

NEWBERG GRAPHIC

THE ROSE CARNIVAL

People Have Good Time in Spite of Unfavorable Weather.

It is "the day after" and the decorations have that "all-gone, loss of friends' appearance, but Newberg had a good time in spite of wind and weather; the merry-go-round man has folded his tent and silently stole away—and there are a lot of things we have reason to be thankful for.

Saturday morning the queen and her maids were astir before the peep o' day, little human butterflies flitted here and there with the coming of the dawn, in happy anticipation of the doings of the day; but, alas and alack, the patter, patter of the rain upon the roof did not sound good to the ladies in charge of affairs, and the word was sent forth that activities were suspended for the day and a second effort would be made Monday.

Crowds had already gathered, however, and as many roses had been brought in for display, it was decided to go on with this part of the show. The heart-searching strains of the music box at the merry-go-round pealed forth with the old-time fervor, and as the clouds suspended activities in the afternoon, a game of ball was played on the college campus between the high school and college teams, the latter being the victors by a score of 8 to 4.

Winners in Rose Exhibit.

Notwithstanding the fact that the number of roses placed on display was cut far short on account of the word going out that the show had been put off, there was a very good showing of the various varieties. The winners of prizes were as follows:

Monday's Exercises.

While waiting for the parade on Monday forenoon, Mrs. W. P. Heacock made a good hit by "parading" a made-up family to represent the household of the typical drunkard, the ragged urchins carrying banners asking the people to vote Oregon dry in November.

The baby parade proved to be one of the most attractive features of the day, though the "crop" that was put on exhibition was not as large as it has been at some other times. On this occasion the prizes were given to the best decorated baby buggy, rather than to the occupant. The mothers represented were: Mrs. Bert Hoyt, first prize; Mrs. F. J. Kelley, second prize; Mrs. Adelaide Griffin, third prize; Mesdames Laplante, Stone, Chas. Lapp, Earl Paulsen, Ben Evans, Harry Gordon, Lowell Bristow, Harlan Smith, Warner, F. A. Morris, B. G. Jordon, Cox, Fuchs.

Following the babies came the parade of the day, headed by the band. The threatening weather discouraged many from making the attempt, which cut the line short of what it has been on other occasions, though quite a respectable showing was made.

Miss Alma Forkner, who had been chosen queen, rode in the beautifully decorated E. E. Goff auto, her attendants being the Misses Effie Wentz, Anna and Leucile Kennedy and Stella Badley.

A number of the members of Shiloh Post, G. A. R., with F. C. Mills as color bearer, were in the line; then came a long array of children from the public schools, followed by the college faculty and students on foot and in floats, a big float drawn by four horses, carrying the young ladies, attracting much favorable comment and receiving first prize on double float.

Others were Mrs. H. J. Littlefield, who was awarded first prize on decorated auto, Larkin-Prince Hardware Company first prize on industrial float, Miss Scott first prize on single rig, Miss Flettah Thompson, horseback, first prize, Mrs. Josie Evers, carriage, high school juniors, Baker theater, Mueller the tailor.

In the afternoon a good exhibition of ball playing was given on the college grounds by the college team and the Chemawa Indians, the latter winning by a score of 4 to 2.

After the ball game a series of races were pulled off on First street in front of the Graphic office, with results as follows: Potato race, won by Frank Crites; three-legged race, Chas. Johnson, Roy Fortune; sack race and wheelbarrow race both won by Carlos Johnson; fat man's race, Ross Miles; boys' footrace, Frank Shires; girls' race, Ruth Baker.

C. regard observance of this day as a duty and invite others to join with them in keeping alive the memory of departed friends.
