$1.50 Per Year in Advance

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1917

A. E. Scott just couldn't keep his hands out of printers ink and consequently he is again associated with J. P. Hurley in the publication of the 'News-Times at Forest Grove. Makes a good pulling team.

The indictment of Kaiser Wilhelm by his 'Satanic Majesty,' which was published in the Graphic last week, resulted in the sale of all the extra copies left over and by request the article is given publicity again this week.

Judging by the continued advertising space used in our columns by D. M. Nayberger, of McMinnville, which comes unsolicited, this veteran county seat merchant has more faith in the buying propensities of the readers of the Graphic than some of our local merchants appear to have.

It is far from the normal conditions here in the Willamette Valley to have the month of October go by without rain but that is practically what occurred this season. The rain that fell on Friday night of last week helped the farmers out some but much more moisture is needed in order to make the ground plow well.

C. C. Chapman, editor and publisher of the Oregon Voter, knows a good thing when he sees it. Writing from "Bunny Lonesome Farm" in the Hopewell neighborhood he says: "Living in old Yamhill only 18 miles south of Newberg every week I do not see how I can get along without the Graphic at home, so herewith is my check for $1.50."

For the long winter evenings a lyceum course furnishes wholesome and enjoyable entertainment and practically all the community centers of any size in the county sustain courses. A course of six numbers is again offered to the people of Newberg and patronage sufficient to meet the expenses is solicited. If you believe in the lyceum for Newberg secure one or more season tickets and help sustain it.

McMinnville's lyceum committee has been fortunate in securing that grand old platform speaker, Russell H. Conwell, as one of its attractions this season. Several years ago Mr. Conwell gave his masterpiece, "Acres of Diamonds," in Newberg and the writer has since heard him give the same lecture in Portland. It is worth a small acre of good things to hear him and certainly the price of a season ticket.

The four ringed circus recently pulled off in New York again gave the claws of the Tammany tiger a firm grasp on that city. The Tammany Society adopted as its "patron saint," some years ago, the celebrated Indian chief, Tamanend, who was a contemporary with William Penn. While not as peaceful as were William and the Delawares under his reign, the Tammany Society has the staying qualities that enable it to come back on sundry and numerous occasions, much to the chagrin of all other comers.

A lyceum course of six numbers, similar to the courses given at Wood-Mar Hall for several years, will be given this season beginning on Thursday night of next week, November 15. The opening number will be given by "The Musical Art Quartette," of Chicago, the personnel of which will be Hugh Aspinwall, first tenor; W. P. Loveless, second tenor; H. Shieldmeyer, baritone; Harry Smith, bass. Male quartettes are popular with Newberg audiences and those who have appeared here in the past have nearly always made good. The one coming on Thursday night of next week was organized by Elias Day, who knows what it takes to constitute a well balanced male quartette, and an enjoyable evening's musical entertainment ought to be assured. The time is short for selling season tickets and it will require concerted action to place a sufficient number to insure the financial success of the undertaking. Season tickets are in the hands of several students and also may be had at Kienle's Music Store and the Graphic office. Those who signed up for tickets at the close of last season are requested to call for them and others are invited to assist in the undertaking by purchasing season tickets.

AT CAMP FUNSTON, KANSAS

Mrs. Minnie W. Cooper is in receipt of a very interesting letter from her nephew, Carl King Tebbe, of Kansas City, Missouri. Carl lived in Newberg some two years, and will be recalled by many of our young people. He is now at Camp Funston, Kansas, a member of Co. F., 356th Infantry. The 198 men in his company bought more than 450 Liberty Bonds, each man buying at least one bond. As a result of this added proof of patriotism the boys were allowed to go to their homes Friday evening, returning early Monday morning.

Carl recently underwent a critical operation, and had to leave his bed to report for examination and was surprised to find himself accepted. Despite the eight hour daily drill he has gained sixteen pounds in the five weeks he has been in camp. Camp Funston is still without heat or hot water, and the boys feel they are real heroes when they rise at 5:45 each morning, with no chance of getting warm excepting through drilling. One day they drilled all day through a heavy snow storm.

There were 40,000 men at Camp Funston, but at the time the letter was written they were being shipped out at the rate of a thousand a day. When 14,000 have been sent to other camps, 12,000 colored troops are to be stationed there.

Carl concludes his letter with the remark that the "Y. M. C. A. sure is treating us fine; two or three buildings where we can read or write, play the Victrola or piano, and enjoy other good things. And they furnish our stationery."

