A LITTLE OF UNCLE SI DRAFT'S HISTORY

On July 2 Uncle Si received an invitation to visit Newberg proper, and that same evening we met him at the Olympic Bakery, and his face was radiant with joy. From there he went over to Evans' Studio to get the coveted picture taken, but Evans says he had no platelate enough to get all of Si's mouth at one time, for his smile had stretched his mouth like a poor man's lease, from (y)ear to (y)ear. Si attempted to shorten up his smile, but was unable so to do. He then went over to the Oregon Hardware and Implement Store and tried to get a job as roustabout, but Mr. Anderson, the proprietor, did not like his past association, and turned him down. Much discouraged, he returned on the Overland to Larkin-Princeville. July 4 we received a Marconi wireless message from Larkin-Princeville, which message was relayed at Mossville, that Uncle Si had been tried and convicted of incendiarism, and had been sentenced by the judge to one year solitary confinement on the streets at Larkin-Princeville. On July 6 the following petition was circulated in Newberg proper:

"Therefore, Nevertheless, Whereas, We, the business men of Newberg Proper, knowing the said Si Draft to be weak mentally, morally and physically, and therefore unable to grapple with the law or laws of spontaneous combustion, and not realizing that the rags saturated with perspiration oil from his brow (emitted therefrom by his hard and arduous walk through Newberg Proper) thrown under the stairway of a country hardware store would result in spontaneous combustion; therefore, we, the business men of Newberg, do hereby petition His Majesty, the Court, for a commutation of sentence to one year of scribble-ology for the Larkin-Princeville country merchants."

The result of this petition may be seen in the Graphic of July 9, the readers of which have their eyes opened by Si's admission of where he had his eyes fitted, that, to a thinking man accounts for his overflow of gas and gall. It must be a great deal of relief to Uncle Si to sit in the rear of a country hardware store and fancy he "sees men as trees walking." We also note the fact that Uncle Si, in order to keep up with the times, went to the country drug store and got a cathartic that will give him impetus in the right direction. Keep on going, Uncle Si. Yes, Uncle Si, we can see you taking physic-culture. It must have been immediately after this that you took that ride with the country doctor. We can understand why the Larkin-Prince Hardware Store is almost exclusively a second hand store, since they use the Hard-Case and Character cars patent picking-up machine to keep the store replenished with second-hand goods. Yes, Uncle Si, Larkin-Prince Company cannot afford a Ford Car unless you pick it up in the night, as you say they do the other goods sold there, as there are no second-hand Fords offered for sale. When a man gets a good thing he keeps it, all the same. Again, Uncle Si, we know there are no fats up there. They are like the citizens of Newberg proper—they will not stay where there is nothing to eat. We do not need any rat traps down here. You will note we vote for life, liberty, and against capital punishment, hence, the above petition.

P. S.—Uncle Si, if you need anything in the hardware line, you will get it new and fresh at the Oregon Hardware and Implement Company's Big Store, at the lowest cash price, and what you cannot find there you will find at Van Blaricom's Store next to the Farmers' Free Barn.

Your friend,
Red Top.

A Bit of Advice.

A tramp called at Mr. Cobb's house.

"I've walked many miles to see you, sir," he said, "because people told me you were very kind."

"Indeed," said the old gentleman. "And are you going back the same way?"

"Yes, sir," was the answer. "Well," said Cobb, "just contradict that rumor as you go, will you? Good morning."

Almost Incredible.

Mr. Craig was reading the evening paper, while his wife sat near by, knitting.

"Just listen to this, Debby," he said. "It says here that more than five thousand elephants a year go to make our pianos keys."

"Gracious!" cried the wife. "Ain't it just wonderful, Dan, what some animals can be trained to do!"

What Could He Do?

"Why, Willie," said the Sunday-school teacher in a pained voice, "have you been fighting again? Didn't you learn in last Sunday's lesson that when you are struck on one cheek you ought to turn the other one to the striker?"

"Yes'm," agreed Willie; but he hit me on the nose!"

Did you ever see a fellow who was so lazy that he wouldn't even try to carry a tune?

Overdoing It.

Doolan and Rafferty were examining the fine big library.

"Doolan," said Rafferty, pointing to an inscription, "phwat does thim litters, 'M D C C C X C V I I' mean?"

"Thot manes eighteen hoondered an' noimety-seven."

Doolan," said Mr. Rafferty thoughtfully, "don't yes t'ink they're overdoin' this shpellin' reform a bit?"

If a locomotive engineer tanks up, does he make his own head light?

THANKS FOR A FAVOR.

The Lady and the Baker and a Little Bit of a Surprise.

It was after dark, and the French baker was about to close his shop when the telephone bell rang.

"Mr. Owens?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"This is Mrs. Jimley of Hickorynut street."

"Yes, Mrs. Jimley."

"I am giving a supper tonight, and I discover that I need half a dozen more rolls. Could I trouble you to send them over?"

"I'm sorry, ma'am, but I haven't a roll left in the store nor even a loaf of bread. We are sold clear out tonight."

"This is very provoking," said Mrs. Jimley. "Are you sure you haven't anything that would do?"

"There isn't a thing in the place that I would care to sell you, ma'am. Hold on, though. There's a half dozen fresh rolls on my own supper table right now. I could let you have those if you think they would do. My kids can eat crackers instead. They'd rather, any way."

"Those will do very nicely. Mr. Owens. Will you send them over soon please?"

"Right away, ma'am. The boy has gone for the night, but I'll take them to you myself."

In a minute or two he stood on her front steps ringing the bell and feeling well pleased with himself that he could do some one a kindness.

Mrs. Jimley opened the door and took the packages from his hands. Then she said in icy tones:

"The next time you bring any goods here, Mr. Owens, I wish you would remember to ring the basement bell. I can't have tradesmen coming to the front door."—Newark News.

He Knew.

"If I were you," his wife said, "I'd go to that man and tell him exactly what I thought of him. He lied to you, and you ought to tell him that you know it. If I were you I'd let him know just how I despised him. I'd have the satisfaction of making him feel ashamed of himself."

"No, my dear," he replied, "you wouldn't do anything of the kind. If you were me you'd do just as I'm doing. This fellow weighs fifty pounds more than I do, and they tell me he's one of the best boxers in this town."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Her Library.

It is clear that the young women who figure in this little conversation from the New York Telegraph were no blue stockings:

Amy—I don't know what to give Gladys for a birthday. She has a gold mesh bag, she has a wrist watch, she has a silver toilet set—oh, she has everything!

Pearl—Well, give her a book.

Amy—No; she has a book too.

There Are Others.

Maud—You used to think that Jack was one in a thousand. Ethel (who broke engagements)—I do still, but I've discovered he isn't the only one in a thousand.—Boston Transcript.
