, Beth, were up from Portland last week visiting with Mrs. M. F. Wilkins.

Mrs. Roscoe Cahill is out from Portland with her brother, Will Craven, who is here harvesting his raspberry crop.

County Surveyor H. W. Herring was down from McMinnville Wednesday doing some road surveying out northwest of town.

Miss Jessie Gardner and C. B. Wilson and family visited with relatives in McMinnville last Sunday and attended the Chautauqua.

On Wednesday at Crede's meat market there were fifty-one head of as fine dressed hogs hanging in the cold storage room as one often sees at any season of the year. Forty-nine of the number were bought from Mr. Baughman who lives on the Dayton road at Chehalis Creek. At eight cents a pound on foot, a few hogs sold these days helps out the bank account very materially.

The Clemmens family, of Newberg, was covered with glory at the third annual sweet pea exhibit held at the Oregon Hotel in Portland Tuesday and Wednesday. Henry Clemmens was awarded a gold medal for the best general exhibit in vases without foliage, and second prize, the American flag, new design, for floral piece. Mrs. J. Clemmens was awarded the Portland Seed Co.'s challenge trophy for the second time for the best eight vases of Spencers, and first prize for best vase salmon or orange Spencers. For the largest and best display of not less than 12 vases grown outside of Multnomah County by any amateur, the first prize, Captain Pope silver trophy, was won by Belden Clemmens. Wednesday's Oregonian contained a large picture showing the Clemmens exhibit to good advantage.

A reader of the Graphic, who walked two miles into the country to attend the Chehalis Center celebration on the Fourth, says it was one of the most successful neighborhood affairs he has ever been privileged to attend. The children and young people gave a realistic presentation from Longfellow's Hiawatha in its various characters in life form, showing excellent training all through. The well located, deep shaded woods with the wigwams, the charmingly dressed Indians with their drills and the well modulated, expressive reading by Mrs. McGuire, made the beautiful poem next to a living reality, and the whole program was much appreciated. Our informant, who is none other than John Illig, a member of the Newberg school board, says such a well rendered literary program ought to be an inspiration to old and young in any neighborhood where one is given.

DR. H. F. ONG MAKES A VALUABLE DISCOVERY

Those who were students of Pacific College back in the nineties, will remember that H. F. Ong who graduated in the class of 1896, had a great fancy for the study of electricity and that he spent a good deal of time trying to dig out something new.

This same tendency has remained with him and last Sunday's Oregonian contained a write-up of a new discovery he has made for removing carbon from automobile engines by a simple and inexpensive chemical combination which he has effected.

Dr. Ong states that he submitted his proposition to a number of auto manufacturing firms and that he has finally made terms with the Franklin people of N. Y. By the terms of his signed agreement with them he is to become the possessor of any new car he may choose once a year for twenty years. Sunday's paper gives a picture of a new $4,000 Franklin machine, this being the first of the twenty he is to receive.

Besides the new machines it is understood that he is to receive a royalty on his discovery besides.

SPECIAL MUSIC

On next Sunday evening, July 13th, at 8:00 o'clock the choir of the Baptist church will give an evening of music to the public.

Several times I have heard people in this town say that there wasn't much musical talent here. I have found this to be untrue and expect to prove it next Sunday evening. There is plenty of talent here if it is only used and put under the right kind of leadership.

The members of the Baptist choir are not trained singers, but they have good voices and the ability to sing good music as you may see by the program here given, which, by the way, is not complete:

By the Rivers of Babylon—Chorus.
Still, Still with Thee—Male Quartet.
O, Dry Those Tears—Mr. Blackstone.
My Faith Looks Up to Thee—Mixed Quartet.

Offertory.
Ten Minute Talk—Rev. Norwood.
Praise the Lord—Ladies Quartet.
Gently Lead Us—Duet, Mrs. Cook and Mr. Blackstone.

In the Upper Garden—Mixed Quartet.
Solo—Selected.

One Sweetly Solemn Thought—Chorus.

The offering will be used to buy new music for the choir.

This is the first of a series of musicals the choir expects to give during the summer, the next being secular.

RESTRICTING IMMIGRATION

Three hundred years ago this North American continent, with its vast forests, its coursing rivers, its fertile plains, was tenanted only by a few savages who hunted, fished, and scratched an occasional hillside for a meager crop of corn.

Since then a steady steam has poured in from all parts of crowded Europe, to grow, to spread abroad, to prosper. We have hewn down the forests, harnessed the rivers, used and misused the abounding riches of the soil. We have created a great nation, great in industry, great in technical invention, great in luxury and wealth, great also, as we hope, in things of higher and more permanent importance.

But many as we are, we have not yet filled or grown to our surroundings. Compared with other civilized regions of the world, our country, in its western and southern part at least, is comparatively unoccupied. On the other hand, Europe, and still more Asia, are aching with fullness, crowded with millions who are hungry for the good things we have, or are thought to have. Shall we dam the tide now, shall we stop the influx, shall we say, "This is ours, and no outsiders shall intrude upon it?"

Our display of the new footwear styles, just received, demands the attention of every woman interested in exclusive models, correct shades and glove-like fit.

We feature Utz & Dunn Co. footwear for women, a standard of excellence for 30 years. There is a style in this line to suit every taste, together with dependable quality that is nowhere excelled.

shall intrude upon it?"

What reason is there in such an attitude, what fairness, what justice? Our ancestors had no claim except that of conquest. They wanted, and they came and took. Why should we forbid others who are in far greater need to come and take at least what we cannot use?

It is answered that we have the right of self-preservation. No matter how our property was acquired, it is ours. No one shall take it from us or share it with us.

It is answered more subtly that the line must be drawn somewhere. If we throw the gates wide, we shall ruin ourselves and hardly benefit others. In a few generations all alike would be reduced to the same economic misery that prevails in the more crowded parts of Europe and of China.

But there is another answer still, in which, however, selfishness must be carefully distinguished from philanthropy. The United States has undertaken the greatest governmental experiment the world has ever seen—the effort of many millions of people to govern themselves. The experiment may fail; but it seems worth while, for the sake of all humanity, to give it every chance of success. Now, nothing can balk it so effectually as to introduce millions of ignorant, passionate, impulsive voters, or non-voters, who neither know nor care what popular government means. Already we have so many of them that our task is far more difficult than it was a century ago. Unrestricted immigration may make it virtually impossible. And this is the only unselfish argument that can be offered for closing the doors.

But if we are to act on this argument, one condition is essential. We must see to it, collectively and individually, that we are worthy of the high stand we have taken. We must make our government an example to all men, so that all men will feel that they gain more than they lose by leaving us free to work it out in the conditions necessary for success.

Bargains

We are closing out our clothing at extremely low figures in order to make room for our fall and winter stock which will soon arrive. It is not our intention to carry a single suit over. This means a bargain for you.
