$1.50 Per Year in Advance

THURSDAY, JANUARY 24, 1918

Since the oration season is near at hand the Graphic would suggest a modernized form of an old subject and make it read, "Beyond the Alps Lies the Kaiser."

Newberg has contributed quite liberally toward the 75,000 increase in population that is claimed for Portland in the past four months, owing to the big demand for men at the ship-building plants.

When the sick kitten stage develops to such an extent among school youngsters that the girls are unable to walk home without holding onto the arm of a boy, there is an urgent demand for the old fashioned mother and the traditional slipper.

The so called country newspaper publishers are quite familiar with the merchant who wants the local paper to go after the department store patrons, but who fails to make consistent appeals to the people to trade at home by advertising what he has to offer through the columns of his home paper.

It is stated that during the months of October and November railway dining-cars made a saving of 469,508 pounds of meat, 238,098 pounds of flour and 25,699 pounds of sugar. This is some conservation, but judging from our experience on diners, it is a safe guess that it was the patrons who did the conserving without any loss to those operating the cars.

The Graphic is not inclined to boast of its subscription list but advertisers, who are the parties most interested aside from the publisher, are invited to inspect our list at any time. If we can't satisfy merchants that we are in a position to give results we shall not ask for their business. This is not a charity shop. All we ask for is a chance to do business on a give and take basis.

MRS. UPTON WORKING IN COOS COUNTY

That Mrs. Clara Upton, wife of Rev. S. H. Upton, of Newberg, is busy on her job is evidenced by the following taken from the Coquille Sentinel:

"Judge Watson has had a series of juvenile court cases before him this week, involving delinquency on the part of girls 16 years of age, and younger. These cases were brought to the attention of the court by Mrs. Clara Upton, of the Pacific Coast Rescue and Protective Society of Portland, who is a state official commissioned by Gov. Withycombe. It is a work in which she ought to have had the earnest support of every man and woman who believes in decency and wants to stop the debauching of young girls, but in which she has been antagonized and snubbed by those from whom better things were to have been expected. Had there been such co-operation it might have been possible to secure the punishment of the men who contributed to the delinquency of these girls and to have put the fear of the heavy hand of the law into the hearts of others who might be tempted to repeat such deeds. As it is, all the excuse given for failing to support Mrs. Upton in this crusade is that, however bad conditions may be in Coos county they are far worse in Portland and Astoria, and that the rottenness down here ought not to be exposed and a house-cleaning made until those cities have been fumigated. It's the same old argument that we are justified in sinning because others do worse."

We doubt if a better selection could be made for an agent of the Rescue and Protective Society. Mrs. Upton has told the editor of the Graphic of many of her experiences with base men and wayward girls, and says she sees so much of the bad among the former, and that she gets so thoroughly disgusted at times with those, who, for the sake of virtue and the saving of unsuspecting girls, should support her in her efforts to bring the guilty to justice, but instead, do their best to thwart her, she almost loses faith in humanity. However, she says somebody must do the work she has in hand and she is glad to be able at times to lead men behind the bars who have been responsible for the downfall of ignorant, unsuspecting girls, though she likes best to tell of instances where she has been able to save the tempted before they have fallen. She is strong of physique and utterly fearless, and in many instances has proved herself to be a terror to evil doers.

Mrs. Upton merits the hearty support of all virtuous loving people wherever duty calls her.

SATURDAY NIGHT'S BALL GAME

From the Crescent.

Pacific College was defeated in a hotly contested game on the local floor by the Oregon Aggies last Saturday evening. The game was very close and the result was not sure until the last few minutes of play, when O. A. C. dropped through a few fingers and put them in the lead.

The first half started with a rush and with Pacific scoring first by Elliott's accurate foul throwing. However, the lead was soon overcome by the Beaver's scoring machine and the half ended with O. A. C. in the lead by a score of 9 to 19. Ray of the Aggies scored four field goals and nine of the ten free throws accorded him.

The P. C. boys came back strong in the second half and were able to keep the large end of the score most of the time. Colcord started the winning streak by dropping the ball neatly through the elusive ring from the center of the floor. Elliott found the basket for two goals, followed by one from Wright and two from Hinshaw. O. A. C. ended the luck by replacing Robinson, the gigantic center, who had twisted his ankle, with Purley, and ended the half by a score of 17 to 19.

The feature of the game was the foul shooting of both sides. Ray dropped through fourteen out of sixteen trials, while Elliott scored twelve out of fifteen trials.

Gawley, from the Portland Y. M. C. A., refereed the game, calling a total of thirty-one fouls. The line-up:

Pacific Col.	26	O. A. C.	38
Elliott, F.	16	Ray, F.	26
Hinshaw, F.	6	Kruger, F.	4
Edwards, C.	4	Robinson, C.	4
Wright, G.	2	Bissett, G.	2
Colcord, G.	2	Reardon, G.	2
		Purley, C.	2

STEAMER SEON HAS NEW CHIEF

Henry W. Chase went down to Portland last Saturday where he appeared before the U. S. Marine Board and took a successful examination and is now a regularly licensed engineer.

In his young manhood Mr. Chase followed the occupation both of stationary and marine engineer and was a capable man, but for the past several years he has devoted his entire time to the business management of the Chase & Linton Gravel Co. That he passed the severe technical examination of the engineering board is highly creditable to him.

