SI DRAFT SAYS

You know the evenings in the city seem pretty long. You ain't got no cows to milk nor chickens to feed, and a feller has to do somethin', and as you know it's kind of human nature to follow the crowds, so the first thing I knew one evenin' I found myself settin' in one of the theaters down town.

Well, I kind of enjoyed myself, too. I could sit and rest and have the fun all at the same time; and, say, there was an elephant and a monkey came up on the stage, and they did everything from playing football to skating on roller skates, and they sure was some class. The elephant would kick a football out into the crowd, and he wasn't a bit particular who it hit, either. And that blamed monkey had on a pair of Stiletto roller skates, like them fellers at "The Big Hardware Store" sell, and I'll swan if he couldn't skate better than any man that ever was born. It was the skates, of course, 'cause I never saw anything that had the "Stiletto" trade-mark on it that wasn't the very best. But, of course, the monkey was pretty clever all right, but if he'd had on a bum pair of skates he never could have cut the corners like he did.

There was one little kid came out on the stage that could make music on most any kind of a lookin' piece of machinery that you might hand to him. And there was a woman and a feller came out later that just pulled off a bunch of crazy stuff to make a feller laugh. The woman was dressed in beautiful colors, about the same shades as the John Deere people use on them good plows, harrows, wagons, etc., that Larkin-Prince sell—mostly green and red, with black and brown trimmin'—splendidous. I almost strained my eyes lookin'.

I got my money's worth, but I got to thinkin' here's the war goin' on, sugar is goin' up, nails is goin' up, rubber is goin' up and limburger cheese is goin' up just 'cause the Germans are using it in the place of lights during the war. They take a chunk of cheese and hang it up in the top of the lighthouse so the German ships can smell their way into port. This is one way of doing things, and I guess we can all live without limburger cheese, but I'm glad Uncle Sam is lookin' it into this other business a little.

I think I'll go home about next week, and I'm goin' down to "The Big Hardware Store" and buy me a new John Deere plow, as my old one has seen about 20 years of service and is getting pretty badly worn, and I'll just settle down to work and let them fellers over on the other side of the ocean scrap all they want to. I got a card from one of the boys that work there at Larkin-Prince store and he said trade was fine with them. The hop men are taking out their supplies, sax, kiln cloths, sulphur, baling cloth, etc., and the farmers are commencin' to ask about plows, harrows, etc., for fall work, and they're sellin' a lot of John Deere wagons and buggies right along all the time, and if the weather is good this fall they're looking for a big trade on Acme Quality Paint, as the people are commencin' to recognize the real value of good paint.

He said they just got in that shipment of new kegs, for pickles, kraut, etc., and I tell you the boys are after the business with the right kind of goods at the right time of the year, and they're always glad to see you and will give you your money's worth all the time.

Take the whole line straight through, you will find by careful comparison with competitive concerns that Larkin-Prince will help you to just as much goods for your money as the next one, and they'll give you just the same prices on the same goods as your neighbor gets. That's good fair business, and that's what they stand for. Try them out for yourself and you'll know.

ULTIMATUM SENT BY JAPAN TO GERMANY

Demands Withdrawal of German Warships From Orient and Evacuation of Kiau-Chau.

Tokio.—Japan sent an ultimatum to Germany Saturday night at 8 o'clock demanding the withdrawal of German warships from the orient and the evacuation of Kiau-Chau and giving Germany until Sunday, August 23, to comply with the demand. Otherwise, the ultimatum states, Japan will take action.

The general expectation here is that the ultimatum will be followed by war. Inspired utterances express regret at the inability to maintain neutrality but say that Great Britain, the ally of Japan, is compelled to defend herself against the aggressions of Germany. Moreover, it is pointed out that Germany is making preparations day and night at Kiau-Chau, where it is storing provisions, while its warships are scouring the seas of eastern Asia to the great detriment of commerce, and that its converted cruisers are seizing English merchant vessels. Such actions, it is argued, are directly calculated to disturb the peace of eastern Asia and accordingly, after full and frank communication with Great Britain, Japan has found herself compelled to send an ultimatum to Germany.

AGGRESSIVE MOVE BEGUN

French Offensive Movement Started Along the Line From Sarrebourg.

Paris.—Official dispatches announce that the French offensive movement began in great force along the line from Sarrebourg, on the Franco-German frontier to Lunville, in the department of Moselle.

