Mrs. U. S. G. Miller came up from Newberg Wednesday morning for a couple of days' visit with her daughter, Mrs. A. M. Sherwood.

Thos. Kay, Jr., special deputy to Gov. Oswald West, who pulled off the billard and card room raids last week arrived in town again Wednesday morning. It is supposed he is looking into the sale of tobacco to miners by the grocery stores.

At the fair last week Mrs. James Williams, of Yamhill, had an individual exhibit of about twenty of her own art pictures which were quite generally admired, and for the display of which she was given a five-dollar prize. Mrs. Williams exhibited these pictures and a large collection of potted plants at the Yamhill fair, which were greatly admired. But few persons have so large a collection of their own art work.

Speaking of large yields of oats, Charles Daniels reports that from three acres of new land on the place owned by himself, Mr. Vinton and Mr. Feeley at Bridwell station, there was threshed 164 bushels to the acre. This yield is so large that it seems almost incredulous. The grain was so heavy that the sickle bar had to be raised as high as possible and only a part of the width of the swath could be cut each round of the reaper. The land had been cleared, summer-fallowed, and disced and seeded the following spring. The tract had been thoroughly tilled also, which Mr. Daniels claims has added much to the productivity of the land.

CHEHALEM CENTER

Mrs. Henkle and Miss Scott, of Portland, stopped over on an auto trip from the State Fair and made a visit at the S. W. Atkinson home last Sunday.

Mr. Edwards, a professor of music, wishes to meet with all those who are interested in music at the school house next Saturday evening.

Mr. Chamberlain has closed down his prune dryer for the season.

Mr. Jno. Heinold, from Tremont, Michigan, a cousin of Miss Hazel Miller and Wardie Miller made them a visit leaving Monday for Coos Bay to visit his grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Miller, an old time resident of Newberg who used to have a jewelry shop in Newberg.

The school board announces there will be an election on the 18th of a director who will take the place of Mr. Page.

Mrs. Amelia Manthey accompanied Mr. H. L. Strait home from her daughter's home in Tillamook where she had been staying since the early part of summer.

Rev. H. G. Crocker was called to Emporia, Kansas, last Thursday to attend the bedside of his mother who is seriously ill.

Dr. and Mrs. Luther R. Dyott of First Congregational church, of Portland, and Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, also of Portland, motored out to see Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Crocker on Friday of last week and spent the day.

Knew Something About It

"Marie," said Mr. Valesburg to his wife.

"Yes, John."

"I have something on my mind that I must tell you before I can ever be happy."

"I shall be glad to hear anything you have to say, John."

"It is hard to tell you, but I can't hide the truth any longer. Marie, I married you under false pretenses."

"You did?"

"Do you remember what it was that brought us together?"

"Can I ever forget it, John? We were at the bathing beach, I was drowning, and you saved me after I had given myself up for lost."

"And afterward, in gratitude, you married me."

"Yes, I felt that I owed my life to you."

"Marie, I deluded you about that rescue business. Where you believed yourself drowning the water was only waist deep."

"I knew it, John," she answered. "I had one foot on the bottom all the time."

Poor Old Pa

"Why, ma, where are you going in such a hurry?"

"To your pa's office," replied Mrs. Allrocks. "I just tried calling him up by telephone and heard him tell the office boy he was too busy to talk to me. I'll show him what I let him have a telephone in his office for."

Identified

"Is that your prodigal son?" inquired the visitor to Uncle Zeke's farm, pointing to the youth who spent most of his time swinging in a hammock.

"No," laughed Uncle Zeke, pleasantly. "He's my fattest calf."

Right on the Job

During a flood which swept away several railroad bridges and quite a stretch of track an operator in a country town along the line saw one of the company's box cars floating down the river. Instantly he sprang to his key and reported the matter to the main office.

"Mr. James," eagerly cried the operator in the main office to a railroad chief, "V. G. reports that a box car is floating down the river at his place!"

"Is it ours?" asked the railroad, still looking over the pile of papers before him.

"He says it is," answered the main office operator after another spasm of telegraphy, "and wants to know what to do."

"All right," smiled the railroad man. "Just tell him to swim out to it and set the brakes."

A Model

A witty professional man was chatting with some women about a friend of theirs who was notoriously henpecked. His better half makes him walk a chalked line, and woe be unto him if he deviates from it.

"He is a model husband!" exclaimed one woman in the party. "Nay, not model, put modeled," interrupted the professional man, "but whether in clay or putty deponent sayeth not."

The Squeeze Play

The girl was willing, but the baseball player was diffident. She had to resort to strategy.

"Jim," she said, "there are several points of the game that I wish you would explain."

"Where shall I begin?" he asked delighted.

"I should like to—er—" she hesitated, blushing, "know more about the 'squeeze play.'"

Wages and Salary

Gabe—What is the difference between wages and salary?

Steve—When a man gets wages he saves a few dollars a week. But when he gets a salary he borrows a few dollars a week.

Selfish Rejoicing

"I rejoice that the world is filled with sunshine," said the fat man.

"Ah, you are no optimist," remarked the thin man.

"No," replied the fat man, "I am an awning manufacturer."
