PIONEER NEWSPAPER-MAN DIES AT SALEM

David W. Craig, Associate of Lincoln at Springfield in Early Years.

From a news article from Salem in Monday's Oregonian the following is taken:

David Watson Craig, known as the "founder of the Republican party in Oregon," a personal friend of Abraham Lincoln and pioneer newspaperman of the state, died at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon, in his 87th year, at the home of his son, F. S. Craig, 310 Bellevue street, this city.

FRIENDSHIP FOR LINCOLN GREAT
Although Mr. Craig retired from active newspaper work in 1893, he wrote frequently for newspapers since. From that time until 1913 he lived on a farm south of the city, but in September, 1913, following the death of his wife, he moved to Salem to reside with his son.

Mr. Craig was a warm friend and champion of Abraham Lincoln. He studied law in Mr. Lincoln's office at Springfield, Ill., and during the bitter moments of the Civil War proved to be one of the staunchest supporters of the martyred President.

Probably no man in Oregon had more friendships among politicians and statesmen of Oregon than had Mr. Craig from old territorial days down to the latter part of the last century at least.

David Watson Craig was born in Mason County, Kentucky, July 25, 1829.

He came to Oregon in 1853. Arriving in Salem, December 2 of that year, he immediately took employment under A. N. Bush, as well as on public work for the territorial Legislature, which had just started its session. In addition to newspaper work he also was engaged in teaching, later taking charge of the Oregon Argus, at Oregon City, for W. L. Adams, its proprietor. He remained there for eight years, four years as foreman and assistant-editor and four years as proprietor.

In May, 1863, he removed the paper to Salem, where, with J. N. Gale as a partner, he continued its publication. In October of that year he entered into an agreement with J. W. P. Huntington, Ben Simpson, Rufus Mallory and C. N. Terry to buy the Statesman from Mr. Bush and unite the two papers, better to support the administration of President Lincoln in prosecuting the Civil War. This deal was consummated and the name of the Argus was dropped.

Mr. Craig was married at Oregon City to Miss Wealthy L. Waterous, who came to Oregon in 1860. The marriage took place, September 16, 1861.

Mr. Craig was the pioneer in the movement against slavery in Oregon. To him has been given the credit, with W. L. Adams, of being the founder of the Republican party in Oregon, and to him may largely be awarded the honor of having created and advanced the sentiment which listed Oregon among the free, instead of among the slave states.

He is survived by one son, F. S. Craig, editor of the Pacific Homestead, of Salem, and two grand-children, Eunane and Charles W., both of Salem. Funeral announcement will be made later.

APPEAL FOR HELP

W. J. MacLaren, general sup.

intendent of the various homes in Portland for the unfortunate, including the baby home, writes the Graphic as follows:

In our Louise Home we have cared for 69 girls since January 1st. We have 28 there at present. There are 43 babies under 3 years of age being cared for by the Albertina Kerr nursery home. They are our guests; your neighbors. Shall we do something to show our Christian sympathy with, and interest in them during this joyful season of gift exchange?

We hope you will use your influence. Many will be glad to help us bear our burdens if they are informed of this great work and its needs.

Our family of about 100 souls depends on us for 3 meals a day the year round—and a Christmas dinner.

Why not express your sympathy by freight? All railroads carry goods to us free of charge until December 31st.

Winter provisions are wanted such as potatoes, beans, apples, canned fruit, onions, prunes, carrots, squash, flour.

HIGH SCHOOL

Friday night, December 8, the following officers for the 1917 "Chehalis" were elected: Business Manager, Harold Lee; Assistant Business Manager, Archie Bowman; Editor-in-Chief, Gladys Prensall; Assistant Editor-in-Chief, Pauline Robertson; Art Editor, Gladys Prensall; Athletic Editor, Haven Wilson; Joke Editor, Harry Rockwell.

On last Friday night the sophomores and seniors held a poverty party at the high school building.

Next Friday night the basketball team will play the "old stars." Everybody come!

On Friday night the ball team play against the Woodburn team. The prospects are for an exciting game.

