DUNDEE

Uel Marr and Fred Hutchison visited college friends at Corvallis on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Crowell, of Newberg, was a guest at the home of her brother, G. A. Dearborn, last week.

The children of the seventh and eighth grades entertained their teacher, Mrs. John Parrett, at a picnic on Saturday.

Mrs. J. Murdock, of Scotland, is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. W. Meyer. Mr. and Mrs. Murdock expect to settle in Portland and are at present house hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Olmsted and Mr. and Mrs. Newton Bailey and family attended commencement exercises at the Oregon Agricultural College on Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bland Herring gave a family party in honor of their oldest grandchild, John Herring Jr., on Sunday. There were twenty-two of the family to dinner and twenty-three for supper.

Friends and neighbors attended the funeral services at Newberg on Friday. The profusion of beautiful floral tributes told of the love and respect for Mrs. Eddens in the community and the heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved family.

The regular meeting of the Dundee Woman's Club was postponed on Thursday on account of the death of Mrs. L. J. Eddens, who for years has been a member of the club. A very large number of the members of the club and Mrs. Eddens' friends and neighbors attended the funeral services at Newberg on Friday. The profusion of beautiful floral tributes told of the love and respect for Mrs. Eddens in the community and the heartfelt sympathy for the bereaved family.

The first road bonding measure carried but the last two were lost.

SPRINGBROOK

Mr. and Mrs. Volbrecht, of Portland, spent Sunday at the Markell home.

Rev. Carl Miller returned Tuesday morning from his business trip to Caldwell, Idaho.

Mr. and Mrs. Hinshaw, of Portland, were Sunday guests at the D. W. Ramsey home.

This community has a novelty in the way of a crane caring for a large flock of little chickens.

If you have any trouble getting central just call in the services of a medium. If they can call up the dead they would certainly have no trouble in rousing one who only sleepeth.

What about Charley Graves, anyway? Now, don't tell all you know at one time. Maybe it isn't going to happen at all; you've just got the girl's word for it. Why don't you go and ask him?

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gregg arrived here last Thursday from Cleveland, Ohio, and are staying at the homes of their daughters, Mrs. Carl F. Miller and Mrs. C. D. Childs. They will make this their permanent home.

Springbrook parents believe in making their children mind. Several youngsters have been snatched bald headed since school was out and we guess they will toe the mark hereafter. When you see a boy minus his hair you may be quite sure that he is made to walk chalk around home.

SOME BERRY CROP

L. L. Vincent, of Salem, Oregon, sold his loganberry crop for 1920, estimated at 150 tons, for 13½ cents a pound. This will make the gross return $40,500, and the estimated cost of training and picking the crop is $14,000.—Pacific Home-

YES, PAINTING PAYS

"Can I afford to paint?" is the question the farmer often asks himself. However, the question he should be asking is, "Can I afford not to paint?" The up-to-date farmer is a thinking man, and more and more he is analyzing the things that add to the value of his property.

Paint protects. Moisture, rain, fog, intense sun-rays and drying summer winds play havoc with unpainted surfaces of implements and buildings. The wood loses its life, starts to rot and crumbles away. The metal rusts and gradually falls to pieces. Paint fills the pores of the wood and metal and protects the surface so that heat and moisture cannot attack. It is an interesting fact that the annual loss due to need of paint is greater than the annual loss due to fire. From this alone, it is evident that paint is the best kind of insurance.

Paint adds value. Well painted farm buildings and implements give an air of thrift and prosperity to a farm. Bankers will lend from 5 per cent to 20 per cent more on a thrifty looking place than they will on one that is neglected and in need of paint. Well painted farm buildings and equipments are attractive and easier to sell, and command more money.

Paint cleans and beautifies. Paint does more than any other one thing in making the farm cheerful and modern. Even the oldest buildings take on new life when painted and are often most attractive. A coat of white on the sides and a coat of red on the roof gives an air of cheerfulness and comfort that is worth dollars. At the same time paint lessens labor. Painted surfaces are easy to keep clean and are sanitary. A damp rag rubbed over a painted surface cleans it.

Hospitals are kept shining with new coats of paint inside and out. This is because paint is sanitary for disease germs do not like paint. Railroad rolling stock is kept painted year in and year out. This is for protection and insurance against loss by deterioration. Homes built to sell, or old homes-up for sale are painted properly because of the value paint adds to property. Automobiles, given a comparatively inexpensive coat of paint, bring higher price in the second hand market.

It seems that painting is not a luxury. It is just "out and out good business."—A. J. M.
