Elmer Everest and family are at Tillamook.

Omer Fendall went to Newport Wednesday on a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Jeffries came home from Newport last week.

Miss Elva Burness, of Portland, is visiting in town with Mrs. E. L. Evans.

Miss Ella Crawford spent last Monday in Newberg visiting at the home of Mrs. W. E. Terrell.

Mrs. Lee Fortune, who has been in poor health and in Dr. Rankin's care, is much improved.

Mrs. Nelson J. Sykes and children were up from Portland on a visit the latter part of last week.

Miss Lucile, the daughter of Mrs. J. E. Kennedy, came down from Dallas last Monday for a visit.

Joseph Langelier has charge of the delivery of daily papers for Albert Benson who is still confined at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Evans left here on Wednesday for Duluth, Minnesota, where he is promised a job in a printing office.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Kaufman were called to Portland Wednesday on account of the serious illness of one of their nieces.

Miss Eva Wilson returned to her home in Portland Monday after visiting for a few days with her friend, Mrs. Austin Bowman.

Representative J. A. Chapman, of Washington county and a Middleton hop grower, was in Newberg on business Wednesday.

Prof. and Mrs. W. C. Woodward and W. A. King and family, of Portland, are home from Nye Creek beach where they spent a week.

Ezra Hayes has moved his office to the Graphic building where he will be glad to serve those who want notary work done.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Linnville arrived home Tuesday from a vacation of two weeks at the Tillamook beaches and report a very pleasant time.

Dr. T. W. Hester went to Newport on Tuesday to rest up from his recent sickness before taking up his practice again. He will be gone ten days or two weeks.

Mrs. John Shearer who was struck by a passenger engine and severely injured on Tuesday of last week is improving as rapidly as could be expected for one of her age.

Robert E. Staryhorn, of the Portland, Eugene & Eastern, was billed for a visit to Newberg today, Thursday, to talk over the depot question with our people, but wired at the last moment that he would be unable to get here on the schedule.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Vestal gave a party last Thursday evening in honor of the sixteenth birthday anniversary of their son, Clifford, the guests being the eighth grade graduating class and the Sunday school class of which he is a member. Games and refreshments added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Tyre Hutchins and family were up from Portland on a visit with relatives last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rood went to Portland this, Thursday morning to see a niece who is dangerously sick at St Vincent's Hospital with no hope of her recovery.

Horace Cox, who is cashier of a bank at Arlington, spent Sunday and Monday here visiting with A. T. Blair and J. T. Smith, whom he knew here when Newberg was very young in years.

The F. E. Vestal sale on the Verateeg farm on Chehalis Mountain held Tuesday was satisfactory in every way. Apparently all who were in attendance were there as buyers and property sold well.

Special meetings will be held at Friends church in Rex on Friday and Saturday nights of this week, on Sunday at 11 o'clock, at 2:30 in the afternoon and at night by Rev. H. Elmer Pemberton, of Salem.

R. P. Loomis and family are moving to Seattle this week where he has accepted a position in a bank. Mr. and Mrs. Loomis made many friends during their short stay in Newberg who regret to see them leave.

John Shearer received a letter from a brother living in Kansas a few days ago who stated that he was arranging his affairs with a view of coming to Oregon. He was out here a few years ago and knows what to expect.

Anderson Hodgson, of Washouga, who was spirited away to Portland by his grandchildren on the date of the Ringling circus, came out Saturday for a short visit with Paul Macy at Springbrook and was in Newberg on Sunday.

Miss Genevive Courtney, of Portland, daughter of Dr. Courtney, formerly of Dayton, was in Newberg last Monday making application for a position as history teacher in the high school. While in town she was the guest of Mrs. J. B. Mount.

Mrs. Chas. A. Morris, who recently went for a visit with home folks at Peoria, Illinois, with the intention of being away six weeks, writes of the discomforts of the hot weather and is evidently anxiously waiting for a letter of invitation for her to return to Oregon at an earlier day.

Dr. J. W. Withycombe, of O. A. C., whom it is said will again be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, passed through Newberg last Saturday on the way to the Grange picnic at Sherwood which he was billed to address.

Dr. Rankin was called to Sherwood last Monday to patch up the head of a farmer named John Beck who fell from an overturned hay rack and tore the whole top of his scalp away, twenty-four stitches being required to hold it in place again. Mr. Beck was alone when he fell but was picked up by an auto party who took him to Sherwood.

