J. Sanger Fox, of Lents, was in Newberg on business Wednesday.

Mrs. W. W. Nelson visited in McMinnville Monday and Tuesday with relatives and friends.

Ellis Pickett has been discharged and is at home again after having spent several months at Camp Lewis.

Tom Higgins is here from Fort Stevens on a furlough. He says there is not much doing at the fort now.

Born—January 18, to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Shettel, of Portland, a son. Mrs. Shettel is a daughter of Henry Ehret.

Miss Pauline Robertson returned to her work in Portland as stenographer Wednesday, after having recovered from an attack of flu.

Word has been received from Sgt. Clifford A. Wallen, with the 16th Aero Squadron in France, that he is well and hopes to be home by the 4th of July.

Pres. Pennington arrived home on last Saturday from his trip to Chicago, Detroit and Richmond, Indiana, and has been busy since catching up with his accumulated correspondence.

Howard Kaufman, who has been serving Uncle Sam in the Spruce Division, has received his honorable discharge and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Kaufman, on North Main street.

C. H. Fitzpatrick says that he had a half dozen cousins and a number of nephews in the army and the only one killed lost his life in action on the last day of fighting, an account of which is given elsewhere.

Mrs. E. G. Willis, who came to Newberg to spend Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Marr, took the flu and was very sick but was able to return to Portland with her husband Sunday.

The Yaquina Bay News says that Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Irvin, who are well known to many Newberg Nye Beach goers, have gone to San Diego, California, seeking a change of climate for the benefit of Mr. Irvin's health.

W. H. Dean has bought the Mrs. Lucy Rush home which adjoins his place out north of Springbrook. He expects his son, R. H. Dean, to come from California to occupy the place and help in berry growing.

Mrs. W. E. Guyer and two children, of Salem, spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Wallen, of Springbrook, before leaving for Medford, where Mr. Guyer has accepted a position as sales manager at the Dodge garage.

Mrs. Maggie Littlefield and her daughter, Mrs. Lelia Eldredge, have returned from Portland on account of the continued illness of the latter who has not yet recovered from a severe attack of the influenza, although she is improving.

Glen S. Taylor, who came here from Cloverdale with his parents in the fall, has accepted a position as bookkeeper in the Larkin-Prince hardware store. Miss Jennie D. Miller, who has held the position, will take a place on the floor as saleslady.

George Etzweiler has moved to a ten acre tract with good buildings, located out from Portland near Clackamas, which he recently purchased. All his life has been spent in this community and this is his first move to another section of the state.

The Ed Asmus 5-acre home, formerly the C. P. Copeland property just north of town, has been sold to a Mr. McCauley and wife who are buying it for a home. This is the third time inside of two years this property has changed hands and for cash each time.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Allen left here last Sunday for Whittier, California, where they will visit with Mrs. Allen's sister, Mrs. Emma Coffin, and the duration of their stay is indefinite. They expected to stop on the way at Berkeley and possibly some other points.

