GUAM THE LAND WITHOUT A WORRY

Picture a land where they have no peace treaties or politics, no candidates or elections, no income taxes or poor houses; where the landlord, the butcher and baker don't enter into the scheme of things, and worry is unknown.

That's Guam—a little island in the South Pacific, under the nominal rule of a governor sent there by the United States, and guarded by a force of U. S. Marines. The island is daily coming into more prominence, as it is soon to be fortified as a base for the Pacific Fleet.

The sun works overtime for Guam, the land is fertile. The 12,000 natives exact a living from the soil with a minimum of effort. They raise only enough for their own needs. They farm a little, go fishing occasionally and delight in the pastime of "coconut watching," which means, according to the Marines who have visited there, lying on their backs beneath the palm trees and watching the coconuts grow.

When war a destructive typhoon came the Government passed a labor law, compelling every able bodied man to cultivate a bit of land. The easy-going natives object—they worked in groups so that they might talk and be sociable.

They have a simple Christian creed and are devoted in their worship. Since the island was ceded by Spain to the United States, some twenty years ago, education and sanitation have improved 100 per cent.

In recent years the Government has maintained a considerable force of Marines in Guam, and Marine Corps recruiting officers at Third and Alder streets, Portland, Oregon, report that many Marines who have lived under the spell of this modern Utopia re-enlist with the object of returning there.

The Marines call it "The Land Without a Worry."

A REMARKABLE INCIDENT

The unbelievable amount of punishment sustained by automobile tires in speed races, when wheels are revolving at the rate of 25 times a second when the car is making 100 miles an hour, is not appreciated by the average racing fan.

A remarkable incident in the recent Los Angeles race brings this point out in a striking manner. Art Klein was leading the field on the 183rd mile, cleaving the air at 104 miles an hour. Suddenly his right rear wheel collapsed, the steel spokes being sheared off close to the rim. Rearing wildly, the car scrambled crazily about on the remains of the wheel, but the fully inflated Goodyear cord tire, perfectly mounted, swept on down the track at terrific speed in the direction the car had been taking. When it finally came to a stop, it was found uninjured.

This is the first time that such a freak performance, demonstrating the ruggedness of tires, has ever been witnessed during a race.

FINE POINT IN DRAW POKER

Would a Gentleman Take a Pot on a Hand That Was Not Dealt to Him?

Coats off, shirtsleeves rolled up, and sopping handkerchiefs bound tightly round their brows, Bloodthirsty Bill, Chester Charlie, Daredevil Dick, the dealer, and Slicer Sam sat in solemn conclave round the table, playing a furious game of poker.

Stakes and excitement ran high. Each man seemed to hold a tiptop hand, and none would relinquish the betting. At last time came for the hands to be exposed.

"Four twos!" shrieked Bloodthirsty Bill.

"Four threes!" shouted Chester Charlie.

"Straight flush!" roared Daredevil Dick, the dealer.

"Royal flush!" screeched Slicer Sam.

Daredevil Dick, the dealer, was staggered.

"Take it, Sam, if you've got the nerve," he muttered; "but you know it's not the hand I dealt you."—London Tit-Bits.
