LET'S STOP IT

The last issue of the Hillsboro Independent contains accounts of at least seven auto accidents which occurred on the highway near there. Every Portland paper contains numerous accident stories of this nature and in fact the papers from all over the state are constantly full of them. We are led to ask ourselves where is this thing going to stop. Law-breaking is becoming so common that the motoring public have almost come to the point where they resent being stopped and reprimanded for speeding or violation of the traffic laws. The case of the accident which resulted in the death of L. M. Parker is only one of many such cases happening with increasing frequency. Was the driver to blame for this accident? We do not know. We did not see the accident. But we have seen time and again cars driven through this city which might have been guilty of manslaughter had some man who was not very spry stepped out into the street at the wrong time.

No motorist has a right to jeopardize the lives of pedestrians by tearing through a city at a speed of 25 or 30 miles an hour, past intersections and through business districts. Yet when some one is run down and killed as a usual thing the public does not want to see the driver convicted of a crime. We realize that there are times when pedestrians are themselves in the wrong and we do not mean to say anything relative to the Parker case. This is purely a general discussion of the subject.

Traffic Officer Patterson stopped a car just outside of Newberg one night last week and the occupants were quite abusive and seemed to think that he had no right to arrest them just because they were speeding, although the driver admitted the charge. We believe that the traffic laws are not any too strict and that when an officer in the line of his duty seeks to enforce them that the offenders should accept their fate graciously. Moreover we believe that good citizens should seek to assist the authorities by obeying the laws themselves and also by helping prosecute those who do not. Just as a matter of self-preservation we should do this, for it may be our turn next to be run down by a speeder or injured in an accident caused by pure recklessness. Where is this thing going to stop? It will not stop until we as citizens of the state stop violating the laws and lend our assistance in making others stop.

There is a question in our mind whether the Sunday picnic habit is not being overdone for our own good. The argument is raised that we need to get away from home for a rest, but too often the Sunday picnic does not provide any rest but simply stimulates us along different lines and we come home Sunday night more tired out than as if we had stayed at home and rested in quiet.

Nearly every transaction requires the composite of brains and muscle. Henry Ford thinks he can furnish the brains if the government will furnish him the Mussel Shoals. However, apparently the government wants to furnish both the brains and the muscle. How do they get that way anyhow?

Everyone who could get away has made a trip to the coast this summer or is planning one before summer is over. It is a splendid thing to get away from home for a short time and enjoy the revivifying effect of the cool salt air. If taken properly one comes back feeling like a new person.

We talk about the high cost of living, but few stop to realize that it is a very different mode of living that we enjoy than that which was enjoyed by our parents some twenty years ago.

The population is rapidly being divided into two classes—the quick and the dead; and unless we learn to become quick more rapidly than we have been doing, we'll all be dead.

Are you planning anything for the county fair this year? If not, hunt around and see if you haven't something to place on exhibition there. Let's make a big showing from Newberg.

The farmers who couldn't get help to pick their berries may find plenty of opportunity to help those who wouldn't help them, next winter.

The days are already getting shorter again and most people are planning for the opening of school and other fall activities.

Puzzle: "If Hery Ford runs for president, how will he spare the 'tin'?"

Puzzle No. 2: "Will Ford get the planks for his platform from his 'peace' ship?"

If you're going to hitch your wagon on to a star, be sure it is not a falling star.

Are you taking every precaution to prevent fires during this long dry spell?

AS IT WORKS OUT

The following stanza was taken from the Portland News and we republish it in view of the fact that Newberg has been having an unusual number of these temporary bachelors of late and we believe they will be able to appreciate it. We do!

"Bill Brown's full of mirth today;
His wife and kids have gone away.
Next week the loneliest man in town,
And gloomiest, will be Bill Brown."

—And Father did the Washing Once

This incident was told of a local man, in a local home.

The laundress failed to show up—his wife was indisposed—something simply had to be done about the washing, so of an evening he decided he'd be laundress himself.

For an hour he sloshed and lifted and lugged—and in the morning called us.

We have been calling regularly ever since—his hour in the cellar convinced him that washing is indeed no work for a woman.
