Speaker Selling Endorses

Michelbook for Senate

Portland, Ore., April 5, '16.
Hon. Francis L. Michelbook, Mc-Minnville, Ore.

My Dear Mr. Michelbook—It having come to my knowledge that you are a candidate for the state senate, I take great pleasure in saying that at the last session of the legislature you were one of the determined, active men who assisted in the shaping of conservative and economical legislation.

While we have not always agreed, it is a pleasure for me to say that you always had the courage of your convictions and were at all times looking out for the interest of the people who elected you. The people of your district would certainly honor themselves in honoring you.

Sincerely yours,

Ben Selling,

Speaker of the house, 25th legislative assembly.

McMinnville, Ore., May 9, '16

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to certify that the undersigned has been acquainted and closely associated with Francis L. Michelbook since boyhood. We have served five years together in the Oregon National Guard. Captain Michelbook is held in high esteem by the enlisted men and his fellow officers. From my long personal acquaintance with him I find him to be a clean and conscientious man, and I believe it he is elected joint senator from this district he will serve the best interests of the people without fear or favor, and will keep their interests above politics, religion or other influences.

L. S. Hopfield,

The food we eat has much to do with the condition of the complexion. Green salads are an important aid to the digestion and will accomplish much toward bleaching and whitening a sallow complexion. They possess certain chemical qualities and supply the body with needed salts. Tomatoes, endive, lettuce and young onions are splendid for the skin. Spinach contains salts of potassium, iron and other properties that act upon the liver. Tea and coffee must be taken in moderation.

A Word of Appreciation.

"Maybe they have," rejoined Mr. Cumrox. "If such is the case the piano my daughter practices on is a mighty patient brute."—Washington Star.

Knife Duels in Mexico.

A duel between cattle herders on the Mexican plains is about as savage and deadly a manner of fighting as one could possibly imagine. Each opponent extends his left arm, and a third party who has been selected to act as referee binds their wrists together with a thong of rawhide. He then places a knife in the right hand of each, and the fight is on. Needless to say, it does not last long. Every stab may be calculated upon to do damage, and it often happens that both duelists receive fatal wounds. Yet, in spite of the severe rules of the game, there are men who become experts and terrorize a whole neighborhood. They pride themselves on being able to strike so quickly and so surely that they can kill an opponent with the first blow and get away unscathed.—Exchange.

FRANK WARREN

Portland, Oregon (Special).—"The paramount question before the coming Republican National Convention at Chicago is 'Who can lead the Republican Party to Certain Victory in November?'" says Frank M. Warren, of this city, who has filed as a candidate for Delegate-at-Large from Oregon to the convention.

Few, if any, of the young men of Oregon are more widely or more favorably known than Frank Warren. Although like many of the delegates already chosen from other States he has not been active in national politics heretofore, he does represent that "new blood" which promises to bring about a healthy reorganization of the Republican party, and reinstate it in power next November. While he has not heretofore striven for political honors he has shown his readiness to do public service by his good work on the Oregon State Fish and Game Commission.

Before leaving for the East on a business trip, Mr. Warren gave his views on the Republican situation briefly, saying: "The Republican Convention must name a man who will have the instant and nation-wide approval of the people, and if the convention will take that consideration as its sole guide, it can make no mistake. I hope to have the honor of being a member of the Oregon delegation, and if I am elected in the forthcoming primaries, the Oregon voters can feel assured that my vote will be cast for the best interests of the nation, of the people of Oregon and of the Republican party."

MARKING THE MAN

Origin of Surnames in the Good Old Days of Long Ago.

MANY SOURCES OF SUPPLY.

When Trades and Callings Were Exhausted Then Places and Events or Objects and Personal Characteristics Were Pressed Into Service.

It cannot but be admitted that considerable food for thoughtful reflection is offered in the study of the origin of names. It was all very well when the world was young; but, as a writer says, "As the population increased and communication became possible and easier the supply of single names was not equal to the demand, and people began to get individuals bearing the same name mixed. It was at this time that the surname was thought of and adopted, so that families might be distinguished one from the other."