Mr. Chase took out his "ticket" for the sole purpose of taking charge of the engine room of his company's boat when the necessity arises. The tempting wages paid engineers by the ship yards, government boats and the merchant marine service has made it almost impossible for owners of small steam-propelled river boats to get and keep good men, but now Mr. Chase can take charge at any time and this will obviate the necessity of laying up the boat for lack of a suitable engineer.

COUNTRY LIFE COUNCIL HELD MEETING LAST FRIDAY

On last Friday the Country Life Council of Yamhill County held an interesting and most profitable meeting. The various districts of the county were well represented and all the representatives took an interested part in working out the county program of work for the year.

Perhaps the project decided upon which will be of especial interest to the whole county is the home study tour to be conducted in Yamhill county early this spring. All who were present on the tour last spring will not need to be reminded of the lasting good derived from it, and will be more than ready to attend again. Some of the things to be emphasized and demonstrated this year are the beautification of the house and grounds of the country home; sanitation of the farm home; various household conveniences and labor savers; and the possibilities of electricity in the country home.

Other lines of work to be followed out in the county are the problems of conservation in foods and clothing; the campaign against flies as well as mice, rats and other household pests; and the study of home economics problems in the various communities of the county.

This is a full program of work and one of importance to the many citizens of Yamhill county. The council is depending on all for hearty co-operation in executing the work outlined.

HIGH SCHOOL

Principal McNair gave a farewell address during the assembly period Friday. He took a text out of Proverbs and impressed upon the students that it is their will and not the conditions which are about them which will determine their success or failure in life. After school the students marched to the depot to bid Prof. McNair good-bye and to wish him good luck while in the service of his country.

Friday evening the long delayed junior-freshmen reception became a reality. The program was excellent and the students report the games were better than usual.

Much to the dismay of the restless spirits of the students, the eighth period has again been established for the benefit of the mischief makers and the ones who are unable to study during school hours.

ACROSS THE COUNTRY IN A MAXWELL CAR

Overalls are the favorite pieces of wearing apparel of Miss B. Faidley, of Denver, Colorado, when motoring across country in her Maxwell car. She has just completed a tour from Chehalis, Washington, to Denver, something like 2,996 miles. After going over the mountains and nearly roadless countries she reports the car in good running order. Miss Faidley drives the Maxwell in place of her brother who has never learned to operate a motor car.

GOVERNMENT WANTS LUMBERMEN AND ROAD BUILDERS

Washington, January 21—So urgent is the need for lumbermen and road builders for immediate service in France that the War Department has made an exception to its previous ruling, and will now allow experienced men of drab age to enlist, under certain conditions.

Any man between eighteen and forty-one years of age, who is qualified physically and by experience, may enlist for this service; but they must obtain permission to do so from Major C. E. Clarke, Chief of Engineers Office, War Department, Washington, D. C., by mail or telegraph. The men required will be sent to France as soon as they are assembled, without being held here for military training.

Tremendous quantities of lumber are required by the American troops in France. A special regiment, known as the 20th Engineers, is being recruited to cut timber in the forests of France and manufacture it into lumber. This regiment will include experienced men of every class required in lumber camp operations.

The 20th Engineers needs immediately 2,000 woodsmen, saw mill men, machinists and others who have worked at lumbering. It also needs 3,000 men who have worked at road building. These men are to construct roads from the woods to the mills and from the mills to the distributing depots. In connection with both the lumbering and road-building operations complete crews of men, experienced in the great variety of machinery used and in the camp and repair work involved are required.

KING GEORGE AS AN ANGLER

Britain's Ruler Fights With a Salmon and Then Dines on a Haggis and Whisky Grog.

An article in a French paper describing King George salmon fishing is too good to be lost. It runs (in translation):

"He is an angler of the first force, this king of Britain. Behold him there, as he sits motionless under his umbrella patiently regarding his many-colored floats! How obstinately he contends with the elements! It is a summer day of Britain; that is to say, a day of sleet, and fog, and tempest. But what would you? It is as they love it, those who would follow the sport. Presently the king's float begins to descend. How he strikes! The hook is implanted in the very bowels of the salmon. The king rises. He spurns aside his footstool. He strides strongly and swiftly toward the rear. In good time the salmon comes to approach himself to the bank. Aha! The king has cast aside his rod! He hurls himself flat on the ground on his victim. They splash and struggle in the icy water. Name of a dog! But it is a braw laddie! The gillie, a kind of outdoor domestic, administers the coup de grace with his pistol. The king cries with a very shrill voice, 'Hip- Hip! Hurrah!' On these red letter days his majesty George dines on a haggis and a whisky grog. Like a true Scotsman, he wears only a kilt."

We need not add, says London Tit-Bits, that the description is meant to be most complimentary to the king, in spite of the lively imagination of the writer.

MUCH WORN.

"It is said that furs will be very much worn this year."
"I know my furs will be. They were very much worn last season; in fact, nearly worn out."

NOT WORTH THAT MUCH.

"Will you lend me twenty-five dollars?"
"No. I don't care to get rid of your friendship that badly."

DIFFERENT DAYS.

"When I was a kid the poorest boy could have fun making a snow man. You remember we used lumps of coal for his eyes?"
"I remember. I suppose making a snow man is now a pastime for children of the very rich."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