GOOD NEWS FOR PACIFIC COLLEGE

President Levi T. Pennington received the following telegram this morning:

Portland, Oregon, Dec. 21, 10 a. m.: President Levi T. Pennington, Pacific College, Newberg, Oregon—Late Joshua L. Baily of Philadelphia reported to have bequeathed large sum to Pacific College. Can you wire quickly brief statement giving amount?—Evening Telegram.

The sum named in the will of Joshua L. Baily appears to be $2,000, from information received by mail today.

The deceased was a wholesale dry goods merchant of Philadelphia and was over 90 years old. He was a leader among Philadelphia evangelical Friends and was noted for his philanthropy.

He has given liberally to Pacific College in the past, as well as to practically all the church schools. Several years ago when H. Edwin McGrew, who was then president of P. C., was in Philadelphia, Mr. Baily gave him a very large flag for the college, and this was the cause of the erection of the tall flag pole that stands at the River street entrance to the campus.

APPROPRIATE PRESENT

What can be more appropriate for a Christmas present than a nice trimmed hat? You will find a good stock at very reasonable prices at King's Millinery.

MOOSERS, ATTENTION

The lovers of boxing and wrestling are looking forward with interest to the smoker to be given by the Loyal Order of Moose in the Oliver rink next Saturday evening, December 23. A good evenly balanced card has been arranged and with the assistance of a good live orchestra should make it the most successful entertainment of its kind ever given in the town. pd adv

THE CHRISTMAS STORY

From the beginning, e'er creation was complete, God knew and saw That man, made as a likeness of Himself, would transgress His holy law. And from the beginning God loved man whom he had not yet made, And from the beginning the plan of redemption was laid.

As all Heaven for a sacrifice was sought, Not an angel, not many, were good enough, and naught was found worthy to be weighed 'gainst the soul of man.

But the best of Heaven, the Son of God, therefore, made perfect redemption plan.

So when the world was finished and all things ready for man, And man was made to have dominion, his rulership began.

But soon the evil one slipped in the garden bright and fair, With cunning ways he deceived for sin was lurking there.

They listened, they yielded, they did that which displeased God; They were driven from the garden with the blight of sin where'er they trod.

But as years passed, God through the prophets told of his wonderful plan For the restoration of earth and the redemption of man.

And in his own good time He sent the messenger to prepare the way For the Lord, our Savior, the Prince of Day.

So, almost two thousand years ago, one beautiful blessed morn, Christ left the Father, He came to us. He as a little child was born.

Was he forsaken? did He come alone? to a manger humble, poor? Ah, no, God looked from Heaven, He drew near and opened wide the door.

And the angelic host who had known Him in Heaven their white pinions unfurled

And came earthward to be near Him, the Babe in the manger, the Savior of the world.

They came earthward bringing to a world of sorrow, tidings of love and joy and peace.

They came earthward, with gentle whispers of sweet release.

They sang "Glory to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will to men."

They told to the world the Savior had come, they paused a moment, and then

Upward again through the star-crowned night

Before the dawn, they reverently and silently took their flight.

Thus weaving a chain of love as they came From the throne to the earth and back again,

A chain which cannot be broken, an endless chain of endless love, Fastened firm around the hearts of men to the Father's throne above.

Have we received Him, the beautiful Christ-child, in our heart? Do we know Him well? of our life is He a part?

Does He live in us, and we in Him? Do we feel his presence and love within?

Does gladness reign this dear Christmas Day That the Babe in the manger, long ago, far away

In Bethlehem, brought alike to the rich and poor, Blessings of joy and salvation from Heaven's own door?

Since that glad day, that first bright Christmas morn

When the King of Heaven as the King of earth was born,

Since that glad day when the angels of Heaven sang

To earth, and their message of love through the morning air rang;

Since then, His kingdom has increased, His gospel been spread,

For "Go ye into all the earth and preach," He said.

Since that morn, oh, blessed Jesus, oh, Babe of Bethlehem,

When the star led to Thee from the East the learned wise men,

Whether the gift be great or small, help us to give it in Thy dear name Joyfully, with songs of praise, for that is how the angels came.