GOVERNMENT EXPLOSIVE REGULATION LAW

Following is the text of the bill which becomes effective November 15:

"That when the United States is at war it shall be unlawful to manufacture, distribute, store, use or possess powder, explosives, blasting supplies, or ingredients thereof; that the words, 'explosive' and 'explosives' when used herein shall mean gunpowders, powders used for blasting, all forms of high explosives, blasting materials, fuses, detonators, and other detonating agents, smokeless powders, and any chemical compound or mechanical mixture that contains any oxidizing and combustible units, or other ingredients, in such proportions, quantities or packing that ignition by fire, by friction, by concussion, by percussion, or by detonation, or any part of the compound or mixture may cause such a sudden generation of highly heated gases that the resultant gaseous pressures are capable of producing destructive effects on contiguous objects, or of destroying life or limb, but shall not include small arms or shotgun cartridges."

The above may be used by procuring a license from the county clerk, whom the government has designated to issue license authorizing the purchase, possession and sale of explosives or ingredients. All persons handling the above explosives or ingredients should correspond with the county clerk for further particulars.

As the penalty for the violation of this Act is very severe, you are cautioned not to violate the same. C. B. Wilson, Co. Clerk.

DR. ARTHUR WALWYN EVANS.
"What America Means to Me" is the attractive title of the lecture being largely used for the present Lyceum season by the distinguished Welsh orator, Dr. Arthur Walwyn Evans, blood relative of the English premier, David Lloyd George. Born and educated in Wales, where he made an enviable record as a preacher and lecturer, Dr. Evans came to America to take the pulpit formerly occupied by the distinguished author and preacher, Dr. Edward a Steiner, at Springfield, O. Here his work attracted the attention of Lyceum bureau managers, and the call for his services became so insistent that he resigned his pastorate to devote his entire time to lecturing. In the past four years he has filled almost 1,200 engagements. His lectures, bubbling over with wit and humor, are none the less thrillingly patriotic in character and should be heard by every American. "What America Means to Me" is a lecture from the heart of a man who sees clearly and speaks fearlessly, and while it makes folks laugh it makes them think seriously and deeply and feel a new affection for their country. Dr. Evans will speak on the Lyceum course here in the near future.

World's First Money.

Money is mentioned as a medium of exchange in Genesis, chapter xxiii, and is supposed to refer to a time as far back as 1800 B. C.

The coinage of money is ascribed to the Lydians, a people of Asia Minor. It is, of course, quite impossible to fix any definite date for the first coinage. Long before any one thought to coin money it was made out of any durable substance that came to hand, such as leather, iron, tin, bronze and even the hard bark of the trees and stones of the fields.

The Hollander, so late as the middle of the sixteenth century, made money of pasteboard. In fact, pretty nearly everything in the shape of lasting material has at one time or another been used as the medium of trade known as money.

Rough Going.

A youth who had accomplished considerable glory in football, but little in his studies, was dropped from one preparatory school and immediately invited to another. He had been there about a week when he was approached by a member of the faculty.

"Well," said the professor, "how do you find it here?"

"Pretty fair," answered the boy.

"That's good. Find it smooth going, eh?"

The youth meditated a moment. "Well, I shouldn't like to say that exactly," he replied. "The field's sort of rough yet in places, sir."

Old Laws of Scotland.

On the old statute book of Scotland is still an act passed in 1825 ordering that "na man play football," because it is "esteemed to be unprofitable sport for the common gude of the realm and defense thereof." There is also a statute against alien immigration, passed in 1426, and authorizing "all his majesty's subjects" to "take, apprehend, imprison and execute to death the said Egyptians (gypsies), either men or women."

Some Men Are Brutes.

"Ah," sighed Mrs. Jenkins, "we're never sure of anything in this world." "Yes we are," replied her husband. "Whenever you are quiet for half a minute I am sure that you'll say something soon or bust, and I've never missed it yet."—Boston Transcript.

Nor For Anything Else.

"That messenger boy could never make a political success." "Why not?" "Because he never could be induced to run for office."—Baltimore American.

The Leading River.

You may not have heard much of the As, but it is the world's leading river. You know in what kind of list.—New York Tribune.

"Ladies and Gentlemen—It has never been my lot to face a more empty headed, silly looking bunch of people, and I hope I will never be booked for this town again. It is not a pleasure to be here, and 99 per cent of you won't be able to understand what I am talking about. We shall now proceed with the lecture. My subject is, 'Truth—Candor—Know Thyself.'"—Richmond Times-Dispatch.
