$1.50 Per Year in Advance

THURSDAY, JUNE 24, 1915

With harvesting the cherry and berry crops and hay-making it is busy times these days, and the weather has been perfect during the week.

It appears that at the school election held Monday there was no great amount of enthusiasm manifested, since there were just three votes cast, aside from those deposited by the members of the school board. Rev. George C. Richey was elected to succeed himself.

What have we done to merit such favors? Here is the organ of the merry-go-round making melody while on its tenth annual stand on the vacant lot adjoining the Graphic office and we are to have a whole week more of the same old tune in the same old way before the tent is struck.

Fred T. Mellinger, editor and publisher of the Dayton Tribune, made an unconditional surrender to cupid on last Sunday and was married at the Evangelical church in Dayton, the bride being Miss Mildred M. Hord. As soon as the honeymoon is over we shall expect to see a big improvement in the Tribune.

How times have changed. It was only a few short years ago that the average farmer felt constrained to shy brickbats at the "city fellers" who went speeding over the country roads in automobiles, frightening the women and children and causing farm teams to run away, while now many horny fisted farmers sport machines and shatter the speed limit the same as other fellows.

Attorney W. D. Fenton who won out for the Southern Pacific in the big land suit with the government, involving $30,000,000 worth of property, grew up in Yamhill county and got his first wings here as an attorney—pardon the pride in mentioning it, but it is another instance showing that Yamhill county has furnished a lot of men who have made good in the big battle to gain a place well up on the ladder of prominence.

The chief of the St. Louis detective force puts out this chunk of wisdom: "I am frequently asked what is the type of man who goes wrong. The answer is that there is no particular type. There is a clear type of man who never is in trouble, however. This is the man who lives within his means, who saves a part of his earnings each day and week and year. It does not matter much just so he lives within his income and saves."

Walt Mason, the poet philosopher of Kansas, under the head of "The Summer Task" contributes the following to the fly swatting campaign literature: The days grow hot, and we must sweat, with energy unceasing; yea, we must rise and soak the flies, to keep them from increasing. If we pass by a single fly, it soon will rear a million, and they will raise, in summer days, four hundred thousand billion. And they'll produce while running loose, such swarms of filthy critters, such hosts of flies they'll hide the skies—so let us not be quitters. Go forth and swat in humble cot, and in the lordly palace, swat left and right, keep up the fight, until you break a gallus. Strike stalwart blows, and crush the foes, or later you will rue it, and I'll sit here throughout the year, and tell you how to do it. I'll sing you lays to cheer your days while you the flies are potting, I'll praise your zeal with gladsome spiel, but I'm too fat for swatting, I'll urge you on from golden dawn until night's shades are falling, but, like most guys whose words are wise, my acts are mostly stalling.

While the opinion prevails that the Panama-Pacific Exposition has been a losing proposition from a financial standpoint, the report of the board of directors made a few days ago, shows a profit of $61,000. If this is a correct statement, it appears that with the increased attendance that may reasonably be expected from now on, a very satisfactory margin of profit should be realized by the close of the big show. It will be well however to keep the lid down tight on the earthquakes, lest many nervous people who intend to see the fair may be "shooed" away.

Seven years ago when the government instituted a suit against the Oregon & California Railroad Co., now known as the Southern Pacific, for the forfeiture of the unsold portion of the big grant of timber lands, amounting to 2,300,000 acres valued at $30,000,000, the people of Oregon as a rule stood with the government in sentiment and hoped to see the land revert to Uncle Sam. As time went on and the situation was given a closer study the people began to awaken to the fact that the state of Oregon would stand to lose in case the land should go back to the government, sentiment began to change, and it is evident that the result of the suit will find favor in the eyes of a large majority of our people.

Ex-Governor Francis, of Missouri, once said the following of newspapers: "Each year the local paper gives from $500 to $1,000 in free lines to the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The editor in proportion to his means, does more for his town than any other ten men, and in all fairness he ought to be supported, not because you like him or admire his writings, but because the local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliantly edited or crowded with thought, but financially it is of more benefit to the community than the preacher or teacher. Understand me, I do not mean mentally and yet on moral questions you will find most of the papers on the right side. To-day the editor of the local papers do the most for the least money of any people on earth."

DUNDEE

From the Morning Oregonian Tuesday, June 22: "The marriage of Miss Bertha Reed and Clark Noble took place Sunday afternoon at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Meade, 570 Hawthorne Terrace, where Miss Reed has made her home for some time. It was a charmingly simple affair, performed in the library, where flowers and greenery were arranged to give the effect of an outdoor setting. Miss Reed was lovely in a simple lingerie gown and carried a bride's bouquet of roses. Only the immediate family and a few intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Mr. Loveland. After a honeymoon spent at the Coast, Mr. and Mrs. Noble will be at home at 449 Thirteenth street after August 1. Mrs. Noble has been a teacher in the public schools, and Mr. Noble is connected with a local newspaper."
