

ALGAROA WILD FOREST TREE

Has Been Spread Over Barren Lands in Hawaii Without Any Effort of Artificial Planting.

The mesquite tree, or algaroba, was originally introduced into Hawaii by Father Bachelot, and planted in the Catholic mission grounds, Honolulu, in 1828. The original tree attained a diameter of three feet three inches, and a height of 60 feet before it was upped in 1906 to make room for a new city block.

The algaroba is the most valuable tree in Hawaii. The algaroba forests yield 30,000 cords of excellent wood annually, in addition to $100,000 worth of honey and enormous quantities of beans which furnish a valuable fattening food for stock at a time when the dry summer has exhausted the grass supply.

The algaroba tree begins to bear pods when 6 years old, and when these pods are eaten by stock the small horny seeds are not crushed but rather prepared for quick germination by the action of the digestive fluids. The spread of the tree without the expensive effort of planting by artificial methods over vast areas of barren lands of Hawaii has, therefore, been due almost solely to stock, and has in this manner become a wild forest tree. The algaroba in Hawaii has a very shallow root system and is subject to windthrow in very heavy storms.

HOLD CONVERSE IN JUNGLE

Expert Asserts That All Wild Animals Have Method of Communication With Each Other.

If the chimpanzees possess the most extensive ape vocabulary—and Gardner, who knew the sound and meaning of about a hundred monkey words, said they do—baboons have the crudest. Dr. Ditmars says that those in the Bronx park collection express their emotions with a roaring bark, a faint chattering, and, when frightened, a wild scream.

"But all animal life has some method of communication," says Dr. Ditmars. "In some cases it isn't vocal, but it satisfies the same need."

"When a lion is lonesome he puts his head close to the ground and roars. Possibly he knows the ground acts as a sounding board. With a different cadence this roar becomes a challenge, and other males take it up until the jungle reverberates with their din."

"Another roar with a different intensity is answered only by females. The lioness will listen to fix the direction from which his roar comes and will move toward him. Then she will roar, and he will move, and finally they meet."—Exchange.

Tooth Puller's Bad Reputation.

"To lie like a tooth puller" is in Le Roux de Lincy's "Book of French Proverbs" (Paris 1850), quoted from the "Dictionary of the French Academy" (1835). The tooth puller in those days was often a wandering mountebank who drew a crowd by telling Rabelaisian stories and indulging in horseplay. He sold quack medicines, and, of course, lied prodigiously. Lannelongue's explanation of the origin is more amusing, though it is so circumstantial that it breeds suspicion. Furthermore—and this is conclusive—"to lie like a tooth drawer" is in Philibert Joseph Le Roux's "Dictionnaire Comique" (Amsterdam 1718) with this comment, "No one lies more outrageously than a tooth drawer, who promises not to hurt, which is not possible." And Le Roux quotes Poissens' one act play, "The Basque Poet" (1668). "But all of you lie like like tooth pullers."

Flow of Language.

A colored preacher, one of the men who are never at a loss for words, was commending to his congregation one of the organs of the church, and this is how he did it: "The missionary bulletin of this church needs subscribers. It is young and unfinancial, but through the instrumentality of backbone and grit it will become an ideal. It was ushered into existence out of purely innocent contemplation of moral and religious good, which would, in all probability, result from carefully agitated principles of righteousness. The bulletin will be observed mingling in social convolutions to furnish with sheaves of harvests of those reasonable products common to social contingencies. The tone of the whole will be missionary work."

Moral Elevation.

The true greatness of a nation cannot be in triumphs of the intellect alone. Literature and art may enlarge the sphere of its influence; they may adorn it; but they are in their nature but accessories. The true grandeur of humanity is in moral elevation. The surest tokens of this grandeur, in a state, are that Christian beneficence, which diffuses the greatest happiness among the greatest number, and that passionless, God-like justice, which controls the relations of the state to other states, and to all the people committed to its charge.—Charles Sumner.

For the Poor.

The Revenue Collector—You can't run that tent show and pocket the proceeds without paying the war tax. That's not a benevolence, as you claim. The Owner Manager—My friend, if you were familiar with my circumstances and my show you'd consider the purchase of every ticket a real charity.

All Ready for Him.

At a political meeting held in a provincial town in England, a crowded audience had assembled to support a parliamentary candidate.

During the speech of the candidate a man put his head in at the door and shouted in a stentorian voice, "Can anyone here sell me six pennyworth of sense?"

The speaker halted, evidently quite dumfounded; but the chairman of the meeting immediately silenced the intruder by retorting, "Yes, but you have nothing to put it in."—Youth's Companion.

Matter of Touch.

"Go away from me!" said the fashionably dressed woman to the tramp. "I wouldn't have you touch me for a dollar." "I was only goin' to touch you for a nickel, lady," came the reply.

