The barefoot boy with cheeks of tan is with us, notwithstanding the fact that Jack Frost has not made his final bow for the season.

Theodore must be supremely happy since he is again getting first page notice in the big newspapers. It is a case of Boss Barnes vs. Boss Roosevelt.

The old slogan for "last day" essay writing of years gone by—"Sweep Before Your Own Door"—has given way to "Clean Up Day," and Governor Withycombe is leading the chorus.

Those who go to Newport this season may expect to see their names published in the columns of "The News Directory," a new paper recently launched by the Nye Beach Print Shop, with C. J. Emery as editor.

The Merrill Record is to be moved to Klamath Falls. The Record is not a man made publication; the editor and owner being Catherine Prehm who has a faculty for putting things in print in terms that are forceful and easily understood when discussing matters of public interest. Doubtless this is the reason she was invited to occupy the larger field by the business men of Klamath Falls.

The average writer finds it difficult enough to spell according to Webster without trying to keep up with the whims of the "simplifiers." Correspondents will please stick to the old rules of spelling and remember to write it plain "John Smith," omitting the "Mr." The Graphic is not a "society" sheet—just a gatherer and publisher of the local news in the plainest terms possible.

It is rather a remarkable fact that horses sell as high now, since the use of the automobile has become so nearly universal, as they did on the average in the years before motor machines were invented. This is, no doubt, partly due to the fact that little interest is taken in horse breeding any more, and as a consequence the number of horses in the country is rapidly falling off. There is one alternative for those of us who can't afford automobiles—we can walk, and this is conducive to good health.

As will be seen in our advertising columns, the Graphic is making a combination subscription offer that ought to appeal to those who want a live local paper and a Portland daily—the Graphic and the Evening Telegram for twelve months for $3.75. This offer applies not only to new subscribers, but also to those who are now getting the Graphic, provided all arrears are paid to date. Now is the time to subscribe and get a good daily paper in combination with the Graphic at a nominal cost.

Buttermilk is said to be good for the complexion, and toilet soap bearing the buttermilk brand is in great favor—now we are to have buttermilk bacon. John Gearin, who farms across the river from Newberg, in Mason county, has a contract to take the buttermilk from the Newberg creamery, which he feeds to his hogs, numbering about 200 head. He has a well-built tank holding two hundred gallons, with which one of his men makes regular trips to and from the creamery. The porkers are given a straight diet of milk and are said to be thriving well.

The editor of the Graphic has been appointed by President E. E. Brodie, of the Oregon State Editorial Association, as a delegate to the International Press Congress, which meets at San Francisco July fifth to the tenth. Other delegates from the association are Edgar McDaniel, "Cooe Bay Harbor," North Bend; Elbert Bede, "The Sentinel," Cottage Grove; A. E. Voorhies, "The Courier," Grants Pass; Eric W. Allen, Department of Journalism, University of Oregon; M. E. Bain, "The Argus," Ontario; George Palmer Putnam, "The Bulletin," Bend; G. A. Robbins, "The Record," Pilot Rock. In organization and aim the press congress will be similar to the World's Press Parliament, held in St. Louis in 1904, which was opened by Secretary of State John Hay and presided over by Sir Hugh Gilzeau Reid, of London.

AN EDITOR'S COMMISSION

Says the Litchfield (Ill.) News Herald: Not long ago a man came into this office and stopped his paper because he said it was always printing a lot of things about the same people and he said he was sick of it. Now when something goes wrong with the country the government appoints a commission to investigate and find out what is the matter, and the first thing a commission investigates is the man who made the holler to see if the holler was a reasonable holler. So we appointed a commission consisting of ourselves to investigate this man. We just followed the man's career ever since we knew him. The first thing that happened to that man was that he was born, but he had nothing to do with it. However, we mentioned him, although his parents were entitled to the credit. When he was in his early twenties he got married. We mentioned that, including the name of the bride, the preacher, etc., in fact we mentioned everything but the preacher's fee, which was not worth mentioning. We never mentioned the fact that he never won any premiums at the county fair, because he never exhibited anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of committees, because he never attended anything. We never mentioned his name in the list of donors, because he never donated as much as a doughnut. We certainly have been treating this man shamefully, but we will agree to run a nice obituary when the time comes.

AN UNMISTAKABLE SIGN

Chicago two weeks ago had an election for Mayor. The Republicans won by a plurality of 138,891. This was the greatest plurality ever polled by a mayoralty candidate in Chicago (the previous high-water mark had been 79,243.) The next day the Chicago "Herald" had a conspicuously able editorial treatment of the victory. We quote: "It came at the end of a campaign on the Republican side which has rarely been equaled for vigor and for the adroit use of every argument that lay at hand. All the powerful appeals of a party in opposition were used with rare effectiveness. With shrewd political insight Mr. Thompson did everything in his power to give his candidacy a national character."

