$1.50 Per Year in Advance

THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1914

For free distribution, a large assortment of personal cards of those who are now in the "also ran" class.

Many thought they were called but the primary election verified the Scripture statement that few are chosen.

All is not gold that glitters—so say a lot of fellows since the results of the primary election have been published.

The Fletcher merry-go-round is again in place near the Graphic office, grinding out the same old tune in the same old way. How empty are words in making an attempt to express appreciation in such times of stress.

The modesty of Newberg republicans in asking for but one plum this year was rewarded. C. B. Wilson, our only candidate, received the nomination for county clerk. He will have a walk-over at the election.

Many people think a mistake was made in fixing the primary so far in advance of the election. If a candidate should be accused of stealing sheep, surely it ought not to require more than thirty days in which to hatch up the proof necessary to convict. Then why prolong the agony for six months?

The primary election seems to have left fewer sore spots among Republicans than we have seen at these political bouts in Oregon for many years. The various candidates who ran against Mr. Withycombe have signified a desire to get in and work for his election and it seems now that he will have a united party back of him.

Will Shires, of Springbrook, is a long-distance mind reader, and better still, he don't believe in "absent treatment." Just as there was being an intense longing developed at the Graphic office for some strawberries of the better kind, here came Will with some great big, rich, red ones of the "Oregon" variety, that just touched the right spot. 'Tis sweet to be remembered in strawberry time in Oregon.

A preacher must have more than average ability to be able to hold successfully the same audience, Sunday after Sunday, for more than thirty minutes in the delivery of a sermon, and those who know best how to boil down their sermons and who hold themselves down to something near this time limit, are the ministers who maintain the strongest hold on their congregations all the year through. It is the cream the people want, not skimmed milk, and time spent in the delivery of superfluous utterances is wasted.

There is no man in Oregon who could better represent the productive interests of the state as the standard bearer for the Republican party in the coming campaign, than will Dr. James Withycombe in his candidacy for the office of governor. For years he was a practical Washington county farmer and stockman, and of recent years he has been a forceful leader through the medium of the State Agricultural College in promoting intensive farming, dairying and stock raising throughout the state. He is a man of clean habits, he is loyal to every legitimate interest represented within our borders and he is entitled to and should receive the full party vote at the election.

A number of women who were a little hazy on party affiliations and who consequently registered as "independent", were somewhat non-plussed on finding they had no ticket to vote and were shut out at the primary. Possibly this is the class the voter belongs to who deposited a neatly folded ballot in Precinct No. 3 without having made a single mark to indicate a choice of candidates.

B. F. Jones who made the race for congress against W. C. Hawley, lays his defeat to the prohibition sentiment throughout the district and says that he believes that at the November election, the vote outside of Multnomah county will be two to one for a dry state. He says "the air is full of it." Others who have traveled about the state say the dry sentiment is growing rapidly and they believe the wets will be snowed under by a good safe majority.

The Oregon Messenger, the Democratic weekly paper published at Salem which has no love for Governor West and which made a hard fight against the nomination of Dr. Smith, came out on Saturday following the primary election with a picture of A. S. Bennett on the first page, coupled with the statement that "His election is assured. He will be the best governor Oregon ever had." A case of being just a little too hasty in making broad assertions, but of course the Messenger will repent and get in and work for the election of Dr. Smith.

In answer to the question, "Why go to College", G. F. Reynolds in the Lawrence College Bulletin says: It is estimated that since the United States was founded, only one man in 750 has gone to college. Yet this small number has furnished 17 of the 26 presidents, 19 of the 27 vice-presidents, and 17 of the 34 persons in the Hall of Fame. It is estimated that only 1 per cent of the population are college people but this 1 per cent has furnished 29 of the 51 governors of states and territories, 61 of the 93 United States Senators, 272 of the 395 Congressmen, and 9 of the 9 Justices of the Supreme Court.