Help us to know what Christmas day means,

Help us to realize the blessings it brings,

Thou the beginning, and Thou art the end.

Help us to live for Thee, our Savior and Friend.

Thou hast loved us as our human hearts cannot love or see,

Help us to love and make us perfected in Thee;

Then when the earth is restored and Thou hast come to reign alway

We'll realize the fulness of this glad Christmas day.

—Mrs. Mary D. Allen, Newberg.

SOCIAL HELD AT THE FRED L. AMES HOME

A very pleasant evening was spent by the members of the Methodist Sunday School Bible class and a few of their friends on Friday of last week at the home of Fred Ames on South Main street.

The gathering was to be a social, and a reception to Rev. Joseph Hall, who was expected to arrive home on that date, but who did not come until the next day. The social, however, was a decided success.

The following was the program: Prayer, Rev. Myers; Song, "He Leadeth Me"—All; Roll Call—Each one present quoting a passage of Scripture; Little Talk on Sunday School—Rev. Geo. F. Round; Poem, "Pumpkin Pie"—Rev. Mrs. Round; Song, "The Mountain Railroad"—Mr. McNay; Music

"Marching Through Georgia"—Flute with piano accompaniment—Mr. Ames, Miss Mina Ames; Music, "The Girl I Left Behind Me"—Snare and Bass

Drums with whistling, Mr. Ames; Talks on Sunday School—C. H. Nichols, Rev. Myers, Mr. Ames, Rev. Round and Rev. Mrs. Round.

It was decided to hold the next social at the home of Mrs. Hughes on Friday, January 5, 1917.

A dainty lunch was then served, followed by a social chat until the hands of the clock indicated eleven and reminded us that it was time to go home.

PANTHER KILLED IN FOOTHILLS

A panther hide was displayed at the McMinnville meat market on Tuesday which was about six feet in length. The animal was killed on Saturday in the foothills northwest of Yamhill by Sam Obye. The panther had come to a wire fence, and didn't seem to understand how to get over it. When the dogs approached the panther went up a tree. Mr. Obye let his seven-year-old son take the first shot at the panther, and the boy's shot tore off one ear. Mr. Obye then made more effectual aim and brought the panther down. The hide was offered for $20 but found no buyers here. Panthers are not nearly as numerous now as a few years ago, when they used to come down to the valley and feed on the sheep and goats.

REVIVAL MEETINGS AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Evangelist Margetts Preaching Strong Sermons—Will Close Sunday Night

The revival meetings at the Baptist church will close next Sunday evening. Evangelist Margetts is giving a series of exceptionally strong sermons, which are much appreciated by all who are hearing them. He is doing the work of an evangelist in an earnest, cheerful way and commending himself and the Lord he serves to all. If a large ingathering does not take place it will not be the fault of the evangelist. Seven have already made decision for Christ, and others are interested. The church has been helped, and the Christian people of the other churches who have been attending have received blessing.

The people of Newberg are urgently invited to hear the rest of this series of sermons, and to help by their prayers and presence to increase the victory for righteousness.

The subject for tonight is "Prosperous but Foolish;" Friday night "Emotion in Religion;" Saturday night "Choice;" Sunday morning "The Best Christmas Gift;" Sunday evening "Forewarned but Not Forearmed." The evangelist will address the Sunday school at the Sunday school hour.

WEST CHEHALEM

Lewis Amoth spent the week end in Portland.

N. P. Nelson made a business trip to Dayton Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Meyers, of Newberg, were Sunday guests at the A. A. Noble home.

Monday, De Vere Fendall returned from Portland after spending a few days there.

Mrs. Joanna Davis returned from Hood River Monday. She will make her home in Newberg.

NOTICE—TO YE OLD MINNESOTIANS

The Minnesota Social Association will hold their annual New Year's picnic at the I. O. O. F. Hall on Monday, January 1.

Everyone bring well filled baskets and if each one will bring a knife, fork and spoon, they will be sure to be supplied with the weapons necessary.

Let us all come and have a good time.

Carrie M. Johnson, Sec.
