C. E. Newhouse and family had a miraculous escape from injury last Thursday evening. They were going home from chautauqua and were turning off from the highway, into the Springbrook road at the four corners east of town, when a Seattle car coming from Portland ran into them. Mr. Newhouse estimates that the Seattle car was going at about forty miles per hour when it struck him. The Newhouse car was overturned and the running board was badly crumpled, but aside from this no damage was done and no one was hurt. With the aid of several autoists, the car was righted and proceeded home on its own power. The Seattle car was not badly damaged either.

The highway is now open to about a half mile the other side of Dundee and this makes a nice evening drive now. There is probably no prettier orchards or hills around here than those to be seen around Dundee and it is only a few minutes drive to that prosperous little community. There is one feature of the highway which should receive immediate attention and that is those places on either side of the bridge just outside of Newberg. Heavy fills were necessitated here and it was deemed best to leave the paving of these until the fills had settled. Where the paving ends at either side of the bridge, the fills have settled away from the paving and left an abrupt drop. Something should be done to make an approach at these places, for the protection of the motorist who comes spinning along the highway without knowing about these places. Unless he is on the watch it is highly probable that he will break a spring here unless he takes these places with great care. It would be an easy matter to either throw in a little dirt or some boards here to break the drop and provide an approach.

A party of twenty-five persons from this community made a trip to Mt. Hood last Sunday. Five autos took the party from here, leaving Newberg Saturday morning and returning home Monday morning. Camp was made at the government camp eight miles from the top on Saturday night and the climb was commenced on Sunday morning. Twenty-one of the party started on the climb, but only twelve of these reached the crater and half of this number failed to get to the top. The twelve who got as far as the crater were Louis Hullit, Winifred Finnegan, Ed and Fred Wohlischlegel, Mr. and Mrs. Vosse, L. A. Moore, J. A. Messinger, Mrs. Louis Hullit, Mrs. McCormick, L. T. Finnegan and Bernice Finnegan. The first six of these were the ones who made the top. The rest of the party were as follows: Mrs. J. A. Messinger, Mrs. L. T. Finnegan, Ira McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Will Stevens and family and Mrs. L. A. Moore. They report that the day was ideal for the view.
