

THE GLAD HAND IS EXTENDED

Eugene Brown, of Los Angeles,
Sends President Wilson
Kindly Invitation

My Dear Mr. President—We were talking about you this morning and saying how nice it would be if you would only make us a visit. It would only be fair as we were in your place last. In fact, you have never been to see us since I can remember. I was down to see you the day you were inaugurated. I am the party with the poker face and plaid necktie who stood in Pennsylvania avenue when you rode by. You will recall me by my waving my hat and saying "Hurrah!" I am always doing funny things like that, but I don't mean to be impolite and I was really glad to see you. That is why we all think you should return the visit when you come this way and we are pleased to think you have it in mind. We would also be tickled if you would bring your wife with you. Do not think it would make us any more trouble for it wouldn't. Not a bit of it. You would both be just like one of the family.

Everybody says we have a right smart town and we would be glad to show it to you. Of course, it isn't Paris, but the boys will try and give you a good time—and the girls. You will understand this if some folks don't. Our Mayor thinks an awful lot of you, too, and if you come in the daytime he promises to get the band out. They have been practicing some new pieces, but I guess you are like I am and love the old ones best. But anyhow, the boys play fine and are well worth hearing. You'll like it.

We would show you the public library if we had one, but anyhow, you can see our City Hall, and the jail—and the river. We don't think you will find anything exactly like them in the world. We suppose you still take a lively interest in a college. We have a few of those and even if they are not as big as Princeton you can hear their yell just as far. We have a place here where they take moving pictures and lots of people go there to see the actors work. This is work, not play. Maybe you would be interested. If you haven't had any pictures taken lately this would be a good place. Some of their stuff is very lifelike.

Even if you don't care for our jail or City Hall, you will like our climate and our ocean. Anybody can build a jail but God made our climate and he worked overtime on it. Take it from me, it is the best brand of climate that our country can furnish. Possibly you have heard about it, as several people have spoken highly of it and a man from Chicago who was here last winter said he was going to Washington, tell you about it and have Congress indorse it. We are going to have our Representatives introduce a bill making our climate a legal tender and we ask you now to sign the measure if it passes. You will find it a great improvement over the hot air you have been getting.

Likewise you will find our ocean worth while. The Atlantic is all right to wash your face and hands, but the Pacific is some bathtub. Did you ever have a salt water plunge? This ocean is so big that you can lose sight of your fleet. But we'll try and have the boats here when you come and your friend Daniels will also be at the station to meet you, so it won't be as if you were among strangers.

There are a lot of folks who want this League of Nations explained to them and they figure that you can do it fine. Our man Johnson has gone on a rampage and insists that America belongs in the bushes and doesn't want any league. But you and know better, only you can tell it better than I can, having been suspected of its parentage and having been at the christening. We want to tell you that this man Johnson doesn't speak for us or represent us. We are strong for the League and we must be strong for you or else we wouldn't have elected you. You will remember that we did most of it right here in our town. That's why we want you to make this visit. We feel that you are one of us in spite of the fact that you had your picture taken in a plug hat.

Of course, we can't give you the time we once could. You know how it is in a bone dry town. But after all, that doesn't mean anything and a welcome is more sincere and convincing if it isn't flavored with Martini cocktails. Anyhow the cellars are just as deep in Los Angeles as they are in Washington and our motto is to let no man suffer. Thank heaven, we can leave it alone. We have a fine peach crop and the hens are all laying. What more can one ask?

When you get this, let us know as soon as you can come. We will be awfully disappointed if your visit is put off. If anything should happen that I shouldn't meet your train and you should want to come right out to my place you can find it easy enough. I live in the bungalow with the green vines in front and the roses in the yard. You can't mistake it. There's a geranium at the side of the house. Never mind hunting for a hotel. Come right up and bring the Misses with you.

You needn't bring any money with you. You can't spend a cent while you are with us. We are having nice weather these days and the nights are so refreshing. Also we have extra pajamas. So no more at present. Eugene Brown.

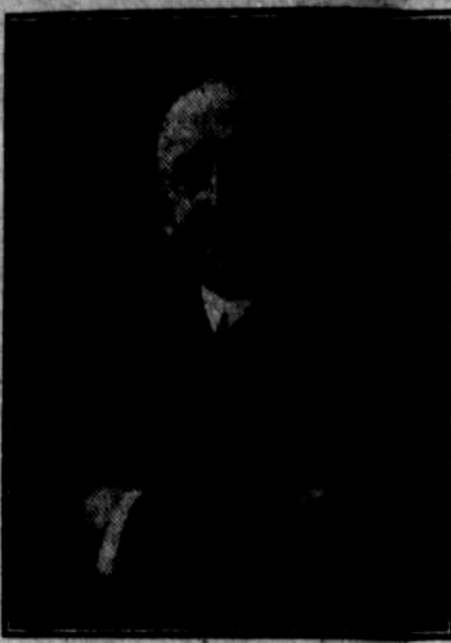

Comforts Over a Volcano.

