MAKE THE MOST OF TODAY

All That Has Gone Before Is Past and The Future Is Clouded With Uncertainty.

Today is what you have. It is also what you are. And again, Today is what you do. And if you haven't anything, and aren't anybody, and do nothing—why, then, for you there is no Today.

For Today is music. Today is art.
Today is literature. Today is joy. Today is work. Today is play. Today is life.

Yesterday is no problem—for it is past. Tomorrow is no problem—for it isn't here. Today is supremacy. Today is the world. Today is—Opportunity!

Crowd in upon it then. Today—take hold upon its faintest chance. Spread your smiles—Today. Be game—Today. Be glad and great—Today.

Today is the day—your day.

Today is Time and Change doing its job. Are you a vital part of the play?
Today you may start out all anew. Today you may put to use what you learned a day ago. The center of your entire life may revolve about—Today.

But, above all things, do not fear—Today. And let all worry slide. All things that do not count—let them go, too. Work and help and love—Today.

For this Today will never dawn again!—George Matthew Adams in Good Housekeeping.

Snake's Menace Mere Bluff.

A really accomplished reptile recently arrived in London in the shape of the American "hog-nosed snake." When approached by man, it acts in a most disturbing way, flattening part of its body and inflating an awesome hood like a cobra. If ever anything said: "I am death," it is the hog-nosed snake receiving a caller.
As you get nearer, its rage and menace increase, but, one more step, and there is an anti-climax. The hood collapses, the snake "flaps" to the ground, turns on its back and appears perfectly lifeless. Stir it with a stick, and it remains as limp as a piece of garden hose, but turn your back and it will crawl away. The two specimens now in the Zoological gardens, Regent's park, have gone through their "act" so often that they are too bored to repeat it for the present. The point of the joke is that the hog-nosed snake is perfectly harmless.

Cleaning Watches With Bread.

Perhaps the most novel use to which bread is put may be seen in some of the great watch factories, where more than forty loaves of fresh bread are sometimes used each day.

From earliest times in the history of watchmaking it has been the custom to reduce fresh bread to the form of dough. This dough is used for removing oil and chips that naturally adhere in course of manufacture to pieces as small as the parts of a watch. There are many parts of a watch that are so small as to be barely visible to the naked eye. The oils absorbed by this dough, and the chips stick to it, and there is no other known substance which can be used as a wiper without leaving some of its particles attached to the thing wiped.

Enormous Sharks.

Sharks grow to a tremendous size.
Rondelet's shark, for instance, which is an inhabitant of tropical seas, attains a length of 40 feet. The great basking shark is even longer. A young fish of this species, brought to England and set up, is 17 feet in length. Full grown, this shark may measure 50 feet and rival the whales in girth and weight.

Saw-fish have been killed 30 feet in length, and it is not for a moment to be supposed that we have secured the largest. The fact is that the natural history of the seas is still very largely a sealed book, and that surprises are still in store for future generations.
