

HARRY ROCKWELL WRITES
FRANCIS EVEREST

Well, as near as I can remember the last letter I wrote you was while we were in the edge of the Argonne Forest. Since that time we have traveled over 500 kilometers. If you can find Bois de Chippy on the map you'll know about where I was at the time.

From there we followed the Germans on toward Sedan, and we were near that place when the armistice was signed.

The night after the armistice was signed sure was a fine night for this reason. Before the "Hines" "got good" we weren't allowed to build fires or have lights on account of their aviators and bombs, and it was cold, damp weather for sleeping on the ground. After the armistice was signed we could have all the fires we wanted just so they weren't too big, and we sure took the chill out of ourselves. Every way you looked was a fire where someone was enjoying the sensation of feeling warm. Then they started in shooting rockets, red, green and white.

From here we followed the Hines through Lorraine, and crossed into Germany at Vasserbellung on December 2. Part of the time we traveled in the direction of Coblenz and part of the time in the opposite direction. Finally we got here, Eitelborn, 12 kilometers from Coblenz. How long we will stay is hard to tell. I look to fill out two years in Europe.

About the next place we go to will be Russia and we might possibly see the South Pole before we get back.

Now that the censorship is lifted I can tell you about this unheard of First Division. The infantry wears a blue insignia and the artillery wears a red. Part of the infantry came over with Pershing and it was August 20 when the 3rd battalion of the 5th landed at St. Nazaire. The 16th, 18th, 26th and 28th infantry, the 1st engineers and the 5th, 6th and 7th F. A. who came over composed the 1st Division.

This Division was on the Toul front from January sometime till the middle of February. We spent almost two and a half months on the Picardy front near Montdidier, taking Cantigny from Fritz while we were there.

We were in the second battle of the Marne when the Marne salient was wiped out, the First and Second American Divisions and the French Foreign Legion holding the "key positions." The Division only lasted about a week in that place. There was too much fighting going on for it to be healthy.

After a three weeks' rest on a quiet front north of Toul we went in the St. Mihiel drive, the 2nd Division going on the left of Mt. Lee and the 1st on the right side. The French had given up the idea of ever taking Mt. Lee because they had tried several times and lost many men. I might say the 1st Division had 54 casualties.

Since I've been in Germany I've met two ex-Dutch soldiers who were in the St. Mihiel drive and I nearly split my sides laughing at them telling about it and showing how they ducked all those shells.

About the 7th of October we went in action between the Meuse and the Argonne Forest and there we were when the armistice was signed.

No getting around it, this army of occupation is a great life if you don't weaken. As much as I have seen of Germany it beats France every way you figure. I've had all of France I want. I can understand a lot more German than French, although that isn't saying much for myself.

I've been pretty busy since I've been here boiling clothes to get rid of the "cooties." You want to be careful and not get the flu again. No one here has had it that I know of.

In a recent letter received by the home folks from Sgt. Alfred Allan, who was sent from the Rainbow Division to an officers' training camp at Valbonne, France, he complains bitterly of the mail service for the A. E. F., saying that all the boys are voicing their protests emphatically over the poor service. Alfred had received just three letters from home in three months.

The regular sewing work of the Red Cross auxiliary has been resumed. An enthusiastic meeting was held on Tuesday. Mrs. A. A. Post, Mrs. Marie Tangen, Mrs. Charles Shires, Mrs. Mary P. Johnson and Mrs. W. Small, of Chehalis Center, were guests of the day. The Dundee ladies were delighted to have the friends come and help out with the sewing as well as renewing the friendship many of them had had with the Chehalis ladies during former visits of theirs to Dundee. At noon a picnic dinner was served in the Hall, Mrs. Cyrene

Palmer being "Mother" for that part of the program. A pleasant feature of the day was the passing around of some naval souvenirs that Edward Billich had sent to his mother from the station in San Diego.