TO CELEBRATE BIRTH OF REPUBLICAN PARTY

May 29, 1856, marked the birth of the Republican party at Bloomington, Illinois. The passing of 58 years seems like a long time to young people. Those who were children at that time are now put down in the elderly list, if they are still living, and those who were mature at that date are nearing the end.

The Carlinville, Illinois, Democrats says: "Assemblage of many men now in public life will mark the observance on Friday, May 29, at Bloomington, of the birth of the Republican party, are indicated in acceptances which have been received by the committee in charge of arrangements for the gathering.

"George W. Wickersham, of New York, attorney-general during the Taft administration, is to be the principal speaker. The scene of celebration will be only three blocks from the site of the building where the Republican party was born in 1856, on May 29.

"This historic structure still stands and is an object of great interest to historians. It was in this hall that fifty-eight years ago Abraham Lincoln delivered his famous 'lost speech,' and this address which was later written out by a group of newspaper men and others will be read at the coming celebration and will be an interesting feature of the program. A 'dollar banquet' at which 700 will be seated will be served preliminary to the speaking."

The McMinnville College ball team collapsed with a severe case of cold feet, such as has seldom if ever been seen on a diamond, at the close of the ninth inning last Saturday, when the P. C. team tied up the score. The visitors, who, up to this time had been in high glee, refused to play off the tie and hurried home to their mothers.

Ed Piper, the well known railway mail clerk, has forgiven the Democratic administration for the sin of not giving him a long desired promotion, since he has received one of the daintily engraved announcements of the recent marriage of Miss Wilson at the White House. He shows the missive to his friends along the line and wears a smile that is warranted to wash and not fade.

AIDED HER RIVAL

Romance of a London Society Leader and a Diamond Necklace.

Romance often lurks in a jewelry store, and the jewelers of Bond street could if they liked tell many an amazing story. There is no need to dilate on the fascination which scintillating gems exercise upon the feminine mind. That fascination is a fact and may serve to explain a mortal enmity which existed recently and probably still exists between two well known London society leaders.

To one of these ladies a highly respected admirer mentioned his intention to purchase a diamond necklace. Knowing that the lady possessed more than a superficial knowledge of the value of stones, he begged her to select for him what he required. The price he was prepared to give was £1,500.

The lady jumped to the conclusion that such a request could have but one meaning—viz, that she herself was to be the eventual recipient of the gift. She thereupon visited the jeweler's shop and inspected his stock, but at the price she was empowered to give saw nothing that particularly took her fancy.

check on the spot for the balance. Then she went home and awaited the arrival of the gift.

Some days passed, but there was no appearance of the necklace. A horrible doubt which assailed her became a certainty a day or two later when she saw the identical necklace she had helped to pay for sparkling on the neck of a younger and more beautiful rival.—London Tatler.

Pepsin, Saliva and Gastric Juice.
Pepsin, the principal agent in the digestion of food, is a powerful solvent stored up in the walls of the stomach and only poured forth when its assistance is needed. When pure this fluid is perfectly neutral, neither acid nor alkaline, and appears to be unable to exert any action without the presence of an acid. Such acid is supplied in the gastric juice, secreted by the gastric follicles covering the coating of the stomach. The saliva is merely for the purpose of moistening the food, thus preparing it for the action of the pepsin and gastric fluids.

Significant.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the famous arctic explorer, has told many good stories of the way in which the Eskimos grasp the literal meaning of anything they hear.

An instance of this followed on a sermon preached to the Eskimos from the text, "Do not follow in the footsteps of the wicked."

"What some of the Eskimos thought of me," Mr. Stefansson remarks, "can be seen from the fact that one day I noticed that some Eskimos who were traveling behind me were being careful not to follow in my trail!"

Love.

This I, moreover, hold and dare affirm where'er my rime may go: Whatever things be sweet or fair, love makes them so; whether it be the lullabies that charm to rest the nursing bird or that sweet confidence of sighs and blushes made without a word; whether the dazling and the flush of softly sumptuous garden bowers or by some cabin door a bush of ragged flowers.—Alice Cary.