Trades and callings are in this day represented in the names of Baker, Carver, Shoemaker, Tyler, Chandler, Mason, Cutler, Carter, Saddler, Slater, Butcher, Draper, Thatcher, Fletcher, Hooper, Cheeseman, Turner, Joiner, Cooper, Gilder, Mercer, Skinner, Coleman, Sawyer, Tanner, Spicer, Cook, Tutor, Miner, Driver, Weaver, Gardner, Archer, Merchant, Porter, Walwright, Taylor, Shepherd, Glover and ever so many others.

Says Clifford Howard, who has devoted himself to this pleasant study:

"Such names as Hall, Stair, Garrett, Kitchen and Chambers also record the occupations of our forefathers, who in these cases were engaged in the households of the nobility and had charge of such apartments as the names indicate. Others held higher offices, and from them we have the surnames Page, Butler, Procter, Forester, Steward, Bailly, Fowler, and Woodward and Hayward, the keepers, respectively, of the forest and the cattle."

In other localities it was usual to point out an individual by the place of his birth or residence, a custom which resulted in the adoption of such surnames as French, Scott, Welsh, English, Dan, Burgoyne, Cornish and Cornwallis, Kent, York, Chichester, Lincoln, Wells, Washington, Putnam, Hurst, Buchanan, Preston and Bancroft. A great many of this sort were originally the names of baronial estates, which names the barons adopted as surnames.

Those who were not of such high estate were forced to content themselves with humbler titles. Thus John, who lived by the brook, became John Brook, and David, who lived by a giant oak, was called David Tree.

Richard, who lived at the end of town, became Richard Townsend, while his brother, who lived under the brow of a hill, became known as Peter Underwood. Those who lived near the water took the name of Atwater.

At the time family names began to be used the shops of the merchants were not numbered as they are now, but were known by their signs, which were suspended at the front doors and bore pictures of all sorts of animals, vegetables, birds, flowers, fishes and insects. It was customary to speak of an innkeeper, then, as John of the Bear, or Dick of the Swan, and, as may be readily understood, these names were soon converted into Bear, Hogg, Hart, Bull, Fox, Wolf, Colt, Hare, Beaver, Lyon, Swan, Peacock, Heron, Dove, Partridge, Cock, Finch, Hawk, Crane and Drake, as well as Burt, Chubb, Haddock, Herring, Pike, Perch and others. From vegetables, trees, fruits and flowers we have Bean, Broome, Clover, Birch, Ash, Hawthorne, Hazel, Peach, Flower, Nettle, Vine, Plant, Budd, Branch and Root, besides dozens more.

The shop signs bore other devices, and from these we have such names as Bell, Hammer, Coates, Mantell, Jewel, Potts, Pipes and others.

A great many nicknames remained fixed as family names, the most important being those which referred to the color of hair or complexion, and from these come such well known names as Brown, Black, Gray, White, Reed (red), Blount (fair). Others were given for some personal attainment or characteristic, such as Armstrong, Mitchell (great), Singer, Whistler, Eatwell, Swindells, Strong, Weak, Small, Osgood (well built), Longfellow, Crookshanks, Longman, Whitehead, Broadhead, Swift, Sober, Noble, Hardy, Doolittle, Goodman, Darling, Long, Short, Bachelor, Savage, Wise, Sweet, Moody and others. To these might be added King, Queen, Pope, Bishop, Knight, Prior, Abbot, Squire, Earl, Duke, Baron, Lord, Prince and others which were originally given to individuals because of their bearing the titles or because of services they may have rendered them.

There are many more which do not come under any particular heading, but owe their origin to some event which the names appropriately indicate—Joy, Bliss, Morrow, Winter, March, May, Weeks and so on.—Exchange.

Making Sure.

"I wish to buy some ointment."

"Yes, madam."

"Will you open the jar?"

"Why, this is a sealed package."

"I know, but I've often heard that there's a fly in the ointment, and I wish to make sure that there is none in what I buy."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
