Evaporation Cools Food.

You can fry an egg on a rock in the Imperial Valley of California by letting the sun do the cooking, but a Rockefeller couldn't afford the price of a tumbler of cracked ice, says the Popular Science Monthly. But this does not mean that the Californians have to do without food refrigerators. J. G. Hill of Mecca, near the Salton sea, has contrived an evaporation cooled refrigerator which requires no ice.

It has a wooden framework, and includes numerous shelves. Several layers of burlap cover it. A perforated tin can at the top is connected with hose which sprinkles water over the entire burlap surface. The evaporation keeps the interior cool.

In Position to Defy Snake.

There was an old fellow down in north Alabama and out in the mountains he kept his jug in the hole of a log. He would go down at sundown to take a swig of mountain dew—mountain dew that had never been humiliated by a revenue officer nor insulted by a green stamp. He drank that liquid concoction that came fresh from the heart of the corn, and he glowed. One evening while he was letting the good liquor trickle down his throat he felt something touch his foot. He looked down and saw a big rattlesnake coiled ready to strike. The old fellow took another swig of the corn, and in defiance he swept that snake with his eyes: "Strike, dern you, strike, you will never find me better prepared."—Washington Post.
