PROPOSED COW ORDINANCE AIRED

Writers Fail To See Where The People Would Be Benefitted By Its Adoption.

To the Editor:—

The writer feels it is important that careful consideration be given to the proposed City Ordinance prohibiting the keeping of cows in the city, within 100 feet of a dwelling. The number of voters who are directly affected by this proposal is probably not large, and those who are not so affected, or who give the matter only a passing thought may feel that it is in line with contributing to public health and sanitation, and is therefore desirable. It is true that in town is no place for a dirty barnyard. It is also true that now at a time when people are beginning to realize the immense importance to public health—in fact the necessity—of having an abundant milk supply as an element in the diet, especially of growing young people, it would be a grave mistake to banish the family cow entirely from a community. It is a reason why numerous heads of families choose a place like Newberg as a home, that they may have wholesome conditions under which to bring up children. Dependence on a remote milk supply is one of the most unfortunate factors in making urban conditions unfavorable for children. When we stop to consider that the standard size of blocks in Newberg is 200 ft. by 200 ft. it is at once apparent that very few cows will be left if such an ordinance passes.

If there are places in town where cows are being kept in such a manner as to be a nuisance, a way should, of course, be provided to protect the neighborhood, but surely that can be done without such drastic action, in fact such public misfortune as the entire elimination of the family cow and that is what the proposed action would amount to.

S.

Editor Graphic:—

The proposed ordinance prohibiting the keeping of cows in the city, within a distance of 100 feet of any dwelling, is, we think, ill advised and undesirable, as it would entail a hardship on many people, and would not confer any benefit to any citizen that could not be secured under existing laws.

There are a goodly number of cows in Newberg which supply milk for their owners, and in nearly every instance, also supply milk for from three to five other families. In nine cases out of every ten where cows are kept in this city the conditions are all that could be desired in the way of sanitary surroundings. In the very few cases where exceptions to this rule are found, it is an easy matter to call the attention of the secretary of the Board of Health to the existence of the nuisance and have it abated without cost or expense.

In any case where cows, horses, goats or poultry are kept in the city it is the duty of the owner to keep the premises where such stock is maintained in a sanitary condition, and not permit said premises to become a menace to health or a nuisance to the neighborhood.

The proposed order would not be a benefit in any sense as it is not needed, and it would be detrimental and contrary to public policy, in that it would cause not only needless trouble to the owners of cows, and the many children who depend upon them for pure healthful food, and would increase the cost of milk to 15 cents a quart as soon as the cows are banished from town, therefore, Vote No.

President of International Lyceum to Speak

William H. Stout, Noted Orator, to Discuss "Seeing Life Whole"—One of Feature Numbers on Local Lecture Series.

William H. Stout, who was chosen president of the International Lyceum and Chautauqua association at its annual convention in Chicago, and who is one of the big men of the Lyceum world today, is to lecture here in the near future.

He had an extensive scholastic and business experience, peculiarly qualifying him to interpret life and instruct his hearers. He studied the platform as few men have studied it from the angle of vision of bureau manager, representative and patron, and as a result presents a series of lectures peculiarly attractive, models of chaste English and vibrant with purpose. "Seeing Life Whole," probably the most popular of his platform offerings, is of particular moment to young people.

AN APPEAL FROM THE SCHOOL BOARD

The School Board hopes that friends of the schools will turn out to the school election Saturday afternoon, November 27, (at the grade building) in sufficient numbers to make sure that the proposed tax levy carries.

Increased enrollment that has necessitated the addition of several teachers, operating expenses that are greater but unavoidable, and a very modest provision of a fund to retire bonds that will mature within a few years are the reasons why a levy is asked for considerably in excess of that for last year.

Unless someone can show how the estimates can be reduced the money must be raised. A defeat of the budget next Saturday might postpone the payment of the bills; it would surely cause great confusion and inconvenience to everyone in any way concerned, but it is difficult to see how anything worthwhile could be accomplished, for either the bills must ultimately be paid or the schools closed, and of course the latter alternative cannot be considered.

The board will heartily welcome any constructive suggestions in the line of possible economies, but in the meantime it is essential that a levy be made and the appeal is made for success of the budget as proposed.

SUNDAY FIRE SPOILS THE BEANS

Shortly after the noon hour on Sunday, the fire department, in response to an alarm sent in from East Third street made a record run to the home of C. H. Ellis, but despite their prompt response to the call, the fire had got in its deadly work and the beans were a total loss with no insurance.

The Ellis family had left home and also left, on the stove, a pot of beans, which boiled dry and finally burned, completely filling the house with smoke. When Mr. Ellis opened the door on his arrival home, the volume of smoke which poured forth caused him to believe there was a bad fire inside, consequently he sent in the alarm which brought out the fire department—too late alas, to save the beans.

THE CHURCH AS A BUSINESS ASSET

Did it ever occur to you that the church is one of the best business investments in the town?

Suppose for instance, a town of 1500 or 2000 population without a church,—what would be the result? Suppose that the affiliated members of the different churches should vacate this town, and their places be filled with those who, as the saying goes, "Have no use for the church," what would be the result? Would it not prove disastrous to the business interests of the town?

If there were no churches in Newberg do you imagine that new comers would invest their money in homes, or engage in new business enterprises here? Even though you are not affiliated with any church organization, would you wish to bring up your children in a community where there were no churches.

Why then, should not our churches be considered an asset to the business of any town.

Did you ever look at it in that light?

