Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Coulson and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Morris made a trip by auto to Multnomah Falls and return last Sunday. They say the new road up the Columbia is a wonder for natural scenery and they found the road to be good between Newberg and Portland with the exception of a few places that need repairing.

"Bun" Whitlaw who chewed up a youngster's finger in a fight on First street one night some time ago, and who has since been evading arrest, was sighted near the United States National Bank by Marshal Keeney on Monday, who made for him and ordered him to surrender. Whitlaw was on a horse and instead of stopping put spurs to the horse and lit out for his home out west of town. The marshal fired two or three shots in the air, but the fleeing man paid no heed to the calls. Keeney jumped into W. S. Stulla's auto and they gave chase but Whitlaw got outside the corporation limits before he was overtaken. It is generally conceded that if he will remain on the outside the city will be away ahead.

Albert Benson has gone to Hermon, Umatilla county, where he hopes to secure work during the season.

Mrs. C. H. Eggers is out from Portland for an extended visit with her long time friend, Mrs. M. J. Nash.

She expects to spend considerable time seeing the big fair while she is gone.

Phin Smith who went to Lake County to look at the country, returned last week and has been arranging to move to Lake, where he bought out a homesteader who was not in love with the country, and consequently jumped at a chance to sell at a sacrifice. On Tuesday of next week Mr. and Mrs. J. W. B. Cook, who for several years lived on Wynoski street, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home at North Yakima, Washington. After leaving Newberg they located on a farm a few miles out from North Yakima where they lived for several years. They are now located on a small tract in the suburbs of the city.

They came north from San Francisco where they attended the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. and Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Van Blaricom worked until nine o'clock in the store Saturday night and then left in their auto for Corvallis, arriving there a little past midnight and remaining with relatives until Sunday evening when they returned. They say the Corvallis jail was entertaining a full house of boot-leggers that had been rounded up a day or two before. An Albany man was offered $50 for each and every boot-legger he would round up and turn in evidence for conviction. He went over when a big ball game was on and easily caught nine fellows who were passing out liquid lightning to the thirsty in defiance of the law.

R. J. Moore, Dr. George Larkin and E. C. Baird went to Meadow Lake one day last week on a fishing trip, returning with a few fish and a big basketful of experience, the roads out that way not being ideal for autoing, especially following a hail and rainstorm in the mountains.

"I'll not only vote for it and support the measure, but I'll donate $500 for hard surface roads," said he. He told that to Henry Gee, and Henry opened his eyes wide.—News-Reporter.

M. J. Jones is clearing up a forty acre tract of the Luke McKern land out in the Fernwood neighborhood, which he bought a few years ago, and says he thinks he will build on it this season. He formerly did a lot of contract work in the erection of big milling plants but was compelled to give it all up on account of distressing affliction from asthma. He says he has tried all kinds of remedies, doctors' prescriptions and change of climate and is now down to grin-and-bear-it.

Ira Irons, the fish market man, invested in a Reo auto recently that has seen considerable service in the past and by process of a good deal of persuading had been making it go—at intervals—up to Sunday, when its digestive organs went bad. He has since been running an open air sanatorium along side the fish market and with friendly coaching on the part of Dr. Hester, who says he spent a good part of one summer season out in Jackson county practicing on the inards of an ancient Reo, he has been making commendable progress. Ira is mighty good natured under fire and besides putting the machine in order he has been furnishing a lot of entertainment for his numerous friends. His stick-to-ativeness under trial is commendable and he is earning a rich reward which here is hoping may come his way.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Roberson who have been working among the Navajoe Indians in New Mexico, with headquarters at Crown Point, have been in Newberg during the week visiting with relatives among the Mills families and with Mrs. Alice Hawthorn. They are going to locate at Cove Orchard near Yamhill where they own property. They brought with them two Navajoe boys, ten and twelve years old, respectively, whom they expect to keep for a time. The boys have been taken for Mexicans by most people here who have seen them, which is not strange since they came from territory close to the Mexican country and their environment has no doubt been very similar to that of many of the Mexicans. Mr. Roberson has contracted with W. E. Terrell and Thomas Rood to build a residence for him at Cove Orchard.

Andrew Christenson has sold his cottage located on Illinois street west of the cannery to Ira K. Vantress, who was mentioned last week as a former Newberg resident who had returned with a view of locating. Mr. Christenson will leave next week for Montana where his daughters are living. Mr. Vantress has taken possession of the property.

The fond mothers whose babies were given the eugenic test two weeks ago have received their score cards, and while some naturally scored higher than others, all have reason to be proud of the showing made. Ronald Hutchens, scored the highest with a percentage of 99, Helen Hoskins ranked second with 98½, while four tied for third place, namely, Arline Lucile Bennett, Herman Sidwell Smith, Robert Gregory and Virginia Newell, the score of each being 98.

Since Monday Charley Cavell has been puzzling his brain over a knotty question and he says he is going to read up on law for enlightenment. He was fortunate enough to get enough money ahead to pay his second installment of taxes for the year, and consequently went to McMinnville and presented himself at the office of Miss Alice Adams, the county treasurer, and told his errand, when he was advised to keep his cash until the last day of September. And when he insisted on paying in full, then and there, he was informed that he would be penalized to the extent of fifteen cents if his money was received. He figured that paying the penalty would be a saving over additional railroad fare in September and consequently paid up and got his receipt in full, but he says it is the first time he has ever been asked to pungle up a bounty as a penalty for paying a debt when he happened to have the necessary cash. There has been a good deal of talk of imposing a tax on bachelors and it is just possible that Miss Adams sized Charley up and put on the fifteen cent tariff as a trial to see how a real fetching bachelor from Newberg would take it.

TOAST TO LAUGHTER

Here's to laughter, the sunshine of the soul, the happiness of the heart, the heaven of youth, the privilege of purity, the echo of innocence, the treasure of the humble, the wealth of the poor, the bead of the cup of pleasure; it dispels dejection, banishes blues and mangles melancholy; for it's the foe of woe, the destroyer of depression, the enemy of grief; it is what kings envy peasants, plutocrats envy the poor, the guilty envy the innocent; it's the sheen on the silver of smiles, the ripple on the water's delight; the glint of the gold of gladness; without it humor would be dumb, wit would wither, dimples would disappear and smiles would shivel, for it's a glow of a clean conscience, the voice of a pure soul, the birth cry of mirth, the swansong of sadness.

Professional Tact.

The Haskell family lived in a remote town in Massachusetts on a farm far removed from the public highway.

The father of the family was ill and a physician was called.

"It be very kind of you to come so far, doctor, to see my husband," said Mrs. Haskell, upon the physician's arrival.

"Not at all," replied the doctor, as he leisurely removed his coat. "I have a patient on the way, so I can kill two birds with one stone."

Mrs. Walter Everest: Oh, my glasses are just fine. I can see so much better.