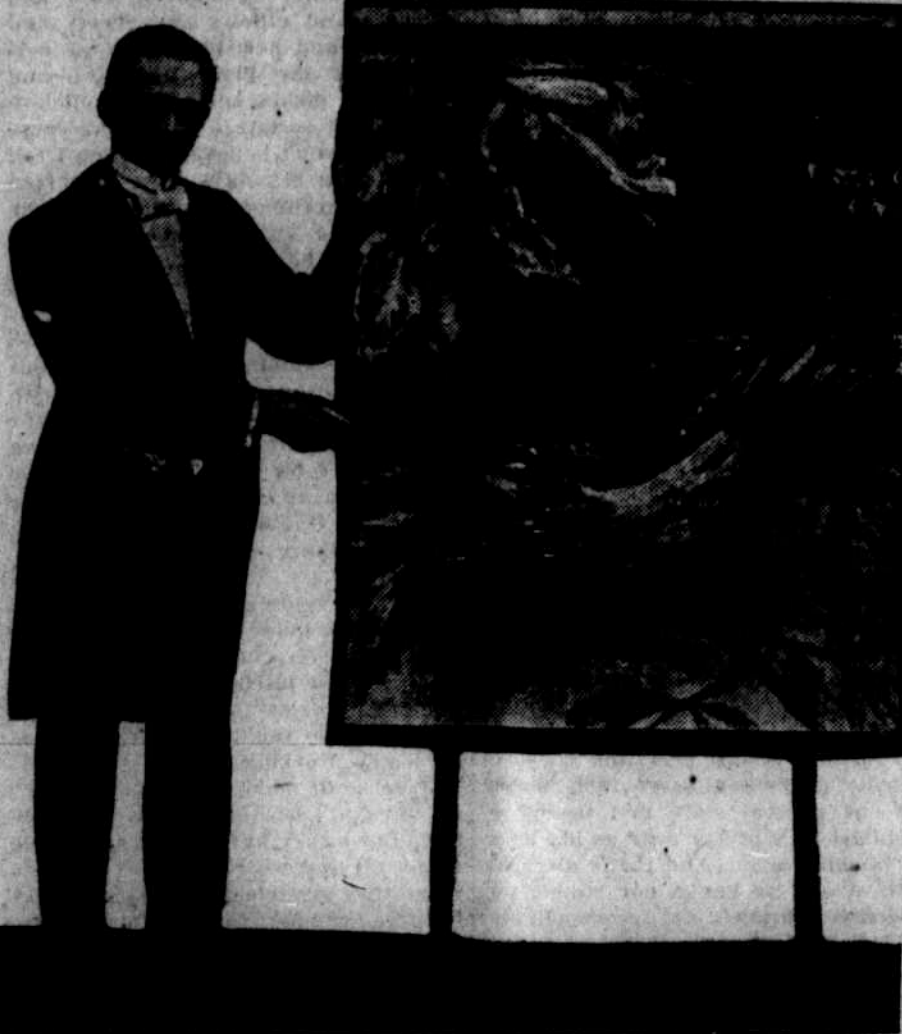

It would be interesting to know where Fisher got his model for the soldier shown in the cartoon that appeared in Monday's Oregonian. Possibly there may be among the returned Oregon boys some one who bears some little resemblance to that picture, but we are quite sure no Newberg mother will claim him.

George Melvin Hunter, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hunter, who moved here recently from Deer Island and bought the G. W. Cutts place near town, died Wednesday from complications arising from an attack of rheumatism. Funeral services will be conducted at the W. W. Hollingsworth Co. chapel on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

F. R. Rundell, who is serving on the Federal Jury in Portland and who was home over Sunday, told of a man alighting from a California train in Portland who was accosted by an officer on account of a suspicious looking suit case he was carrying. On opening the suit case it was found to contain ten bottles of whiskey. When the fellow was hailed before Judge Wolverton the attorney plead extenuating circumstances, stating that the man was traveling for a cigar house and the bottled goods were for parcelling out to customers. The Judge answered that he would take that into consideration and placed his fine at $250.

THREE OCTAVES ABOVE TETRAZZINI

Charles Crawford Gorst, the Bird Man, Sounds High Note

Charles Crawford Gorst, the Boston "bird man" who is to appear on the Lyceum course is a naturalist of national standing. His entire life has been devoted to the study of birds and their songs and he knows perfectly over three hundred songs of our little feathered friends. In imitating the tiny voice of the humming bird he sounds a note three octaves above Tetrazzini's highest note and outranges even the violin in tonal altitude. Many phonograph records of his remarkable whistling are featured by both the Victor and Edison companies. In presenting his lecture-entertainment Mr. Gorst illustrates American bird life with beautiful pastel paintings of his own creation.

Wm. Eames left here last Sunday afternoon for Eastern Oregon on account of the serious illness of his brother's son.

Mrs. Cummins, the wife of County Commissioner Cummins, died at her home in McMinnville Tuesday night of influenza.

The Montgomery twelve acre tract on the road above Springbrook, formerly the Wm. Kincaid home, has been sold to Wm. Dancingberg, of Salem.