P. E. O. "B's I. L." ENTERTAINED

Members of Chapter L of the P. E. O. sisterhood entertained their husbands last Friday evening at the hospitable home of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Rankin. Other guests were Mrs. Stewart, mother of Mrs. Rankin, Dr. and Mrs. McCumber and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Dean, all of Portland, the two latter named ladies being members of Chapter M of that city.

As is the custom at P. E. O. affairs yellow and white flower decorations were used. Beautiful prizes were won by Mrs. Eckerson and Dr. McCumber, and the evening closed with the serving of a two course luncheon at the small tables. It is said a B. I. L. has no difficulty in living up to one of his vows—that of eating anything set before him by a P. E. O.

FARM HOME FOR DEPENDENT CHILDREN

Campaign On To Raise Fund Of $125,000—Mothered By Oregon W. C. T. U.

An intensive campaign is being carried on in every part of Oregon this week in a determined effort to obtain the $125,000 fund for the children's farm home for the Oregon W. C. T. U. Every effort will be made to obtain the desired quotas in every county during the present week, according to John E. Wheeler, state chairman of the campaign drive committee.

Hood River county is the first in the state to report its completed quota. With Leslie Butler, prominent Hood River banker as its chairman, the county committee perfected its organization before the opening day of the drive and the full quota had been produced on the opening day. Not content with the mere quota, the field workers labored throughout the week with the result that many communities in Hood River county doubled their quotas.

The $125,000 is being sought for the establishment of a model farm home for orphan and dependent children. The movement is being mothered by the Oregon W. C. T. U., and is being supported by child welfare workers and state officials throughout Oregon. Governor Olcott and others have declared it to be one of the most worthy enterprises undertaken in behalf of children in this state for many years.

MEETING IN INTEREST OF SOCIAL HYGIENE

The Social Hygiene meeting held at Legion Hall Monday night was well attended, and much interest was manifested in the subject, which was ably presented and comprehensively discussed by the speakers, who united in emphasizing the need of properly instructing the rising generation on the requirements necessary to the development of true and desirable manhood and womanhood.

They also agreed that the young should be given employment, and healthful recreation when unemployed—never leaving the mind unemployed, with the consideration of some definite object pertaining to their duties if engaged at work, or their studies, or amusements of a proper character; keep the youthful mind employed as an idle mind is the devil's workshop.

The speakers of the evening were Dr. Hester, Dr. Rankin, Dr. Coleman of Portland, President of Oregon Social Hygiene Society, and Mayor S. M. Calkins.

YAMHILL COUNTY PIONEER DIES

E. G. Fendall was called to his boyhood home near Willamina last week to attend the funeral of his brother, Philip R. Fendall.

Regarding the death of Mr. Fendall, a news note from Willamina says:

Philip R. Fendall died at his home in Willamina, Thursday morning November 18, at the age of 63 years. He was born on the old donation land grant about three miles from Willamina belonging to his father, and where he had spent most of the past forty years engaged in stock raising and farming. In the death of Mr. Fendall the community loses one of the old pioneers, well known throughout this section. He leaves his widow, three daughters and two sons.

RANKING OF SCHOOLS IN AGRICULTURE

Newberg High School Stands Second In The State In Numbers

Last year the only Smith-Hughes high school agriculture departments in Oregon were located at Milton-Freewater, Hood River, Gresham, Corvallis, McMinnville, and Newberg.

This year there are departments at Alsea, Cottage Grove, Dufur, Enterprise, Forest Grove, Gresham, Lebanon, McMinnville, Medford, Milton-Freewater, Ontario, Rainier, Newberg, Redmond, Union, and Woodburn.

The Newberg department ranks second among the departments as regards to numbers; and its director has the present distinction of being the second longest in the Smith-Hughes service in Oregon. It just happens that the department ranking ahead of Newberg in point of numbers is Milton-Freewater—formerly directed by Mr. E. E. Elliott, now state director of vocational education and supervisor of agriculture education—who is also the man holding senior place in point of Smith-Hughes service in Oregon.

The Milton-Freewater department shows three courses given, a maximum registration of fifty, and two teachers to handle the work.

The Newberg department shows three courses given, a maximum registration of forty-seven, and one man to direct and handle the work.

The Gresham department is the one department that has four separate courses at the present time, with two teachers installed.

Newberg is doing splendidly, and only just beginning its second year. Much genuine interest has been and is being shown in the work. We are proud of the community sentiment that has made this possible; and we ask for local unstinting cooperation to the end that our Smith-Hughes department may be second to none.

The original thirty-seven students registered for agriculture at the Newberg high school are as follows:

Harry Buell, Allyn Staley, Larome Rankin, Chas. Babcock, Willie Sanders, Clausen Brooks, Reese Mainwaring, Russell Pierson, Arthur Siefken, Leonard Scherf, Archie Everest, Clayburn Carson, Wayne Nelson, Benie Shires, Claude Rene, Alex Boss, Henry Schlaeppl, Theodore Baker, Walter Cole, Fred Yeager, Roy Baker, Elery Parriah, Everett Morgan, Margaret Ross, Homer Nelson, Clyde Eames, Edmond Eames, Carl Switzer, Harold Lamb, Frank Lutz, Max Sturgis, Herbert Owen, Richard Joyce, Wesley Winters, Fred Burgoyne, Harold Davis, Louis Parrott, Geo. Mellinger, John Burns, Howard Weston, Raymond Johnson, Geo. Cuthill, Harold Roellich, Mona Timberlake, Maurice Cronin, Frank Crites, Gordon Fliske.

We urge all interested in agriculture, to help us give these young people a good knowledge and a right perspective of the agriculture vocations.

Oliver F. Kilham, Director Agriculture Department Newberg, High School.