Up in the mountains, where snow covers the ground more than half the year and zero blasts whistle out of the north, lies the town of Chaudesaigues, and in this town there has not been a heating stove or a furnace for many years. Coal, firewood and gas are unknown and there are no chimneys in this town of 2,000.

No, Chaudesaigues is not in Utopia. It is in Auvergne, France, and the explanation of its emancipation from soot and furnaces and ashes lies in the fact that it is built in what was the crater of a volcano, and from the ground beneath comes boiling water in great volume. Lectures Pour Tous, a Paris magazine, tells how this water is piped through the streets and under houses throughout the town without cost to the resident. Even in the coldest of weather, and it gets very cold in Chaudesaigues—well below zero—the houses are kept at a balmy temperature merely by raising a trap door in the floor and letting out the heat from the flowing waters, the magazine says.

Lecturing by the Ancients.

After the battle of Cannae—August 2, 216 B. C.—in which the Romans were totally defeated by Hannibal, the Carthaginian leader ordered that the gold rings should be taken from the hands of the dead Romans and heaped up in the vestibule of his quarters. Enough were collected to fill a bushel basket, and they were sent to Carthage, not as valuable spoils of war, but as proof of the great slaughter among the Roman patricians and knights, for at that time none below the rank of knights, and only those of highest standing among them, had been provided with steels by the state, those given the right to wear gold rings. On days of national mourning the gold rings were laid aside as a mark of sorrow and respect and iron rings were substituted. This was the case after the defeat at Cannae and on the funeral day of Augustus Caesar in A. D. 14.

Edward Cookingham, Oregon War Loan Chairman, who sends Armistice Day greetings through local Liberty Loan Committee.

Permit me to extend greetings to yourself and your citizens, and to join with you in the celebration of the first anniversary of that day destined to become memorable in history, which commemorates the glorious victory of our country and its allies in the great world war. I again congratulate the people of your community upon the overwhelming success which they achieved in the several Liberty Loan campaigns. The record of your district is a lasting monument to their self-sacrifice, and will be an inspiration to Americans whenever their country again stands in peril.

On this occasion shall we not pledge anew our lives and fortunes to our country and its institutions and resolve to bear our obligations of citizenship today with the same serious and high-minded enterprise that was shown in the dark days of the war? Let us not give less freely to our country now in the face of domestic peril than we gave when it confronted foreign enemies.

On this anniversary we celebrate the fulfillment by our soldiers and sailors of their obligations, but our citizen army is not yet discharged. It has assumed obligations which must be paid in full.

Your record during the war is undoubted assurance of quick response to every call of your country for financial support. I am sure it is only necessary to remind your citizens of the deficit in Oregon's War Savings quota to make certain its prompt subscription. Oregon has never failed.

EDWARD COOKINGHAM,
Director War Loan Organization for Oregon.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT DRAG SAWS?

Every man who ever breaks his back with a cross-cut knows that a drag saw does a dozen men's work at one-half the cost. BUT—do they know why the VAUGHAN has such big exclusive devices on its saw as the Jiffy Saw Holder; the metal to metal check; the Safety Angle and the Adjustable Finnan head.

If you're interested in drag saws find out why the Vaughan has them. Just write for our folder—it tells you why and also explains the engineering principles that must be followed to produce the highest grade saw—the sort of saw you want.

PRICE:
Standard $155
Clutch $165

We will ship you a Vaughan Drag Saw if your dealer cannot supply you.

Don't buy a drag saw blindly. Investigate. Compare. Make sure the saw you buy will stand up under hard lasting service. The Vaughan is sold on merit. It is time proven and tested.

The passing of the horse proves the economy of operating by trucks; twelve horses to be disposed of by the city of Portland for the twentieth century fire equipment. The fire fighting apparatus will be installed at the Municipal Shop of the City of Portland.

The City held competitive tests for trucks that would be best suited for strength and hill climbing under loaded conditions and speed on the level and the GARY won. This was a decisive victory for GARY trucks for the competition was open and all dealers were invited to compete.

The GARY "Ten Point Test" Truck is composed of Standard units—Buda Motor, Brown-Lipe Transmission, Tuthill Titanic branded springs, Parrish and Bingham cold pressed steel frame.