B. F. JONES REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE SECRETARY OF STATE

An open letter to the voters of Oregon:

Hundreds have written, telegraphed or asked me to become a candidate for Secretary of State; believing in the principles that if a man wants anything the best way to get it is to go out after it, and holding to the doctrine that under our form of government any citizen has a right to seek an office at the hands of the people, after due consideration without undue influence, I have decided to become a candidate for Secretary of State on the Republican ticket at the May primary election.

Being a stranger to many of you I am going to tell you something about myself in order that you may be able to form an opinion as to whether I am as well qualified for the position as other candidates seeking the office.

From first evidence I have learned that I was born on a homestead near Lawrence, Douglas county, Kansas, more than half a century ago; my father died when I was eight years old. I came to Oregon with my widowed mother in 1870, and settled on a homestead in the Yaquina Bay country on land now occupied by the town of Toledo. Two years later my mother died and I worked on the farm until I was 18, attending the public schools and the O. A. C. during the winter months, and then worked in logging camps and on steamboats until 1883 when I received a captain's license and followed steamboating until 1893, then serving three as county clerk of Lincoln county during which time I studied law under the late Judge John Kelsey and was admitted to practice in 1897, since which time I have been engaged in active practice of law.

Have served as mayor of Toledo, Independence and Newport. Represented Polk and Lincoln counties in the legislature four regular and three special sessions. Appointed register of the U. S. Land Office at Roseburg, Oregon, by President Taft in 1909, serving four years.

While a member of the legislature in 1903 I introduced what was known as the Car Shortage or Demurrage Bill. It was defeated, and in 1907 I again introduced it and, being a member of the Committee on Railroads, got the principles incorporated in the Railroad Commission Bill, which became a law. At the same session I introduced and secured the passage of a law providing for the Directors, Parent-Teachers' Meetings. At the same session I introduced the Jones' Free Locks Bill, which became a law, appropriating $300,000, contingent upon the government appropriating a like sum, for the purpose of building new or purchasing the old locks at Oregon City and operating the same free to the public by the government.

The government having failed to appropriate any money for that purpose, at the 1909 session I again introduced the bill continuing the said appropriation of $300,000 for another two years, contingent on the government making a like appropriation. Since that time the government has appropriated $300,000 to match the state funds and has purchased the locks, deepened and improved them and navigation on the Willamette river is now free to all, whereas before the purchase by the government a toll rate of ten cents a head and 50 cents a ton was exacted.

At the 1907 session I introduced a resolution to provide for the amending of the Constitution to allow women the right of suffrage. It passed the House, receiving only seven votes in the Senate. However, since that time the progressive voters of Oregon have voted to allow our mothers, wives, daughters and sisters the right of equal suffrage, and another stake has been driven along the line of good government.

During the 1909 session I introduced a bill appropriating $100,000 to pay the Indian War veterans for use and loss of horses in the Indian Wars of Oregon, a debt contracted by the Oregon Territory and standing unpaid for over 50 years. This bill passed the House, was killed in the Senate, but a similar bill became a law in the session of 1912.

In 1908, upon my own motion and at my own cost, I instituted suits before the Railroad Commission against the Wells Fargo and Pacific Express Companies of Oregon for a reduction of express rates. Both these suits were decided in favor of the shippers, and a reduction of twenty per cent was made in the Oregon rates, saving to people of Oregon thousands of dollars.

At the 1919 session, I introduced the Roosevelt Coast Military Highway Bill, appropriating $2,500,000 contingent upon the government appropriating a like sum for the purpose of building a highway along the Oregon coast from Astoria through Clatsop, Tillamook, Lincoln, Lane, Douglas, Coos and Curry counties to the California line, which passed the legislature, was referred to the people at the special election June 3rd, 1919, and was approved by a vote of two to one. And a bill has been introduced by Congressman Hawley of Oregon asking Congress to appropriate the sum of $2,500,000 to match Oregon's appropriation. California and Washington have introduced bills in Congress asking the government to build a highway from Puget Sound along the Washington coast connecting with the Roosevelt Highway and along the California coast to the Mexican line, and the State of California has voted $4,000,000 for the building of this road. Should these bills be passed by Congress, it will result in a highway from Puget Sound along the Washington, Oregon and California coasts to the Mexican line.

During my term as Register of the U. S. Land Office I worked for the revision of the public land laws in the interest of the homesteaders who were seeking to settle the wild lands of Oregon. I prepared and had introduced in Congress providing for an annual six months' leave of absence for the purpose of giving the homesteader an opportunity to earn money to live on while improving his homestead and to allow those who had children of school age an opportunity to send them to school, which resulted in the Leave of Absence Law.

I stand squarely for more and better roads; for irrigation of our arid lands; for the improvement of our rivers and harbors; that the government build and maintain all roads in the national forests for the survey and classification of all lands in the Forest Reserve; that the non-timbered, agricultural and grazing land may be segregated and thrown open for settlement; for a bigger and a grater Oregon.
