THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1920.

On the first page will be found an article signed by S. L. Parrett, secretary of the business men's committee, relative to the campaign that is now on for standardizing Pacific College. The editor of the Graphic has been urged to supplement this article with editorial mention, which in a way is rather a delicate thing to do, owing to the fact that the writer has been closely associated with the management of the college and is president of the board of trustees, a position he has held much of the time since the school was founded in 1885. However, there are some things about the present status of the college that Newberg is entitled to know, in order that the people may be able to act intelligently, and a short statement herewith may not be out of place. We will not go into detail regarding the matter of standardization, but will say that unless Pacific College can increase its resources very materially the school will not be able to run any great length of time. The cost of maintenance has piled up so rapidly in the past two or three years that unless very substantial relief can be secured it will be folly to undertake to stem the tide. The Friends church, being the sponsor for the college, is doing everything possible to build up the endowment fund, but unless those who represent the business interests of Newberg are able to see and realize that the college is a substantial business asset to the town, and are willing to cooperate to the extent of making substantial additions to the fund, the outlook for raising the amount necessary is not at all promising. Doubtless, in many ways the college has not been run to the liking of some who will read this article. Mistakes have no doubt been made, and all that, but after all does Newberg want Pacific College to continue to be one of the factors that go to make up our community interests. This is a matter which existing circumstances press with unusual force for deliberate but earnest consideration at this time. It cannot be put off. As president of the board, the writer will state frankly that if this campaign fails, there will be nothing left to do so far as we can see, but to quit. This is about as plain as we can put it, but we feel that it is due the public that those interested should know the facts. We have good reason to believe that if Newberg will cooperate and add substantially to the subscription list that has already been started, it will give such impetus to the campaign that the desired amount can be raised. Is Pacific College worth while, and will Newberg get behind the movement that is now on to put the institution on a substantial financial basis. Is not this a question worthy of sober thought at this time. It is gratifying to note that the business men are taking a deep interest in this matter and are showing a willingness to cooperate, and on behalf of the college board we take this opportunity to express a hearty appreciation of what the business men's committee is doing. We hope that no one will take anything that is said in this article as a threat in any way, for that is not the intent of the article. It is simply a plain statement of conditions which we believe the public should know.

It is interesting to note that the shortage in rainfall has finally been made up by diligent effort on the part of the weather service.

Last week the Miller Mercantile Co. advertised a special sale of odds and ends in shoes for Friday and Saturday and sold more than 100 pairs. Does newspaper advertising pay? Ask Mr. Murton.

Portland is laying plans for a big exposition to be held in 1925 that will eclipse the Lewis and Clark fair by several furlongs, all of which makes interesting reading for those who saw and appreciated the Lewis and Clark fair. The latter fair was the one event that put new life into Portland and the whole Northwest and started things going. Let everybody boost for the 1925 exposition.

Those who maintain that capital punishment has a deterring effect on the crime of murder will have to look elsewhere than to Oregon to get the proof for their contention, for certainly there has been no slowing down in the number of cold blooded murders committed since, by vote of the people at the last election, hanging was again put down in the criminal calendar of the state.

Bean shooters in the hands of small boys are destructive to electric light globes, as well as to many other things, and parents will do well to advise with their offspring regarding the use of them. An occasional word of caution from teachers might also help in directing the trend of the lads who are under their care. The globes on the concrete viaduct add much to the beauty of the surroundings at night and also light the way of the travelling public. It costs money to replace them when broken and an occasional word of caution may save them from destruction.

The news story coming from Portsmouth, New Hampshire, telling of the stopping of a ferry boat by reason of an eel getting into the feed tank and interfering with the injector, serves as a reminder of the early days when all the means of public travel between Newberg and Portland was by steamboats plying on the Willamette river. Often during the winter season the locks at Oregon City would be closed at intervals on account of high water, and following each such freshet the pockets in the rocks below the falls would be filled with bushels of eels. While the locks were being opened and closed as the boats were passing through, which required half an hour, the deck hands would go below with sacks and fill them with all the slimy eels they could carry and take them to Portland where they found a ready market for them. While an eel is not much for looks, in the eyes of one who has a finicky stomach, it is said they have an excellent flavor, and the supply in those days appeared to be never failing.

LOCALS

Mrs. C. R. Duer returned from a trip to Cleveland, Ohio, Sunday. She was called to the eastern city by the serious illness of her mother, she reaching the sufferer's bedside but three hours before she passed away. Mrs. Duer was accompanied home by her father, S. T. Gage, who will remain in Newberg the balance of the winter.

Judge Kanzler came to Newberg on last Friday evening to boost for the proposed W. C. T. U. children's home, according to schedule, but was prevented from making his talks on account of the city being in darkness, owing to the wind storm which played havoc with electric light poles and wires. He has promised to come again.

Charley Cavell has gone on his annual goose-hunting-trip to Arlington and the Graphic is looking forward with expectancy for a big feast of fat goose, to say nothing of feathers in sufficient quantity for one of the old time feather beds, like mother used to make.

Vance Siler, cousin of C. S. Woodward of the W. W. Hollingsworth Co., who sold his farm at Greenleaf, Idaho, and moved to Portland a short time ago was out last Sunday with Mrs. Siler, and the young son for a visit. Mr. Siler has a job for the winter at the Standifer shipyards at Vancouver.

H. E. Milleson, who was in from his Dundee prune ranch Wednesday, said the Mazamas were coming out on the morning train from Portland Sunday for a hike over the Dundee hills and that anyone who might desire to join them would be welcomed. Mr. Milleson is to be the guide and he has a beauty spot selected where the lunch is to be eaten. Miseltoe will be gathered and a jolly time is anticipated. The hikers will board the train at Dayton for the return trip.

A Newberg youth who makes frequent trips to Corvallis, was heard to remark:
The Corvallis girls are pretty
And they kiss so very sweet,
That I think it is a pity
They should have such great big feet.

A young man who lives at Dundee. Came to Newberg his best girl to see:
But alas! Cruel fate,
He met at the gate,
The girl's dad, who said Puck-a-chee.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

What Could Be a More Suitable Present to the Family than a Ford Car?

It is not a luxury, it is a necessity, so as a gift it is a useful one. You owe it to yourself—to your wife and to your children—to get into the city. Mt. Hood, the Columbia Highway and all the streams and woods of Oregon brought closer to you.

It broadens your horizon, increases your happiness and promotes good health. The amount you plan to spend for Christmas gifts for the family can be used as a first payment. The balance may be paid in small amounts throughout the year. Take advantage of Henry Ford's Christmas gift to you.
