Zeb Riddle was tellin' me the other day that he bought a brand spankin' new express wagon for his boy Jake and paid $3.50 for it and he said that wagon looked like it ought to last a boy a life-time but the first thing he knew Jake had a puncture, that is a hole in the side of one of Zeb's thorough bred calves, and knocked out four of his teeth and unjointed one horn and it never hurt Jake a bit, but you ought to hev seen that little wagon. You see Jake was like nearly all of us fellers was when we was boys, he thought the wagon didn't go fast enuf on level ground so he got it out on the steepest hill on Zeb's farm and got into it and forgot to put on the brake and the calf got in the way of the wagon and that tells the tale, but you ort to hev seen that wagon, that brand new 3.50 wagon, why it took Zeb and Jake 2 hours and 15 minutes to find all the pieces.

It had 14 spokes broke out of the wheels and you know a wagon without wheels is a good deal like a horse with a spavin on one leg and string halted in the other three. Well after it was all over Zeb commenced to feel sore about his thorough bred calf, and Jake commenced to cry about his wagon and the family circle was somewhat sad, till Zeb's wife came up with the consoling words "Now Zeb I told you so. I knew that wagon wasn't worth the money, if you had taken my advice and bought one of them 'Wagner Coasters' at Larkin-Prince Hdwe. Co. Jake couldn't have busted the wheels all to pieces that way, we you know they showed you them steel spokes and told you if they ever broke they'd give you new wheels for nothin', and besides if he'd had one of them steel wheel wagons when he struck the calf instead of caving in and piling all up in a heap no doubt it would have run right on over him and not hurt him half so bad, but you never will take my advice Zeb Riddle and now here we are, all feelin' bad cause you was too tight to pay $1 more while you was about it and buy Jake one of them 'Wagner Coasters' and as it now is Jake ain't got no more wagon than a jack rabbit, so I guess there's nothin' to do but get him a new one for a Christmas present, and next time Zeb Riddle, I guess you'll listen to your wife and take the money to 'The Big Hdwe. Store', the only place in town that you can get those steel wheel Wagner coasters and you'll have something for your money." Every boy likes a wagon and they're mighty useful around the ranch for hauling stuff besides making good healthy pastime for the boys, but it takes a good stout one to stand the knocks. The boys at 'The Big Hdwe. Store' claim them Wagner Coasters will hold up 500 lbs. and it's a cinch a kid would hev a hard time cavin' in them pressed steel wheels. Buy your kid one for Christmas and you'll make him happy and he'll have a wagon till he's growed up and needs a big one, then you can tell him to go to Larkin-Prince and buy a John Deere.

Christmas is nearly here now and I don't know how about you, but Zeb Riddle and I are goin' down there to Larkin-Prince and buy all of our Christmas presents, cause when you spend your money there you get something that is useful and something that will last a good long time. The boys were tellin' me that they would have their big Christmas Window ready in a day or two and I'm goin' in and look it over. The fellers are live ones and the goods they sell you will be right and they'll treat you mighty nice too. Try them out.

MANUFACTURER HELPS KEEP DOWN ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED

Any move to minimize the army of unemployed, that threatens to swell into the thousands this winter in Oregon, should be appreciated by everybody.

Beginning November 9, the big paper mills of the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company, at Oregon City began operation on a five-day-a-week basis. The mills will be idle Saturday and Sunday of every week. With the plant operating five days a week, the number of men employed will increase, but the amount of paper produced will remain about the same. The object of the change is to keep as many men on the payroll as possible, so that the present financial depression will not seriously affect many of the mill's employees.

Word that there was to be a change in operating the mill brought 320 men to the plant Monday morning, seeking employment. Of this number, only 60 were taken, but a further increase will be made during the week.

Increasing foreign competition is given the cause of the condition by an official of the company.

"We feel the effect of foreign manufacture of paper" he said last night. "For the first time in 20 years our mill is short of orders of paper. We are employing as many men as possible and made the change so that we could take on more."

DUNDEE

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Allan left on Tuesday for a trip to California.

Services will be held in the Dundee church on Thanksgiving day.

Miss Margaret Hewitt, of Portland, is the guest of Miss Sallie Beck.

Mrs. J. B. More, of Portland, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bland Herring.

Bring your lantern and come to the school house on Friday evening to the Parent-Teachers' meeting.

Several of Mabel Swink's friends took dinner with her on Sunday in honor of her birthday.

Lousia and Isabella Allan spent the Institute vacation on Chehalem Mountain, the guests of Mrs. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayward were Portland visitors on Thursday.

John Sorenson, formerly a clerk at DeVore's store visited friends in Dundee last week.

Mrs. Ada Byers has been visiting her father, Grandpa Ryan.

Dewey Crawford and Louis Wolderfinger, electricians who worked on the electric power station in Dundee, spent Saturday and Sunday with Dundee friends.

Interest in the Red Cross work is growing steadily. One of the beautiful features of the work is the opportunity that it gives to all, even the shut-ins, to show a spirit of helpfulness. One of the sympathetic grand-mothers of the community said to a caller, "rheumatism is so bad I can not do much or go often to see my friends; but see, my arms are strong! I can knit. I am knitting for the Red Cross. I have already sent one pair of stockings and now I am knitting some more." Surely each woman and girl in the community can equal this dear woman in her enthusiasm and each one lend a helping hand. Our men folk, though handy (?) with the needle as was demonstrated last winter, will not be called upon to sew or knit but they can and will be glad to help purchase materials for the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Roe Robison have returned from a week's visit at Yamhill. While there they attended the forty-seventh anniversary of the wedding of Mr. Robison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sims Robison. The re-union held last week was the first one in twenty-five years at which all the nine children, and the grandchildren were present. All the brothers and sons-in-law except one were also present.

Rain Coat Season is Here.

Mrs. M. W. Cooper announces she has taken the agency from a New York manufacturer for rain coats, Balmacaans and waterproof apparel, and will be pleased to show samples, any styles, and quote prices to any one who may be interested. Prices are so reasonable no man, woman or school child can afford to be without a rain coat. Located at 808 1/2 First street, over Taylor's Feed Store. Mrs. Cooper will call with samples if you phone Blue O.

A prophet is not without honor save in his own country, but an optimist is blessed in every land. While the pessimist is prophesying the optimist radiates good cheer and gathers the profits. An optimistic merchant makes an optimistic public, and both are benefitted by the exchange of gold, goods and good will. It is an open season for optimists in December. The spirit of the season is contagious. Be an optimist. We are ready with a holiday showing that will confound our enemies and please our friends.

P. S.—If some of our customers are dyspeptic pessimists our window display of Holiday goods will transform them into optimistic spend-thrifts of Christmas time.
