Saturday was a day of days for Newberg. What with all the neighboring towns as guests and all the amusements and entertainments, the day was complete. Everybody says the berries and cream were fine, but as we have just about lived on berries and cream for the past month, we didn't try any of them.

Several people have been losing chickens in this neighborhood, and it is too bad that in a land where a living is so easily earned that such things should happen. If caught, the culprits should get the limit of punishment, as when people are working so hard to get along it is sure discouraging to have their produce stolen.
