

SPRINGBROOK

The first meeting of the Literary Society was called last Thursday by the president, V. E. Rees. New officers for the coming year were elected and installed, as follows: President, Vivian Hadley; vice-president, Ovid Shires; secretary, Eva Markell; treasurer, Roy Shires; sergeant-at-arms, Victor Rees. A business meeting will be held October 7, and plans for winter entertainments will be introduced, for discussion and adoption, by the committee in charge.

Dale Finnigan was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Phillips for the opening days of Chinese pheasant season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Markell, of Portland, and Mrs. D. Kingsley, of Salem, were guests at the Markell home this week.

The Misses Wanda and Christina Clemenson were hostesses to about twenty young people Friday evening, in honor of Victor Rees, who left Saturday for San Francisco. Dick Baldwin, of the Portland postoffice staff, accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Butler, of New York, arrived in Springbrook Monday to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Clark at their home, Meadowvale farm.

Archie and Leslie Stockman, of Portland, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stockman.

S. P. Cogan was badly injured at the Cogan sawmill Friday, when his hand was caught in the machinery and several bones broken. He went to Portland Saturday for medical treatment.

Mrs. G. R. Hoots and daughter, Miss Ruth, were Salem visitors Thursday.

Ed Fearey spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in McMinnville.

Miss Laura Judy, of Amity, formerly principal of Fernwood schools, visited several days last week with her aunt, Mrs. D. B. Putman, enroute to the fair at San Francisco. She expects to be away several months, during which time she will visit in Washington, California and Nevada.

Mrs. Elizabeth Parker, of Rainier, Washington, has been chosen pastor of the Friends church here. She is expected to arrive before Sunday.

REX

Carl Greves made a business trip to Portland Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Brickley, of Portland, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Strate.

The hunting season on the China pheasant is now open, and every one who can buy or borrow a gun is after them with a vengeance. They seem to be quite plentiful in this vicinity, although they are being pursued so vigorously that they are taking to the higher hills and timber.

A. H. Dean, accompanied by a couple of sportman friends, drove out from Portland Saturday after pheasants.

John Warnack, of Portland, spent Sunday with his brother at Rex, W. H. Warnack.

Miss Muriel Sanders, of Newberg, was a week-end visitor of Miss Harriet Greves.

Emil Conway, who is working in Portland, spent Sunday at the Morrison home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Fisher and son, Mr. and Mrs. Mallory, Mrs. Raud and O. N. Moore passed last Sunday at Moore Bros. duck ranch.

J. W. Garland, with his wife and son, of Edinburgh, Scotland, has just arrived on a visit to his father, Wm. Garland. Mr. Garland, who is 50 years old, had not seen his father since he was a five-year-old child, and is so impressed with the wonderful possibilities of America that he will make it his future home. His trip from England over to Montreal on the boat and from there over the C. P. R. R. was quite eventful. The boat passed directly over the spot where the Hesperian was blown up a short time ago, and the wreckage and oil on the water was still visible. While coming into the mouth of the St. Lawrence river they collided with another boat and were all but run down.

WEST CHEHALEM

S. M. Calkins and family attended the state fair at Salem Wednesday of last week.

Noel, Rosie and Gladys Heagard and Lela Yergen were Sunday guests of the Worden family.

Miss Maude Steirly and Kenneth Fendall were Sunday guests of the Boyd family.

Ralph Baker, of District No. 68, won first prize on both potatoes and field corn in the Industrial Club exhibits at the Yamhill county fair. As a result he was given a place in the boy's encampment at the state fair. Ralph was president of the District No. 68 Industrial Club during the summer. This club captured first and fifth prizes in corn, first and second in potatoes, first, second and fourth in canning, second in cake and first in bread at the Yamhill county fair. An enviable record.

Mr. and Mrs. Omar Fendall, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Gardner and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gardner were Sunday guests at the home of E. G. Fendall.

Warren Huber, a brother to Mrs. H. Anderson, and Mr. Loyd Thompson were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Anderson Sunday.

Mrs. Amanda Fendall, of Seattle, mother of E. G. Fendall, is visiting with Mr. Fendall and family at present.

Floyd Worden came home from Eastern Oregon to spend the winter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Worden.

These days are dark ones for the China pheasants.

On Thursday afternoon of last week a reception was given to Miss Maude Steirly at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Bush. Many ladies of the community

A Woman Always Feels Well Dressed in a "Classic" Coat

Because Classic coats are supreme in style.
Because Classic coats are tailored to drape on the figure perfectly.
Because the clothes are correct.

No matter how much we might exclaim over the beauty of Classic coats, or over the fairness of the price, you must try them on and stand in front of the glass.

Then you will know, by the way the coats drape on you—by their snappy styles and by the price—that your next coat should be a Classic coat.

We urge you to visit the store and try on the Classic coats, and learn why they are so

These New

Post Toasties

Are the first and only corn flakes that are "good to eat" without milk, cream or sugar

Try some fresh from the package, and at once you get a wonderful true corn flavour—vastly different from that of the ordinary "corn flakes" you may have had.

Notice the little pearl-like "puffs" on each flake—a characteristic that is distinctive; also that when cream or milk is added they don't mush down, but keep their body and appetizing crispness.

There's a ROYAL TREAT in every package of

CHILDREN AS AN INVESTMENT

In a fertile Pennsylvania valley, David Moyer owns a splendid farm. In addition to this he is the father of seven children—five boys and two girls. Their welfare was the topic of many conversations between Mother and Father Moyer. As parents, they wished to give their children a good education; but how was this to be accomplished? They had no money, only what the labor on the farm would produce. However, Father Moyer solved the problem.

On the day that Ralph, the oldest boy, received his eighth grade diploma from the village school, the father took him aside and asked what he would like to make his life-work.

"Teaching," responded Ralph. "Very well," nodded Mr. Moyer; "I'll raise a loan on the farm for your education. All that I want you to do, Ralph, is to sign a contract to pay Mother and me 20 per cent of your wages for the first five years after you've left college."

Ralph scoffed at the idea of 20 per cent, saying that he would do better than that; but Mr. Moyer wisely insisted, and the contract was legally executed. In a like manner, the other children chose their professions and the father indebted his farm but secured the 20 per cent contract from each one as his security. During the years he managed to pay the interest on the loaned money when due.

Results: Mr. Moyer still owns the farm. Ralph has paid his 20 per cent on a good salary; the others are doing likewise, and Mr. Moyer has no qualms about saying that the investment in his children was "pretty good business." Frank A. Halverson in the American.
