REX

Mrs. A. J. Heskett and Miss Kloor, of Portland, visited in Rex Sunday.
Mrs. C. M. Roberts and small son are visiting Mrs. Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. Woodworth, for a few days.
The Brown family, recently of Springbrook, who bought part of the Moore Bros' place, are now occupying their new home.
N. L. Wiley is very active these days with a subscription paper gathering funds for an addition to the Friends parsonage at this place.
Mr. and Mrs. Carl Konow and son, of Camas, Washington, visited last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gustin, Mrs. Konow being a sister of Mrs. Gustin.
The Ladies' Aid had their first meeting for several months at the home of Mrs. C. C. Harmon Thursday afternoon. The officers of the preceding year were retained and after the business lunch was served by the hostess. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Jack Sawyer.
Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Lindberg recently sold their place to young people from Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Widdekin, who, it is understood, will set out the place to walnuts. The community regrets to lose Mr. and Mrs. Lindberg and wish them success in their new home near Tigard where they have bought acreage.
The Oscar Huber Company have a number of men busy dismantling the paving plant, when it will be removed to another part of the state where they have road work. Sad though it may seem, no tears will be shed over its departure as it was rather an eyesore to the residents of this place and of no scenic beauty to passing motorists.

WEST CHEHALEM

The Parent-Teacher Association hold their meeting next Monday evening.
Frank Remillard made a business trip to Portland the first of the week, returning with a new Chevrolet.
Mrs. George Perry and little daughter were quite sick the first of the week, but are on the road to recovery.
Mrs. Dora Moore, Chesney, and Warren Moore, the Misses Rosalie Hendrickson and Mary Warden were visitors at the church Sunday.
The Boys' Athletic Club held a meeting Monday night at the school house. They named committees to urge a movement towards building a local community hall in the near future.
The Tsetse Fly.
The dreaded "tsetse fly" (pronounced tset-se, accent on first syllable, whose vowel e has short sound, as in set) is an African gadfly, about the size of a housefly. The symptoms of its victim are at first those of a severe cold. The eyes, nose and mouth begin to "run," the body then swells while emaciation sets in, although not always fatal. The harm done is found to be not the result of poison from the fly itself, but communication to the blood of its victim of a microscopic parasite similar to that of Texas fever which it has received from a diseased animal. Animals or persons that recover are usually immune. The great dread of this fly formerly entertained has proved to be unjustified.
Didn't Look It.
"What would you say," asked the fair theosophist, "if I should tell you that I was born in Egypt three thousand years ago?"
"Why," said the man addressed, "I should say you don't look it."—Boston Evening Transcript.

An ADREDAFT Picture

D. W. Griffith's Great Story of Victory
The Greatest Thing in Life

Lillian Gish and Robert Harron are in it. A wondrous tale of an American snob, who found in France's trenches, amid death and muck, life's most precious gift. What was the gift? Come and see.

A delightful story, dealing with love and war. The situations are dramatic, thrilling and appealing. Personally directed by David Wark Griffith, who produced "The Birth of a Nation," "Intolerance," "Hearts of the World" and "The Great Love."

Andrew D. White, the eminent American diplomat, who died recently, was the owner of one of the finest libraries in America. Mr. White began early in life to accumulate books, chiefly on the subjects of the world's history. At last he had 30,000 volumes, a respectable total, as Mr. Birrell would admit, who once said that a man should never talk of his library until he had 10,000 books. Mr. White left his library to Cornell university.
