W. B. Sims recently bought of Mr. Slater the acreage on Wynooski street, formerly known as the Martin Cook place, and is doing a lot of improvement work on it in order to make it productive. Whatever Mr. Sims undertakes to do he does well, and this is the secret of his success in buying and disposing of real estate.

In precinct No. 3 W. L. Robertson was elected as precinct committeeman on the progressive ticket by an overwhelming majority. There were two votes cast for the party and he received one of them. Others who were complimented by a single vote, though none of them belong to the party, were W. W. Nelson for attorney general, G. C. Ritchey, representative, Charles Churchill, justice of the peace, Wesley Boyes, constable.

Rev. and Mrs. E. I. Harrington are in Portland attending the annual conference of the Free Methodist church, and since they have been stationed in Newberg the full time limit of three years, they expect to be sent to some other charge. Martin has resigned his position as bookkeeper for the Yamhill Electric Co., and will leave the first of the month for Goldfield, Nevada, where he has secured a similar position with a big gold mining company at an increased salary. Miss Mary Kenworthy, professor of Greek in Pacific College, is planning to spend her vacation at the home of her parents in Richmond, Indiana, and will leave as soon as college closes, going by way of the Canadian Pacific. She will return in September to take up her work as teacher again.

The spring colt Mrs. Josie Everest drives to the family carriage is 31 years old, "and a goin' on," being still in a good state of preservation and ready for a drive on call at any time. Mrs. Everest says she has trouble keeping the mare in good flesh during the winter season but before another winter she will have her teeth fixed by a dentist so she can better masticate dry feed. When grass comes she fattens up and looks like a four-year-old.

W. A. Baker, who was in town Tuesday, said he was planting twenty acres to corn while his neighbor, George Leach, was putting in fifteen acres. He says he finds it more profitable to grow feed and put it into dairy cows and hogs than to grow grain for the market. Before planting corn he works his ground over and over until it is as mellow as an ash heap. This makes it hold the moisture and also saves a good deal of cultivation after the corn is up.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cook were over from Waconda on the Oregon Electric for a visit with relatives last Sunday. Mrs. Cook received the information recently that her grandfather, Asa Kelsey, who was a resident of Newberg a few years ago, was planning to make a trip to the Holy Land in company with his son Fdward, who is doing mission work at Ramallah. There are few men who would get Booth for United States senator and Dr. Withycombe for governor.

Since losing his job with the railroad company, carrying the mail, W. M. Woodruff has evidently been putting the burden of the family support up to the henney, with the result that he is able to report good progress, since on Tuesday morning he was exhibiting an egg that measured seven inches in circumference one way and eight and a quarter the other, and weighed 5 11-24 ounces. This faithful pullet should be given a prominent place in the parade Saturday.

Albert Benson was in town Wednesday afternoon laying in a supply of poison with which he hopes to exterminate the gray digger family of rodents that has been playing havoc with his corn crop. During the fine weather the latter part of March he planted 55 acres and had it practically all taken by the squirrels. A second planting went the same way. He has been making a war on the little pests and has them pretty well thinned out, so that with a good supply of poison he hopes to make a clean-up and still be able to get a crop. Patience and perseverance ought in this instance to bring a final reward, for a lot of both seems to be required.

Commissioner S. M. Calkins informed Mayor Colcord a few days ago that the county court placed an order four weeks ago for an oil sprinkler for roads, and that on its arrival, which is looked for at any time, work will begin on the principal roads of the county. Mr. Calkins said he thought they would be able to get over about five miles of road in a day when they got the machine to working well.

OREGON DAIRY RECORDS ARE RELATIVELY HIGH

The supremacy of Oregon as a dairy state, so often asserted by the Agricultural College dairy department, is being verified by tests and records made in various parts of the state. The number of cattle of any one breed in Oregon is very small in comparison with the number of that breed in the United States, yet the number of cows that have made note-worthy records in Oregon is a very large percentage of the entire number in the United States.

In the Jersey breed this condition is most noticeable. Of sixteen cows in the United States that have produced over 900 pounds of butter in a year 4 cows, 25 per cent, are in Oregon. Of 30 that have produced more than 800 pounds of butter, 6 cows, 20 per cent, are in Oregon. Of 105 cows that have produced more than 700 pounds of butter within a year 14, almost 15 per cent are in Oregon. There are but 5 cows in the whole country that have produced over 1,000 pounds of butter per year, but there is one more that came within 7.1 ounces of reaching the mark, and that one is an Oregon cow.