"Blamont, 17 miles east of Lunville, Cirey, still further east, and Avricourt, occupied by a Bavarian army corps, were stormed by our troops," the announcement continues. "The Germans are in full retreat, having left many dead, wounded and prisoners. The French continue to advance to upper Vosges, the Germans giving way before them. In upper Alsace we have retaken Thann. Prisoners affirm that General von Delm, commanding the Fifteenth army corps at Thann, was wounded."

Allies Here Free of Foreign Yokes.
Washington.—In response to many inquiries from foreign-born residents of the United States in all parts of the country, Secretary Bryan announced that "the United States is not a party to any treaties under which persons of foreign origin residing in this country may be compelled to return to their country of origin for military service, nor is there any way in which persons may be forced into foreign armies against their wills as long as they remain in the United States."

GERMANS MOVE ON CAPITAL OF BELGIUM

Belgian Seat of Government is Hastily Removed From Brussels to Antwerp.

London.—A Reuter dispatch from Brussels says: "The seat of government has been moved to Antwerp. Measures have been taken for the defense of Brussels because of the approach of German cavalry."

The Belgian ministers of war, finance and foreign affairs and the French and Russian ministers to Belgium have left Brussels for Antwerp. Fleeing with their right at Diest and diverting to some extent the attention of the Belgian field army centered on Louvain, the German were reported as marching directly on Brussels by way of Huy and Jodoigne. This raiding force is believed to consist mainly of cavalry and artillery, including the much-feared motor quick-firers.

Trenches are being thrown up feverishly in the environs of the city, while exhortations in large, black type are being placarded right and left, calling on the inhabitants for their own sakes not to engage in any hostile acts in the event of German occupation.

On the line of battle in Belgium, Germany and France, despite the repeated repulses which they have suffered, the German battalions continue to move forward for a decisive encounter. The invaders are sweeping along the valley of the Meuse, south of Namur and have reached Dinant, where part of a strong French force, which is established behind that town, took the offensive and defeated them.

Italy Defies Austria.

Rome.—There was much public excitement over the news that the government had defied Austria, refusing to permit the passage of Austrian troops through Italian territory on their way to Alsace.

Would Have Refugee Ships Neutral.
Washington.—A proposal has been made by this government to the powers that all nations regard as neutral those ships "chartered for the sole purpose of repatriating" citizens who are now stranded in Europe.

Hamburg-American Vessels For Sale.
New York.—The Hamburg-American line issued a statement, saying that it had under consideration offers to purchase some of its steamships in American waters, valued at $20,000,000.

PROMISE POLAND AUTONOMY

Russia Promises Religious Freedom and Restoration of Polish Tongue.

St. Petersburg.—The czar has issued a proclamation confirming the Grand Duke Nicholas' promise to restore the ancient kingdom of Poland, if the Russian, German and Austrian Poles would stand by Russia in the present war. Polish autonomy would be re-established, the czar guaranteed, and all former principalities would be reunited under a lieutenant governor to be named by himself.

The people, he added, would be granted territorial integrity, local autonomy, religious freedom and would be unhampered in the use of the Polish tongue.

French Sink Two Austrian Warships.

London.—A dispatch from Nish, Serbia, says: "A naval battle between French and Austrian warships began off Budua, Austria, in the Adriatic, at 9 o'clock Sunday. The French squadron, coming from the southwest, attacked the Austrian warships. Two Austrian ironclads were sunk, one was set on fire and a fourth fled northward toward Cattaro. The fight lasted more than an hour."

Foreign Loans Frowned On.

Washington.—The United States government announced itself as opposed to the floating of loans in this country for the benefit of any of the warring nations of Europe.

PANAMA CANAL IS OPEN

Vessels of Warring Nations Must Pass Without Halting.

Washington.—With the passage through the Panama canal of the war department steamship Ancon, the great waterway becomes "free and open to the vessels of commerce and war of all nations on terms of entire equality," in accordance with the provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Vessels drawing not more than 30 feet of water may now make the passage. It would be possible to put the big American dreadnoughts through at any time.

Any of the foreign warships now in the Atlantic and Pacific waters could also make the trip. Except in cases of absolute necessity, vessels of belligerents must make uninterrupted passage through the canal. They may not coal, re victual or embark or disembark troops in the canal zone.