Rev. George C. Ritchey who recently sold his new bungalow built on a tract just east of town bought off the Mackie land, to Mrs. Rannie Atkinson, has begun work on the foundation for another bungalow near by but facing toward the Portland road. Mr. Ritchey is a successful dealer in real estate as well as a good pastor of a flock.

Mrs. Lincoln left here for Seattle last Monday.

Harry Klock, who went to Nebraska some time last season, has returned and is located with his wife and little one in the Kaufman property on the corner of North River and Hancock streets. He is again driving a team for the Newberg Transfer Co.

Thomas Woodruff who has been mail carrier between the railway station and the post-office for a long time, has tendered his resignation on account of the small pay. Bids are being advertised for by the postoffice department for letting the contract.

The meeting held at the high school building on Friday night of last week in the interest of school fair exhibits was very poorly attended, though the talks made by Superintendent S. S. Duncan and N. C. Maris were such as to deserve a good audience.

The familiar figure of Mr. Webster the long time conductor on the Southern Pacific lines, spent a few hours in Newberg Tuesday. On account of his long service with the company he is now retired on a pension of nearly $50 a month and is looking well after a rest of several months.

An auto truck load of old veterans and their wives, some twenty or more, went to McMinville today, Thursday, to attend the annual meeting of the Yamhill County Veterans' Association. Rev. Ezra Hayes is on the program for an address and some of the Newberg women are to sing.

C. R. Duer and family are planning to leave next week for a visit with relatives at Cleveland, Ohio, their former home. Mr. Duer will be gone a month, while Mrs. Duer and the children will remain longer. They have been away three years and consequently are looking forward to the trip with much pleasure.

Prof. Harold Marshall who is to be acting professor of mathematics in Pacific College the coming year, during the continued absence of Prof. Oliver Weesner, arrived here from Iowa last Saturday evening. He came by way of Southern California and took the salt water route from San Pedro to Portland.

Mrs. Wm. Gray and daughter, Miss Viola, of Lincoln, Nebraska, the latter a high school teacher in that city, spent last Sunday in Newberg visiting with their former Nebraska friends, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Wallace. Mrs. Wallace spent Monday in Portland with them. They were delighted with Newberg and said they would be glad to make this their home.

Fred Barnes who is chairman of the school board at Camas, Washington, was in Newberg last Saturday and Sunday in company with Mrs. Barnes, they being the guests of Miss Andrews who taught last year in the Camas school. Mr. Barnes made the statement that Newberg had more good residences than any other town of the same size he had ever been in.

Miss Esther Andrews, a former professor in Pacific College whose home is at Whittier, California, spent Sunday and Monday in Newberg visiting at the home of Mrs. W. E. Terrell. She was on her way home from a trip abroad and will take up teaching in the public schools in Pasadena. She spent a year at study in Germany and also traveled extensively through that country and in England.

W. E. Crozer and family are at Newport on a vacation where a reunion of the Crozer family is being held, two brothers being out from the East on a visit.

Chris Held recently exchanged his residence property on the corner of North Meridian and Hancock streets for the Nelson Brouillette home on the corner of South College and Fifth streets. Mr. Brouillette has since traded the Held property for some acreage out in the Fernwood neighborhood where he will locate and get close to nature as soon as he can get a house built.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hoskins returned last week from a trip to Tillamook where they went in company with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Sartin, of Cedarvale, Kansas, who were out on a visit, Mrs. Sartin and Mr. Hoskins being cousins. This was the first trip made by Mr. and Mrs. Sartin to Oregon and the sight of the big trees, the big waters of the Pacific and many other things were both novel and interesting to them.

The Spaulding Logging Co. is furnishing a bill of lumber for a new building to be erected on the Marion county side of the river at a point a little way out from the end of the new bridge, purporting to be a hotel, but it is supposed that it will be a road house with all that the term implies. The name of the builder the Graphic is unable to give, but it is said to be a party who owns a tract of land at that point.

On Thursday of last week, Miss Maude E. Switzer was married to Harold V. Waldron at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Switzer, west of Newberg. Rev. Ezra Hayes officiating. For several months the bride has been one of the popular telephone girls at the office of the Newberg Telephone Co. and the groom has held a position as book-keeper in the First National Bank for the past two years.

