SI DRAFT GOES ROUND THE WORLD

When I was in town last week the boys in "The Big Hdwe. Store" was tellin' me about goin' round the world in automobiles to help build some little play houses for the youngsters in Newberg and I asked them if there would be any room for me to go along, and they told me to go and buy a ticket of Henry Morris or Geo. Kelly or most any of the parents or teachers, which I did and when Friday night came I rode my old mare into town and tied her in the free shed back of Larkin-Prince Hdwe. Co.'s Store, and went down to Geo. James' new depot and finally got started on train No. 3. Coaches were scarce on No. 3, but I finally got a berth. I wanted to go on the same train with the bride and groom, but they was too slow to get aboard, so I had to leave them and I heard afterward that the conductor on the Owl train gave them a berth in the smoker. The train dispatcher and the information bureau were so busy talkin' to one another that they almost forgot to give our train orders to leave, but we finally got off and the first stop was Ireland. The ride was awful short, but the buttermilk and beautiful Irish Biddies left a taste in my mouth that I'll never forget. When I was drinking my sixth glass of buttermilk, the little white pig that they had in the parlor got loose and there was quite a commotion for a few minutes, and I heard the conductor holler all-a-board and I kissed the Blarney Stone good night and I just got in time to catch on the tail end of the caboose car and the next thing I knew I was landed in Japan. Two of them fellers from Larkin-Prince Hdwe. Co., was runnin' our train and they kept the thing a movin' so fast that a feller didn't have time to digest his meals between stops. Music, tea and old maids made life pleasant in Japan, and if the brakey hadn't stuck that megaphone thing in my ear and hollered all-a-board, I 'spect I'd been there yet.

Well, I hadn't more than got set down good and comfortable like, when the train stopped goin' and they hollered "Everybody off for Mexico." I felt cold chills climbin' up my spine before I got off the train, but I went with the crowd and I was so scared all the time I was in that place that I lost four pounds and I swallowed them Chile-Con-Karney Beans so fast that they burned all the lining out of my stomach and I had to have Pressnal & Harrington line it with wall paper when I got back to town; and when the brakey yelled "all-a-board" I was the first feller on the train and every hair on my head was standin' straight up.

Well, the next trip was out to Honolulu and the music and interesting surroundings sort of quieted my nerves and by the time I got on the outside of some of that good pine-apple dope I was feelin' fine and when the train was ready to go to Germany I felt like spendin' the summer in Honolulu, but I went with the crowd and we soon landed in Germany. Mueller, the tailor, wept tears of joy all the way from Honolulu to Germany because he was so glad he was goin' home. Well, I ate some weeneys and drank some buttermilk there, but I was glad to get away, 'cause them little dutch girls was clumping around there in them wooden shoes and I was afraid they would get on my corns most any minute, but they didn't, and the next thing I knew we just got aboard the train and off again and we were landed in France. Well, it I had been married I would have bought my wife one of those new and up-to-date bonnets that they showed us there, and one of them little school-ma'ams down there with a short dress and black stockings told me more stuff about France than I could have dreamed in a month; then I went out there on the porch where the blind pig was located and drank some maroon colored punch and I was just enjoyin' my sixth glass when they hollered "all-a-board for America", and I fell over the whole bunch gettin' aboard for my native land, and when we got to America, about forty little Yankee Damsels came runnin' out to me with ice cream cones. I took on three or four of them cones, and fore we went home the Goddess of Liberty sung "America" and we all joined in on the chorus. Well, this was the end of that great trip and I got home in time to meet my old Plymouth Rock rooster gettin' up for his breakfast, and I am tellin' you I felt a little sleepy for a couple of days, but I felt just like I do when I spend money at Larkin-Prince Hdwe. Co.—"I got my money's worth and more too."

If You Must Drink

To the married man who cannot get along without his drinks the following is suggested as a solution to the bondage of his habit.
First—Start a saloon in your house.
Second—Be the only customer. You will have no license to pay. Give your wife $2 to buy a gallon of whiskey, and remember there are sixty-nine drinks in one gallon.
Third—Buy your drinks from no one but your wife, and the time the first gallon is gone she will have $4.90 to put in the bank and $2 to start business again.
Fourth—Should you live ten years and continue to buy booze from her, and then die with snakes in your boots, she will have money to bury you decently, educate your children, buy a house and lot, marry a decent man, and quit thinking about you.

The Missing Engine

On the third day of Aunt Jane's visit, Motorton took her for a ride in his high-power runabout. "Darn the luck!" exclaimed Motorton.
"Goodness! What's wrong?" said Aunt Jane.
"Engine's missing," tersely replied Motorton.
"Dear me!" said Aunt Jane. "I hope it's been found by an honest person."
Never size a man up as a brute because of the sad look his wife wears. He may be a humorist.

"There is a House With a Bathroom" was an expression at one time calculated to arouse interest, but now, conditions are entirely different. To build a house without a bathroom merely raises a question as to the good judgment of the builder. People know that he has either not considered or else misjudged the importance that an up-to-date bathroom has in increasing the value of the house, both as to renting and selling value.

For the finest plumbing equipment at reasonable cost we recommend "Standard" plumbing fixtures, and will be pleased to show you the many artistic designs in which they are made. Ask for illustrated booklet.

The Black Imported Percheron Stallion
GLANEUR 44942

Will stand this season at
The Ranch of J. D. Gordon & Son
One mile east of Newberg

This stallion has sired some of the prize winners at our state fairs. On account of the lateness of the season in getting him, and to cut out the expense of traveling him, we are going to stand him at

TEN DOLLAR TO INSURE A FOAL

This, we figure, will give the breeders an opportunity to get the service of one of the best sires at a small fee, and we will save the ten-dollar benefit we give the farmer in expenses. This horse is known as the Morris or Deranceau horse.
