

OUR WEEKLY CHATS

With the Boys at The Big Hardware Store

If you should happen to be going to be a June bride or know anyone that is to be—just give them a tip that we sell the Monarch Malleable Range—she'll be your friend for life. They're best for looks and best for service.

Harvest is coming and "binder twine" will be a consideration with the farmers very soon now. Don't get excited over the high prices that prevail and fall for something cheap but take a second thought and you'll remember how you liked that "Plymouth Twine" you used last year—it's the cheapest in the long run—650 feet to the pound and we'll replace every ball that tangles. Time is money in harvest time and you can't beat it—popular prices for season of 1917.

Just a few more lawn mowers will clean out our stock—come before they are all gone and remember we are headquarters for Goodyear Garden Hose—the kind that gives real service—10 cents per foot and up.

High class goods are a little high in price these days but it pays to stick to the lines you know are good—Acme Quality Paint is still popular with the trade—because they know the contents of the package that bears the "Acme Quality" label is first class and worth the money. A paint for every purpose "ask our paint man."

Don't put off the evil day waiting for the price to come down. Take our tip—buy what you need Now—prices have only commenced to advance in the iron and steel line.

A Fairbanks Scale protects you against short weights—a pound of spuds lost these days will make a good payment on a 1000 pound scale.

The boys are still making pi money catching gophers and moles.

We've got the traps you need to do the business. pd adv

PORK SUPPLY GOOD

War prices did not scare some farmers into selling their breeding stock. S. H. Burdett, of St. Joseph, has 21 brood sows with which he expects to help out on food production and his neighbor, F. J. Canfield, has ninety head of shoats which will make hogs of themselves on rape, a cheap summer feed. A little grain after harvest will put on the finishing touches to a car load of good fat pork.

LIGHTING A CATHEDRAL.

Simple Yet Spectacular Method at St. Isaac's, in Petrograd.

In an article in the Atlantic Monthly describing a midnight mass on Easter eve in St. Isaac's cathedral, Petrograd, Warrington Dawson says:

"A sudden blaze of innumerable candles, hanging high overhead in great chandeliers, tore away the gloom and told us that the ceremony was to begin. At the Isaacievski Sobor one match did what a switch or button does elsewhere, save that here the operation was as ingenious and initiative as could be devised. Instead of being a machine made contrivance scattered by millions over the world.

"A waxed string, an end of which hung down within easy reach from the marble paving, ran from one wick to another, then from group to group, from chandelier to chandelier, until all the candles in the cathedral were connected. The match was applied to that string. A spark splitting tiny flame raced up to the first candle and so sped on its way, an earnest, busy little lamplighter, quick as the snap of a finger, adroit as a monkey and almost unerring in its success.

"Among the hundreds I saw it reach I counted very few which did not blaze at the touch, and most of these flared an instant and sputtered out, showing that the string's work at least had been done. The general effect, indeed, was as if each wick had been an electric bulb, but the whole, instead of lighting when one switch was turned, depended upon a hand swept over successive buttons."

The Kitchen Floor.

A practical way of dealing with the kitchen floor and at the same time economizing labor, is to cover it with a plain, dark colored linoleum, such as red, blue, green or black, and to polish it. A shiny surface is easy to sweep up and keep clean, and if polished once a week on the other days it need only be run over with a mop. If treated in this way it will always look nice and will save at least twenty minutes' work a day.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Chinese Language.

The Chinese language is reckoned to be the most unwieldy and intricate in existence.

Dare to be true. Nothing can need a lie. A fault which needs it most is two thereby.—Herbert.