C. B. Wilson and family and Miss Jessie Gardner, who went on a fishing trip to Trask River with Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hoskins, of McMinville, and Orie Macy, of Independence, are home again and report a good catch of fish. They walked in from the end of the Carlton logging road, a distance of eighteen miles over the mountains and came out in the same way. Since the mail is now carried into Tillamook by the railroad, travel over the Yamhill and Tillamook wagon road has been practically abandoned and settlers on the upper Trask are more nearly out of the world than they were a quarter of a century ago, as there are few who pass that way and they have no passing mail facilities.

Wm. Crawford, who was the founder of Port Rock in Lake county where he took up land and put in a store when that section was being settled up a few years ago, recently sold out at a good profit and is now in Newberg. He is one of the heirs of the Crawford vacant block located on the east side of North Meridian street and north of Hancock.

The heirs made a division of the property a few days ago and he not only received the northwest quarter of the block but has since bought out one of his brothers who received the southeast quarter. He has a commodious tent pitched under the spreading branches of the big oak tree which will be his home until he builds a new house on the bungalow style which he is planning.

CHEHALEM CENTER

The Christian Endeavor Business Meeting and Social will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Childers Friday evening.

Miss Rosa Hendrickson visited Portland friends during the past two weeks.

Next Sunday Rev. Walter Wilson's pastorate at Chehalis Center will be over for this year. While it is to be regretted that we lose such a good and worthy pastor and wife, our loss will be Springbrook's gain and they have the good wishes of all the community in their new charge.

Mrs. Elizabeth Meyers, S. W. Newhouse, J. C. Wills, M. E. Hodges, Mary P. Johnson, C. L. Johnson and the Misses Maude and Mildred Wills were the delegation from Chehalis Center W. C. T. U. in attendance at the entire County W. C. T. U. Convention at Newberg last week. The convention was very interesting and profitable. The W. C. T. U. ladies of Newberg entertained in such royal good style for which they receive the thanks of all the visiting delegations.

Clinton Newhouse and family, of Dayton, were visitors at "Shady Nook" Monday.

Miss Louis Smith, State L. T. L. worker, spent some time with Chehalis Center friends and gave a splendid talk at the church Sunday afternoon, telling of the many evils of intemperance and how to make Oregon dry in 1914.

Last Friday evening the young folks numbering twenty-nine completely surprised Miss Christine Meyers at her home. Mrs. G. Crocker, kindly assisted by entertaining the Misses Christine and Ruth Meyers and Miss Doris Hazenberg early in the evening until the young people had gathered in the parlor of the Meyers home. As Miss Meyers came home she could not account for the presence of a little white dog on the steps, but still unthinkingly walked into the darkened rooms where she was surrounded by laughter and cheer. Each and all proceeded to enjoy themselves in playing games which were interspersed by dainty refreshments during the evening. Miss Meyers proved to be a pleasant hostess and gave a number of instrumental pieces of music on the piano.

Resourceful Livingstone.

David Livingstone, explorer and missionary, was a man of varied accomplishments. Besides getting himself taught on board ship, and later by Sir Thomas Maclear, to take with great accuracy astronomical observations for fixing latitude and longitude, besides acquainting himself with botany and geology, with patristic literature and Egyptology, Livingstone was an excellent mechanic, a steersman and a mariner. His resourcefulness was at all times remarkable. When he was hard up for fuel on his first steamer journey up the river Shire, he landed in the elephant marsh. Here no trees existed and no fuel was obtainable, but his men found many bones of slaughtered elephants. Livingstone at once took the bones on board, burned them in the furnaces of the Ma-robert and so continued his journey.

A Standing Invitation.

A Chicago stenographer is so perfect in her own opinion that the boss could never tell her anything that did not bring forth an answer in her own defense. One day the president of the concern came into the office and as the boss was away down at the other end he did not see him for several minutes. The president stood at the gateway looking around silently until the boss came up and greeted him, taking him into the private office to sit down. When the president had gone the boss said:

"Miss Steno, why didn't you ask the president to sit down?"

Two Kinds of Truth.

The custom of resorting to an oath in extreme cases, sanctified as it is by all religious antiquity, is apt to introduce into the laxer sort of minds the notion of two kinds of truth; the one applicable to the solemn affairs of justice and the other to the common proceedings of daily intercourse. As truth bound upon the conscience by an oath can be but truth, so in the common affirmations of the shop and the market place a latitude is expected and conceded upon questions wanting this solemn covenant. Something less than truth satisfies.—Charles Lamb.

Safe Ground.

"What a remarkable fund of information Bliggins has!"

"Yes. He can always tell you something you didn't know. But he is always careful to select some subject that you are not sufficiently interested in to bother about verifying his statements."—Washington Star.
