$1.50 Per Year in Advance

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1914

R. A. BOOTH

This is not a paid advertisement. It is a convenient way of expressing the choice of the Graphic for United States Senator

That universal eight-hour measure will get it many times where the chicken got the ax.

When you go to the polls to vote on next Tuesday remember that saloons can't continue to do business without boys and girls. You don't want it to be your boy nor your girl—then whose boys and whose girls shall it be if you vote to perpetuate the saloon in Oregon?

Those who believe in the single tax theory, will no doubt vote for the $1500 exemption measure. It is one of the many U'Ren fads.

If the state is to vote the saloons out next Tuesday, counties like Yamhill, and especially communities like Newberg, must pile up good majorities.

The voter who goes to the polls next Tuesday to cast a ballot for the first time will be up against the real thing and some are liable to shy when they see that blanket ballot.

The anxious politicians who have been accustomed to hang around in the evening after the polls close to witness the counting of votes, may as well go to bed this time and wait until the second night.

The "wets" admit their defeat already, conditioned on a full vote being cast. They will have their voters at the polls early and it is up to the "dry" voters to bestir themselves and see that the usual stay-at-homes are out.

Let somebody who is good in mathematics figure out the length of time it will take the average election board to count the blanket ballots in a precinct where there is a full vote. And pity the men and women who do the counting.

John F. Carroll, editor of the Evening Telegram, is quoted as saying in a private conversation: "Our canvass of Portland shows that seven women out of ten will vote for prohibition." If the women in Portland line up in that proportion what will the women outside of the Oregon metropolis do to the saloons on election day?

C. B. Wilson is so sure of election to the office of county clerk that words said now in his favor are wasted, but of course he will appreciate a big vote from the home precincts and that is what he is going to get.

Hon. R. A. Booth is a candidate for the office of United States Senator. Here is an opportunity for the people of Oregon to elect a man of good clean personal character, a christian gentleman and a man of splendid business ability to represent them at the National Capitol.

Don't fail to read the communications published in this issue from G. O. Bassett, of Newberg, and Rev. T. L. Jones, of Brownsville, respectively, in which they tell what they know of the life and character of R. L. Booth. Mr. Bassett is right here where he can be seen any day and Rev. T. L. Jones is known all over Yamhill county.

A number of newspapers are attempting to discredit Congressman Hawley who is a candidate for re-election. Mr. Hawley does not employ a press agent back at Washington to keep his name in the lime light, neither does he go abroad beating tom-toms to attract attention, but his efficient work at the National Capitol will be rewarded by a good vote of approval.

Just a few words regarding W. S. Allan, of Dundee, candidate for county commissioner. If the people want a strictly business administration without any frills, Allen will fill the bill. As an instance showing his business ability, his successful management of the Hansen fruit farm on the Dundee hills may be cited. Whatever Allen undertakes he does well, and voters may be assured that if he is elected commissioner he will give the people the best there is in him.

It looks very much like Dr. James Withycombe would be elected governor with a substantial majority, and the people will make no mistake should they so record their votes. Dr. Withycombe is a man of clean personal character and his long association with the livestock and farming interests of the state ought to appeal to the producing classes.

The Graphic desires to give warning in advance that voters will make a serious mistake if they put off going to the polls until a late hour next Tuesday. In size the ballot is 23 by 32 inches and the measures to be voted on are not designated in a way so that they can be passed on at a glance. It will be well to go to the polls early and get a sample ballot to look over carefully, and instead of taking the big sample ballot into the booth, it will be better to mark on a card the measures by number that you want to vote for, or against. For many who have not been accustomed to voting it will be a puzzle and these should go to the polls in good time. Take this as a warning.

The writer had the privilege of hearing Governor West and R. A. Booth in their joint discussion in Portland on Friday night of last week. West utterly failed to bring out anything new in his attempt to discredit Mr. Booth and what he said fell flat, except on the ears of the howling mob of supporters who were there to root for him, regardless of what he might say. Governor West has shown some good traits which the Graphic has warmly commended in the past, but we went away from that meeting felling that he, in his labored effort to boost his friend Chamberlain back into the senate, had attempted to prove what he did not, down in his heart, believe to be true. Mr.

Booth made a splendid speech in the opening address and would have done even better in closing, had the West mob given him a chance. As it was he made a good impression with the thinking people who heard him.

WHYS FOR ELECTION DAY

(C. W. Bradshaw.)

1. Why vote against opening the Normal Schools at Ashland and Weston? There is just one good reason. We are increasing our taxes without improving the service. One good, strong normal centrally located could take care of all the prospective teachers for a good many years to come, and do it in a much more economical manner than several schools could. For the present it would be more economical to allow mileage to those who may be so located that they cannot afford to attend the Monmouth Normal.

Consolidation is the watchword in the public schools, and there is no good reason why it should not be the same in the normal schools.

2. Why abolish the Death Penalty? First because it fails to accomplish its purpose. Second because it is morally wrong. Kansas has the death penalty but it is left to the discretion of the governor as to whether it is carried out. There has not been a single execution in this state for a generation, perhaps since the state was organized, and, yet, those who have lived in Kansas know that it is just as free from crime as Oregon, and in proportion to population, it is more so.

3. Why vote for $1500 exemption? It will encourage all kinds of industry, and discourage land speculation. As it is now the poor man has no incentive to save anything that he can get along without because he knows that the taxes are so high he cannot afford it. He lives from hand to mouth, and when the business depressions come he is a menace to society in various ways. Encourage him to lay by for the rainy day and we will have less criminals, insane, etc.

THE $1500 TAX EXEMPTION

(Baker Herald.)

It takes just so much money to conduct the affairs of the state. Most of this is raised by taxation and that amount must be raised to conduct the state's business. If the $1500 exemption is put into effect, it will simply mean that the taxes on the land must be made greater. That will put an additional burden on the person who owns a piece of land just as it does on the owner of larger holdings. Household goods are now exempt and will remain so if the $1500 tax exemption amendment does not go into effect. The $1500 tax amendment is one of the single tax ideas that W. S. U'Ren has been striving for and it should be voted down just as single tax has been heretofore.

EXPERIMENTING WITH HARD WHEAT

Willamette valley farmers will be interested in the success of the experiments in growing hard wheat being made by Sam Stott at Gaston. He has set out an acre and a half and says that the results he has obtained are most encouraging. If Stott's experiment proves the success it seems, it means that the farmers of the Willamette valley, through which the Southern Pacific's main line and electric loop line pass, will grow at home that hard wheat which now must be shipped in by millers from Walla Walla, Washington, in making Oregon flour.