E. A. Hall, who sold his place out north of Newberg to Rev. F. C. Stannard, is moving into property on the corner of Sixth and Willamette streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Evans and little daughter came out from Portland for a week end visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Evans. Ben is boss fitter with five helpers in the Marine Engine Works.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wharton, former residents of Newberg, were here from North Yakima, Washington, Monday and Tuesday, visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Howie and other friends. Mr. Wharton is recuperating from an attack of the flu.

On account of the office of Goch-nour & Blomwick, chiropractors, being under quarantine, owing to the illness of Dr. Goch-nour, Dr. Blomwick has opened temporary offices in the rooms adjoining the Olympic Bakery on First street.

Russell Parker is home from an army camp down in "ole Virginia" where he spent several weeks, he having received his discharge. While there he got away on furloughs and visited the cities of Richmond and Washington sightseeing.

The low stage of the water in the Willamette has allowed Chase & Linton to continue their gravel business up to the present time, which is quite unusual, but the heavy rains of the past week have put the river on one of its annual tears, stopping all operations.

Robert Jones, acting as deputy for County Surveyor Herring, is making a survey for the proposed new road up Chehalis Mountain, which Dr. Brown and others are interested in. They are working for a grade not exceeding five per cent at any place and hope to work it out accordingly.

Mrs. Eda Woods, the widow of Roy Woods, deceased, has bought the Elgin Van Blaricom cottage located on South Meridian street and is clerking in the J. L. Van Blaricom grocery. She has been at Estacada during the week packing her household effects for shipment to Newberg. For three years she clerked in a grocery there.

Omar Fendall, who has been head salesman in the Larkin-Prince hardware store for several years, has tendered his resignation to take effect at the close of the present month. He says he has two or three propositions under consideration but has not yet determined just what he will do. Mr. Fendall grew up in this community and he has a host of friends in town and country who will hope that he may remain here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Gearin, Jack Blair and Hazel Wassam spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Wassam, in Newberg. Mr. Gearin is home from Galveston, Texas, on a ten days' furlough and will leave for the Marine Camp January 25. Mr. Blair has been stationed at the Motor Transportation Corps Headquarters at Vancouver but expects to leave soon for his home at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Van Blaricom were called to Portland last Saturday on account of the death of Mrs. Nancy J. Foster, wife of W. A. Foster. They remained over until Monday to attend the funeral which was held at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Mr. and Mrs. Foster were residents of Newberg for a few years before going to Portland to live with their son.

Mrs. Bert Mitchell and daughters, Eleanor and Louise, arrived Thursday morning from Seattle and will spend some time here visiting her mother, Mrs. Langellier. They were detained eight hours by a washout on the track north of Portland. A recent letter received from Mr. Mitchell, who went to Siberia last fall to engage in Y. M. C. A. work, tells of his arrival at Vladivostok and that he was immediately sent on to where U. S. troops are guarding mines, about 70 miles from Vladivostok. The soldiers had been a long time without religious services or any entertainment and consequently he was gladly welcomed and in a few hours had a moving picture outfit going and music provided for.

Word comes from Astoria that six and a half inches of rain fell there in 24 hours. It was not that bad here but enough came to allay all fears of an immediate drouth. The wind accompanying the storm of Wednesday night made things howl, and telephone and electric light wires were badly tangled up. The lights went out at about 2:30 o'clock in the morning and early risers were compelled to breakfast by the light of tallow candles, serving as a reminder of the "good old days" of the past. If there is any virtue in rain and wind in shooting away the flu we have certainly been favored during the past few days. The wind has been from the southwest and consequently warm and not at all discomforting.

Under the direction of the Henningsen Produce Co., of Portland, the new purchasers of the milk condensery, the plant is being worked over and it is thought that it will start up again about the first of next month. Cement floors are being laid and considerable new machinery is being installed. The commercial rating of the Henningsen Produce Co., said to be the owners of the Hazelwood plant at Portland and another at Butte, Montana, is given by R. G. Dunn & Co. as being first class, which will no doubt give confidence to dairymen, which is necessary for success, since the unpleasant experiences and financial losses occasioned by the "late lamented" operators of the concern left a bad taste in many mouths.

Ralph Otis came home last week.

