"So she has. He's down the street now fixing gas pipes."

BOTH ORGAN AND ORCHESTRA

Remarkable Instrument in Denver Auditorium, of Which Citizens Have a Right to Be Proud.

An $85,000 municipal pipe organ, whose size and special features make it one of the greatest instruments of its type in the country, has been installed in the Denver auditorium, a municipal assembling place seating 14,000 persons, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In it are combined the qualities of a cathedral organ and a symphony orchestra. Some conception of its size may be gained from the fact that the largest of the pipes stands two stories high, is 40 inches square at the large end, and weighs 1,250 pounds, while the diameter of the smallest pipe is about that of a straw and it weighs half an ounce.

The success with which orchestral effects can be produced makes the organ particularly suited for giving recitals of a popular character, as well as for accompanying large bodies of singers. With its rich tones can be produced that are wonderfully like the violin, and the flute, clarinet and oboe are simulated in an equally striking way, while the mighty tubas and the diapasons furnish tone color that is pronounced truly impressive.

SADDENED AT LOSS OF BREAD

Destruction of Foodstuffs by the Submarines Decried by German Women, According to Report.

Here is a curious extract from the journal which Gertrud Baumer (who is, perhaps, the only woman editing a paper in Germany) writes in her paper, Die Hilfe: "The women in the streets were talking about the ships sunk by the U-boats. They shuddered at the thought of the destruction of so much foodstuff. One can easily understand that feeling. We have been taught to hold bread in reverence, to feel the wasting of it is a crime and a blasphemy, and something of the shudder that ran through us in childhood at the old story of the northern city which threw corn into the sea revives when we read these calculations of losses in a work of dreadful necessity." It is well to hold bread in reverence, especially when you are hungry. But one might have thought that the shudder would have been kept for the loss of innocent lives caused by the U-boats.—Westminster Gazette.

CHINAMAN IS IRISHMAN.

"I have seen and heard many pathetic things since my arrival in France," says a letter from H. C. Hollister, a supply sergeant with the American expeditionary forces, in a letter to friends, "but there is humor as well.

"I guess the funniest thing I have seen was a Chinese coolie, with hands dug Yankee-fashion in his trousers pockets, walking down a boulevard whistling, 'Ireland Must Be Heaven, 'Cause My Mother Came From There.'

"And he couldn't speak a word of English. He is still living. I haven't told any of our Irish boys about him."

ALL RUSSIA WANTS TO READ.

The Leipzig book trade has experienced an unusual revival since peace was made with Russia. It was soon discovered that there was a big demand for books in Russia which Russian publishers were not able to meet. The Leipzig publishing houses saw a big opportunity in this situation. They accordingly hired as many printers as they could find among the Russian prisoners, and proceeded to print Russian books as fast as they could. According to report shipment is already being made in carload lots.

JOYOUS PARADOX.

"You are going to take the advice of the department of agriculture and keep bees?"

"Yes. A beehive is a great investment. It proves profitable even if you get stung."

NOT SO CLEAR.

"No doubt, the speaker is a big gun, but it is very hard to get at his meaning."

"Maybe it is because it has such a fog screen around it."

NO EXCUSE.

"Diamonds are made of carbon." "Yes. But that's no excuse for a ton of coal trying to be as precious as a wagon load of jewelry."

DESOLATION IN THEIR TRACK

Destruction Wrought by Hun Hordes in Belgium is Something at Which to Marvel.

"Louvain will remain perhaps the classic instance of Schrecklichkeit," says Brand Whitlock, in Everybody's, "but Visé was worse. Today," he adds, "lying along the Meuse is a silent city; its empty chambers open to the sky. It might be Pompeii. Those ruins might have lain there for centuries. There is not a living being there. The devastation, the destruction are absolute, the silence complete; it is the very abomination of desolation, a mass of brick and stone and charred beams, crumbling white facades, whose windows, with their casements blackened by fire, stare like the hollow sockets of skulls. Of the 4,000 inhabitants not one is there, not a house is standing, not a roof remains. The taverns where the people used to go in joyous bands to eat of the famous roast geese are heaps of cinders; the very trees in their gardens, under whose boughs the youth of Liege used to dance the cramignon, have been burned. The scaling walls of the church tremble in the wind, the roof has fallen in; the towers with their bells, the organ, the statues, have tumbled into bits. The work that would have required ages was accomplished by German organization in a single night."

