

SI DRAFT SAYS

You can stand around on the corner and listen to "fish stories" and when some feller tells you about catchin' 'em 36 inches long, you won't believe it till you go for yourself, and the first one you get on the hook is at least 4 feet long—its a fact try it out.

Run along up to the Big Hardware Store and get a license and a little tackle, and a bathin' suit for your wife, so she can hev some fun while you are fishin'—it makes a combination you can't beat for past time these hot days.

If you've got the "war spirit" and want to help out in the harvest field some place, you can get pitch-forks, axle grease, machine oil, and all the necessary paraphernalia for the job, except the elbow grease, of the boys at the Big Hardware Store. I'm layin' in my stock of binder twine, and all harvestin' supplies early this year—so I'll be ready to take care of what the aphs leave for my share.

You know that there Red Cross—Chicken dinner and strawberry social that them patriotic ladies out at Rex pulled off, hit me jest in the right spot—it's a great cause to work for, and you know I believe the chickens that give their lives for such a cause are worthy of mention.

Any way after a feller eats a good feed like that he feels stronger than ever for the "Red Cross business, nurses and all." I was settin' eatin' my supper out there with some of them Red Cross wimmin folks, and here come Geo. James along and he says, Simon Dow hes got an 8½ lb. boy, and I says by jove that's the reason Simon has been boostin' the Boy Scout movement so much lately—never could figger it out before, but time reveals everything if we hev plenty of patience and don't get tired waitin' when we start wonderin' about things.

No doubt this young feller will be a good customer of the Big Hardware Store, as the boys carry a good line of "Kiddie Kars," Air Guns, base balls and bats, skates, etc., all the stuff boys like, you know.

It's gettin' almost time to can my geese berries and Zeb Riddle was tellin' me about one of them new langkin steam canner outfits that Larkin-Prince Hardware Co. hev got to sell. You jest pile the geese berries bushes and all, as I understand it, right in the jars—stick about 14 quart jars inside of the thing and shut the door and forget all about your cannin' till they're cooked, and you set 'em away in the cooler till you get ready to eat 'em. I'm goin' to give that thing the "once over" at least, when I go to town again, and I may buy one to put to work with my Puritan Oil Stove that I got there just last week. You know Lyle Palmer was out to my place the other day tryin' to sell me one of them there Buick automobiles, and when he come in the house I says take a seat, and he set down in one of my chairs that I had just pointed with a dose of that Chi-Namel that I got of the "paint man" down there at Larkin-Prince Hardware Co. and the stuff wasn't quite dry, and he tried to get up and couldn't, and he felt so bad when he finally got lose that he forgot what he came for, so the next time I go down to see the boys at the Big Hardware Store to tell them how good that there Chi-Namel is, I'll just drop off at the Buick Garage and get a little Buick Four, they're some car for the money. Jes keep a tradin' with Larkin-Prince Hardware Co., you can't do no better this side of the Missouri River.

FROM THE NEWS-REPORTER

Mrs. L. S. Hopfield and daughter, Mildred, returned last week from Camp Fremont, California, where Capt. L. S. Hopfield is stationed. Mrs. Hopfield enjoyed her visit there immensely, though the weather was cool during their stay at the camp. There is a whole army division there. The Captain is feeling splendidly and sends his best regards to inquiring friends.

Collier's Weekly for May 25 has a Red Cross drawing from the pen of Fred G. Cooper, the noted cartoonist and former McMinnville boy. In the same issue there is a write-up which gives an account of how Mr. Cooper obtained his first job with the New York Edison Company. He was introduced to the manager of the advertising department by Will Irwin who was then reporting on the New York Sun. Cooper had never met Irwin but since both had lived in San Francisco, the Western spirit was such as to establish a friendship between the two. Cooper was twenty-one when he went to New York but he had the stuff in him that won, and since that day the initials "f g c" have appeared at the bottom of many bits of fine lettering, cartoons and illustrations in Life, Collier's and other periodicals. Mr. Cooper is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cooper, of this city.

UNCLE REMUS' BIRTHDAY PARTY

It is planned to present this side splitting show, put on by the "West Chealem Red Cross Troupe" at Duncan's hall, Tuesday evening, June 25, unless conflicting dates appear, in which case you will see further notice.

It's coming some time in the near future, to miss it is a near tragedy. Watch for the advertising.

SOMETHING BRAND NEW.

Movie Manager—We have all the scenarios we can use at present.

Plot Producer—But I have an idea that is altogether new to the screen drama.

"What is it?"
"A five-part production during the entire action of which none of the characters puffs a cigarette."
"Name your own price."

THERE ARE OTHERS.

"My grandfather saved the day at Lundy's Lane."

"Old man, I've been hearing about your grandfather long enough. My aunt saved over two pounds of sugar last month."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

as the positively reliable kind. Why not bring your prescriptions to the PARLOR PHARMACY, when you know that is the one place in town that would rather go out of business than serve impure drugs. Only registered pharmacists of experience are allowed to compound medicines here. Try us and save money besides.

Note from Bill the Plumber

Owing to the high cost of material and the decline of the plumbing business, I can't afford to keep anyone in my shop to answer calls, but I will wait on my patrons to the best of my ability until business conditions change and I can again afford to employ help.

Usually I can be called by phone, morning, noon and night and I always wake up good natured. Don't look on plumbing as a luxury. It is a necessity for the health of your family.

Yours for Service,
Bill the Plumber.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the members of the G. A. R., W. R. C. and to all other friends who so kindly assisted in the sickness resulting in the death of our beloved husband and father, also for the beautiful offerings given.