"And this is no doubt to be set down as the second cause of his great victory. It fused the opposition to the Democratic party as nothing else could have done. It gave coherence and a common ground to every element of political dissatisfaction. In the common opposition to the Democrats, locally and nationally, the old line of division between Republican and Progressives disappeared.

"Then there was the 'full dinner pail' argument. If Mr. Thompson's plan of campaign appealed strongly to every shade of political opposition, it appealed no less powerfully to strictly industrial dissatisfaction. There happens to be at the present time many thousands of men out of employment. To such men the Republican candidate drove home the argument that the success of the Republican ticket meant the probability of better times."

Having read this account of the Chicago victory, enter for a moment the realm of supposition. Suppose the election had been not merely a local mayoralty one, but a national one for President. Suppose this editor had been treating, not a local, but a Presidential election? These words state exactly the reasons which, operating throughout the country, are making for Republican ascendancy. If Editor Keely of the Chicago "Herald" will keep this editorial standing in type until November 7, 1916, it is entirely conceivable that on that date he can use it again, practically word for word, to describe the election of the preceding day. Important changes may take place during the coming eighteen months, but, as things stand today, there can be no mistaking the portent of the Republican victory in Chicago.—Colliers.

SI DRAFT ON "FAKERS"

The world is full of fakers nowadays in every line. There's fake doctors, fake prisoners, fake school ma'ams, fake farmers and fake everything but the Americans are commencing to get their eyes opened and lookin' for the feller who is the real thing and can deliver the goods.

Now just sposin' you happen to get the lumbago in your feet and had to get it cut off to save your leg and the rest of your body, you wouldn't get a carpenter to do the job just because he would do it for a few dollars less money than an experienced surgeon. I should say not—you wouldn't take the chances. It's the same way buyin' merchandise, some fellers will sell you goods for a little less money than some other feller, but if you happen to get something that ain't just satisfactory he ain't to home when you want to get it fixed up.

Take my advice, don't monkey with fakers or fake goods. Spend your money for the good old trade-marked lines of merchandise, sold by merchants that stand behind the goods and you'll be money ahead when you die, sayin' nothin' about the satisfaction of usin' good stuff while you're livin'. The boys at 'The Big Hdwe. Store' go after the best manufacturers agencies and needless to say they get 'em too for the best stuff manufactured in the hardware and implement line and you won't lose no money if you trade with them fellers either. They give 7 lbs. nails for 25c, they sell lawn mowers that cut grass for $3.35, good guaranteed garden hose @ 10c per foot, cedar posts @ 8c, 40 inch American Fence for 30c per rod, and they have got the agency for that popular line of Spalding baseball and tennis goods that all the real sports use, and Acme Quality Paint that everyone knows can't be beat for quality. My wife says the 5c and 10c counters that the boys hev got can't be beat by any 5c and 10c store nor nobody else in the country. It's the best place in Newberg to pick up nick-nacks for your home.

The boys hev got a good stock of quality goods all the way through that they are sellin' for popular prices and they'll stand behind the goods you buy of 'em.

If you want to buy mail order style, pay the boys your money and take the goods at the depot—they'll meet any kind of legitimate competition. Bring your catalog in with you and them fellers will duplicate any article in their line for the same money. Spend your money at home if you can buy just as cheap and you'll help build up our community. Larkin-Prince don't want your money if they can't give you as much as the other feller, quality of goods taken into consideration. Give the boys a chance to figure with you and you'll be satisfied with the prices they'll quote. If you've got any hogs, or cows or any old thing that you want to sell, just let the boys know about it and they'll post it on their blackboard out in front of the store. I'm tellin' you right now boys, if it's a square deal you're looking for every day in the week, you'll go a long way tryin' to beat Larkin-Prince Hdwe. Co.

The Best Letter.

You may write a thousand letters to the maiden you adore,
And declare in every letter that you love her more and more.
You may praise her grace and beauty in a thousand glowing lines
And compare her eyes of azure with the brightest star that shines.
If you had the pen of Byron you would use it every day
In composing written worship to your sweetheart far away;
But the letter far more welcome to an older, gentler breast
Is the letter to your mother from the boy she loves the best.
Youthful blood is fierce and flaming,
and when writing to your love
You will rave about your passion, swearing by the stars above;
Vowing by the moon's white splendor
that the girlie you adore
Is the one you'll ever cherish as no maid was loved before.
You will pen full many a promise on those pages white and dumb
That you never can live up to in the married years to come.
But a much more precious letter, bringing more and deeper bliss,
Is the letter to your mother from the boy she cannot kiss.
She will read it very often when the lights are soft and low,
Sitting in the same old corner where she held you years ago.
And regardless of its diction or its spelling or its style,
And although its composition would provoke a critic's smile,
In her old and trembling fingers it becomes a work of art,
Stained by tears of joy and sadness as she hugs it to her heart.
Yes, the letter of all letters, look wherever you may roam,
Is the letter to your mother from the boy away from home.
—Frank M. Vandell.