METHOD WITH HER

"Yes, I always move in the spring."

"Don't you find it a nuisance?" "No, indeed. It is such an easy way to clean house."

SOAP FROM TABLE REFUSE.

To conserve the fats contained in the table refuse and dishwater of the soldiers' mess, the British military authorities installed grease traps. The fat collected in these traps averages more than one ounce for each man daily. The trap consists of a tin-lined wooden box, divided into two compartments by a partition which does not reach the bottom by about four inches. The dishwater and the table refuse are poured through a strainer into the vat. As the water cools, the fat forms a crust on top and is skimmed off.—Popular Science Monthly.

WEALTHY INDIAN.

One dollar and ten cents a day, the pay for a bugler in the Three Hundred and Fiftieth machine gun battalion at Camp Grant, is barely "cigarette money" for Sidney Kernal, a half-breed Creek Indian from Muskogee, Okla., who at the end of each 24 hours adds $177 to his bank account as income from oil land royalties. He is the richest man in his division.

HIS OPINION.

"Good morning, judge. Tell me, sir, what do you think will be the outcome of the war?"

"Ah, how do you do, Lester! My opinion, as you have been kind enough to ask it, is that the case will be continued for a time, and then Germany will be convicted on the charge of disorderly conduct."—Kansas City Star.

HANK, THE YAPHANK YAP.

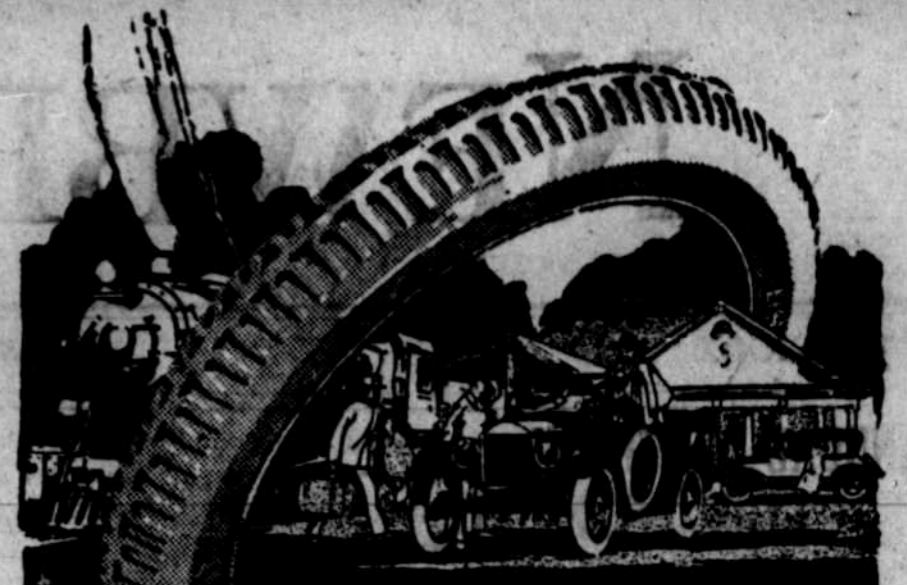

Examining Officer—And why did you assault the sentry in this brutal fashion?

Private Hank (late of the gas-house gang)—Well, de guy sez he challenges me, so I busts him one in de jaw.—Jester.

SERIOUS WORK.

"Dad, I want to go in for war work."

"All right, girl. But, remember it means something more than just getting your picture in the papers."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

We Set Tire Standards

Why is it that United States Tires are setting new records for mileage and serviceability?

Why is it that the sales of these tires are constantly mounting by leaps and bounds?

The answer is found in the factories where United States Tires are made.

Standards of construction for these tires are higher than ever before known in the tire industry.

Makers of tire fabrics tell us that the standards we have given them for United States Tire fabrics are higher than any previously known.

Likewise through every process of construction from crude rubber to finished tires—we have set new and higher standards everywhere.

These standards work out on your car in the practical economy demanded by war-times.

United States Tires will raise any car to higher efficiency.

There is a type to suit every condition of service.

The nearest United States Sales and Service Depot dealer will cheerfully aid in selecting right tires for your requirements.

United States Tires are Good Tires

We know United States Tires are good tires. That's why we sell them