The foregoing figures are from official records, which are kept by but few dairymen. There are more than 60 breeders of pure bred Jerseys in Oregon, and but twelve are doing advanced registry work. This is called a poor showing by Professor Graves, head of the college dairy department, but it has accomplished enough to show Oregon's unexcelled dairy resources.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth M. Hadley was born in Chatham county, South Carolina, February 8, 1837.

In young womanhood she moved to Morgan county, Indiana, where on April 20, 1856 she was married to Isaac Hinshaw, who departed this life April 3, 1912. To this union nine children were born, seven of whom survive and were at her bedside during her last illness.

The family moved to Kansas, California and Washington successively, and in November 1906 the deceased and her aged husband came to Newberg to make their home.

She became a Christian at an early age and united with the Friends church. Not finding the church of her choice in the various places where she resided, she cast her lot with other branches of the church, but on coming to Newberg, she with her husband again united with Friends.

The end came on May 6, and two days later funeral services were conducted at the Friends church by Rev. Charles O. Whitely, the pastor, assisted by Rev. Walton Skipworth, pastor of the M. E. church.

COLLEGE NOTES

Dr. Hester gave a very helpful chapel talk Thursday of last week on "The Proper Use of Money."

The base ball game last Friday afternoon with McMinnville College looked like a walk-away for the visitors until the ninth inning when it began to look like a track meet for the locals. They put four men across the plate in this round, making the score 6 to 6. Although there remained thirty-five minutes till train time, the county seat lads evidently felt uneasy in regard to an additional inning, as they insisted on calling the game instead of playing off the tie. Manager Elliott offered to take them home in autos if they missed the train, but all to no avail. Home they went. Manager Brunning showed the proper spirit in wanting to play it out, but he was over-ruled by more timid counsel.

The entertainment given by the dormitory students last Friday night in Wood-Mar Hall was quite successful. Although the crowd was not as large as had been hoped for, it partly made up for the deficiency in appreciation. The program was unique, and the dormitory parlor scene, in particular, was different from the ordinary type of entertainment.

Saturday seemed to be well suited for picnic parties, there being two such celebrations up the river. One party, composed mostly of students, went in the morning and occupied the space around Mallory's Landing, while some of the more "gay and frivolous" members of the faculty set out about two thirty and went further up stream. Needless to say all got back safely—some later.

The student body and faculty enjoyed a treat Tuesday morning of this week, when Miss Katherine Romig appeared in chapel. Miss Romig sang a group of Spring songs which made quite a "hit" with the audience.

Rev. C. O. Whitely addressed the weekly Y. M. C. A. meeting on Wednesday on "The Ministry as a Life Work."

W. C. T. U. NOTES.

The W. C. T. U. will hold their regular meeting Wednesday, May 27, at 2:30 p. m., at Frances E. Matthews, 402 College street. Mrs. Charles O. Whitely will have charge of the program. Subject—Purity. All are cordially invited.

1. What are Kryptok Lenses?

Kryptok lenses are an improved form of Bifocals. By a clever patented method of fusing two kinds of specially prepared optical glass, the reading and distance portions are so combined that there are absolutely no visible dividing lines between to mar the appearance or irritate the sight.

2. Why should I buy Kryptoks?

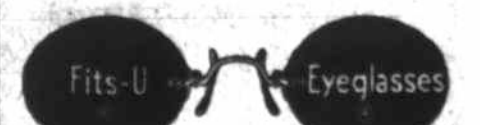

Instead of two pair of glasses, a single pair of these bifocals is all that is necessary. Compared with Kryptok lenses, the old style bifocal lenses with a reading portion pasted on are unsightly and even disfiguring. They accentuate the age of the wearer, besides making it necessary to duck and dodge the ever awkward dividing lines in a most awkward manner. But with Kryptoks all this is avoided. No one, even intimate friends, would suspect that you wear bifocals, for there are no dust-collecting visible marks to advertise the fact. Both surfaces of each lens are clean and clear.

3. Where Can I Buy Kryptoks?

Our modern methods of scientific eye examination enable us to tell exactly what your eyes need in the way of corrective lenses for far and near vision. We are fully equipped to combine these corrections exactly in Kryptok lenses. Our experience includes the perfect fitting of the lenses before the eyes in mountings best suited and most becoming to your features. This is a science to which we have given very careful study, and consequently our patrons enjoy the utmost in comfort and improved appearance.

KRYPTOK LENSES

The matter of glasses is one closely associated with your own health and happiness, and we urge you not to delay in the matter of consulting us on this very important subject. If you wear glasses, we can very easily prove the value of our service; if you do not wear glasses, we can quickly and accurately tell whether you should, and if so, what kind of glasses you need, no matter what they may be.

If we give you Kryptok lenses, fitted in Fits-U Mountings, you have absolutely the best, and you will be proud of your glasses.
