Nonkin, Helen and Wilma Evans, Blyth and Geraldine Patterson, and Adelphe Evans. Mrs. Blackburn on behalf of Vesta Rebekah Lodge No. 76 presented Mrs. Evans with a small token of their appreciation.

Delicious refreshments were served. After an afternoon with fancy work and social chat the ladies dispersed, wishing Mrs. Evans many happy returns of the day.

LEE PLAYERS COMING

Manager Sharp has secured the Lee Stock Company, direct from the Baker Theatre, Portland to play a three night engagement at the Star theatre, commencing Thursday evening July 7.

As an article in the Oregon Sunday Journal stated a few weeks ago. The Lee Stock Company is composed of members of the Baker theatre players of Portland, who are combining business with pleasure and playing the smaller towns of Washington and Oregon until their regular season opens in Portland September 4th.

They have six people who are artists of the highest order and who have played in all the largest dramatic organizations in the country. They carry their own piano player, do specialties between the acts, and all in all furnish a splendid evening's entertainment.

It is not, by any means, a cheap dowdy aggregation, stinging the people with a so-called show; but a bona fide business proposition furnishing a good clean wholesome performance.

Their opening show is "The Boss of Bar Z Ranch," a rip-roaring Western Cow-puncher drama full of Yells, Western slang and comedy.

AT THE BAKER THEATRE

"Her Husband's Friend," the latest Paramount picture starring Enid Bennett which will be shown at the Baker on Friday and Saturday, July 1 and 2, was adapted to the screen from "The Incubus," a novel by Marjorie Benton Cooke. The picture which is considered one of the best in which Miss Bennett has appeared was directed by Fred Niblo. The supporting company, headed by Tom Chatterton, is an excellent one. Douglas Maclean's new comedy, "Chickens," which comes to the Baker theatre next Monday and Tuesday, is one of the finest of his screen repertoire. There are many laughable situations all of which are ably presented by a supporting company headed by Gladys George.

Maurice Tournier believes in starting his pictures with a wallop in the very first few feet. In "The Bolt," the first scene is a mysterious shooting fray that is not entirely explained until the last reel. Hope Hampton is the leading lady in this new Paramount production, which will be screened at the Baker theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, July 6 and 7.

"Life is more like wrestling than dancing; it must be ready to keep its feet against all onsets, however unexpected."—Marcus Aurelius.

The greatest investment in the world for you is money you spend to relieve eye strain.

For any machinery forced to run under a strain wears out much sooner than it should. Above all, you do not want your eyes to wear out before the rest of your body which is the case of thousands just because of neglect.

If you take care of your eyes they will be the best part of your body at the age of seventy. When you are not able to work, it will then be a blessing to read and enjoy life. You cannot afford to neglect or put off the care of your eyes.
