Mayor S. M. Calkins and R. J. Moore went to Portland Tuesday to appear before the state highway commission relative to the resurfacing and widening of the paving between this place and the Multnomah county line. The engineers have specified that crushed rock shall be used in this work and it is the purpose of the local gentlemen to endeavor to dissuade the commission from this and get them to use gravel instead. By so doing it will be possible to have the work handled largely from this end which would be a good thing for Newberg.

You probably remember the old conundrum, "What makes a blackberry red when it's green?" Well, William Tyndall can tell you that it isn't, nor in his case are they black when they're ripe. Mr. Tyndall is raising a variety of blackberries which are white when they are ripe. In other respects they resemble the ordinary blackberry and taste just the same. Looking at them one might get the impression that they were grown under cover where they did not get the light, but such is not the case. It is simply a freak variety and now the query will have to be "What makes a blackberry white when it's ripe?" Boy, page Mr. Burbank.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. King left Monday morning by auto for Snohomish, Wash., where they will be joined by Miss Olive Bowman, a sister of Mrs. King.
