The ceremony was performed at the home of Mrs. M. S. Lane, the officiating minister being J. R. N. Bell.

Mrs. Hasen, the wife of David W. Hasen, the well known writer on the Portland Telegram, who came out from Portland today to look after a ten-acre apple orchard they have in West Chehalis, was a caller at the Graphic office. She said they made the trip to Crater Lake with the editorial party and that they found the road very rough a part of the way out from Medford.

McCoy Brothers have purchased of E. Wells, of Portland, the garage building which they have been occupying during the last three years. In the near future they expect to make some improvements which will enable them to give better service to the public. At present they are agents for the Maxwell, Dodge Brothers and Studebaker cars.

Walter Cooke, who works at the Chehalis Valley Mills, has reason for harboring a grievance against the Graphic for failing to record his recent marriage to one Mrs. Miner, which was solemnized in Spokane, but he is in a humor to forgive and forget since he is expecting the bride to join him here in a few days. After the marriage she remained in Spokane for a visit with her sister.

C. M. Woodruff came from Corvallis last Friday with his family in his auto and on Saturday took his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Woodruff, on a sight-seeing trip to Portland, which they greatly enjoyed. Mr. Woodruff Sr., says he had hardly been out of town before in five years, but now since the ice is broken he is going to see more of the beauties along the wonderful highway.

IS THIS YOUR CHILD?

Many children by reason of having bad and defective eyesight do not make the proper progress at school.

These defects are rarely discovered without the complete examination by an optometrist, without the use of belladonna, known as drops.

Children who do not progress in school, who are inclined to play truant, have headache and stooped shoulders, hard to control, should by all means have their eyes looked after at once.

The child who is slow to learn is ridiculed by his mates, censured by the teacher and blamed by the parent. Think what this is to a sensitive child. It breeds dislike for studies and hatred to all, and in many cases leads to the juvenile court.

Bring the child in and let me make an examination and I will tell you the exact condition, and then properly fitted glasses will make the child healthy and normal.

Broken lenses replaced accurately and promptly.

Chester Zumwalt visited with friends in Portland the latter part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Elliott and son, John, who recently returned from overseas, were down from Salem Sunday for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. J. R. Horning recently received word from her son, Fred, who has been with the Army of Occupation in Germany, that he and Earl Moore were expecting to sail for the U. S. A. on July 25. Harry Rockwell will remain there till the division comes home. If Fred left Germany as expected it was just two years after he landed in France. Keith Horning, who has been in the service twenty months, is expected home this week.

Rev. G. A. Pollard, who recently resigned as pastor of the local Baptist church, left here last Monday for Palo Alto, California, where he has accepted a pastorate, this call being one of three he received. While located there he will attend a theological seminary at Berkeley. The members of the Baptist church are not alone in feeling the loss of Mr. Pollard and family, he being an upright, fearless defender of the truth as he sees it.

CHARLEY HORNING BADLY SQUEEZED BY CAVING DIRT

On last Monday while Charley Horning was engaged with a number of other men in excavating for the removal of a water main on East First street, a section of earth where a fill had been made caved in and covered him up to his neck. Fortunately help was close at hand and he was dug out in short order, thus saving his life, for the breath was knocked out of him and he was unconscious when taken from the pit. Had he been stooping over at the time he would doubtless have been killed. While he was pretty severely bruised he is getting along well.

Theo Jeffries returned from the Palouse country in Washington last week where he went to look after the crop on his 160 acre farm. He says the grain crop is excellent in that section and that farm land is selling at better than $100 per acre.

PROMINENT SPEAKER FOR SUNDAY SERVICES

Rev. J. Clarence Pinkerton, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Los Angeles and now Executive Secretary of the Church Federation of California, will be the speaker at Friends church Sunday morning.

In the evening Dr. Pemberton will speak at the union meeting at the park on “Making the Church Effective in the Re-construction Program.”

This will be a splendid opportunity to hear one of the foremost questions before the church of today ably presented by one who is recognized as a leader by other denominations as well as his own.