Mrs. Chrystal Rohrer, of Portland, is visiting Mrs. A. Millard.

On the last page will be found an outline of the new long distance telephone rates.

Attorney Clarence Butt spent a couple days in Portland this week on business before the Multnomah County Court.

Mayor Larkin says public gatherings may be held again beginning Monday, but that the lid will be put on again quickly if occasion demands it.

Charles Edward Gorst, the Boston "bird man," is billed to give the next number of the lyceum course on Friday night of next week at Wood-Mar Hall.

Wm. Pickett has sold his place out in the Chehalis Center neighborhood to Sylvan Stratt and is expecting to go to California where he has a son located.

Believing in helping every way to keep the flu from getting another start, the Minnesota banquet and entertainment has been postponed until January 1, 1920.

Oswald Best, who recently arrived home from Darlington, England, where he was assembler of American aeroplanes, went to Portland Tuesday to work in the ship-yards.

Mrs. Ruby Goulet, who has been spending several months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Stults, returned to her home in Portland Tuesday. Her sister, Miss Laura Stults, accompanied her.

Charles Trimble, a friend of G. W. Brentner who comes from Salem, has bought the A. B. Strong blacksmith shop on North College street, and is located with his family on the corner of Third and Lincoln.

One evening last week Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Edwards went to Portland to attend an entertainment given at the Jefferson high school by the graduating class, their grandson, Gerald Edwards, being one of the participants who graduated at the head of his class.

D. H. Brown, who came to Oregon from Oklahoma a few months ago and located in Newberg, is moving out to the John T. Haworth fruit tract located on the side of Chehalis Mountain north of Newberg, which he recently purchased. He still has a well improved farm in Oklahoma but he decided he wanted to try prune growing in Oregon. Mr. Haworth still owns his twenty-five acre tract, which is a part of the Granville Everest place just east of Newberg. This, he says, he expects to develop into a berry growing tract and one that will give him all he can do.

LABOR AND BOLSHIEVISM

Labor and capital must work together or there will be no work for anyone. If labor would earn a living wage there must be some enterprise in which labor can find employment.

As an illustration, an enterprise, say, requires an investment of capital, the interest on which at six per cent, amounts to $100 per day.

One hundred laborers are employed at $5.00 per day. Material and overhead charges and a profit of five per cent will amount to $2,000 per day more, therefore the daily product must sell for the total of all these or $300 each day for the business enterprise to continue a going concern.

Now if the product can be sold for more than $300, wages can either be raised or profits increased, or both. Suppose, however, the product can only be sold for $550 then wages must come down or profits cease and the owners of the enterprise can not operate it at a loss.

If the laborers will not accept less wages all employment in this particular enterprise is lost. Now if any less wages than $5.00 per day is not a living wage then this enterprise should close, but if some sum less than $5.00 per day is a living wage it would be better for a workman to accept this than to be out of all work.

By "living wage" I mean a wage sufficient for a man to live comfortably, provide for a family and put away something for the future.

All business should be on a basis to pay such a wage, but under the practical application of extreme socialism—"Bolshevism"—no business has any protection or any foundation on which to stand. It is a fortunate thing for this country and particularly for its laboring people that these extreme ideas are to be first demonstrated in other countries.—John L. Sharpstein in Walla Walla, Wash., Union.

KNOWS WHAT WINTER IS

C. L. Taylor, formerly of the Bethany district and now living in Canada, was visiting County Clerk Kuratli Tuesday. Mr. Taylor left about three years ago and is settled on a homestead 400 miles north of Edmonton. The cold in that country is hard for an Oregonian to realize, for Mr. Taylor says that before he left the mercury had touched 67 below. In such weather a person can remain in the open air for only a few minutes at a time, he says, and domestic animals are kept within shelter. The severe cold, he says, lasts but a few days at a time, however. A peculiar feature of the country is that notwithstanding the severe cold range stock is left out all winter and do not appear to suffer, for there is comparatively little snow and they can find feed. Mr. Taylor is much elated over prospects in the district where he settled, for he says that oil has been struck on adjoining claims.—Hillsboro Independent.
