SOME REAL POETRY

A right handed writer named Wright, In writing "write" always wrote "rite," Where he meant to write "right," Wright would not have wrought rot writing "rite."

There's a store in your town it's a daisy, You'll find no clerks there that are lazy, They carry a big line of good hardware in stock
And to give you good service, they're crazy.

(It's Larkin-Prince.)

A smart young Fisher named Fischer Fished fish from the edge of a fissure.
A fish, with a grin, Pulled the fisherman in,
Now they're fishing the fissure for Fischer.

If you're a farmer and need a good plow And to purchase you hardly know how Just close up your eyes and stuff up your ear

And say "I'll just buy a John Deere." (You won't make any mistake either.)

There's no use talkin' just as sure as the world is round there's more truth than poetry in the above verses. The boys at 'The Big Hdwe. Store' do carry the stock, they want to treat everybody right, they guarantee the prices to be right or money cheerfully refunded, and there's no question but what they have got for sale the very best lines of goods that are manufactured in the hardware and implement line. Just think there's old John Deere and Jim Oliver been making plows ever since Heck was a pup they've had the experience and they've got the goods. Jim Oliver put the chill in the Chilled plow, and Jack Frost is liable to put a chill in your system one of these days that you won't get over for a few days if you don't install a new heater and you'll get hungry lookin' for a better line of heaters than you'll find up there at Larkin-Prince Hdwe.

Co. Get wise shake the dust off your feet, rub the cob-webs out of your eyes, chase the rats out of your hair and do your hardware and implement business with Larkin-Prince Hdwe. Co., and you'll always get your money's worth. Si Dratt.
