AMERICAN LEGION NEWS "Very intemperate and exagger ated" is the characterization m by George R. Wilbur of Hood River. lepartment commander of the Amer ican Legion in regard to the report cabled from Paris quoting Dr. Edmund L. Gross, delegate to the national convention of the Legion at New Orleans from continental Europe, as saying that the convention as ruled by a mob and that drunkenness was prevalent.

"There was plenty of boisterousness and hilarity but not any more than one observes at any convention the size of that one at New Orleans, continued Commander Wilbu "There was no destruction of prop-erty. The action of the convention and the resolutions adopted marked it as temperate and progressive. It occurs to me that the delegate from Paris falled to distinguish between the convention delegates and the very large number of irresponsible young men who swarmed in from neighboring towns of Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi to take advantage of the occasion for a good time. Many of these were not ex-service men and many who were did not wear Legion buttons. wear Legion buttons.

"Dr. Gross was disappointed be cause the convention refused to grant a subsidy to Paris post in the way of financial aid. I wonder if he did not go home with a grouch."

Support of the 112 American Le gion posts in Oregon was pledged to the annual roll call of the American Red Cross, by the state executive committee in recent session at Port land. "The Red Cross has aided and assisted the American Legion in many ways and deserves the sup-port of every post," concluded the resolution passed.

Harry N. Nelson, department adutant of the American Legion in Oregon, left Portland last week to attend a meeting of state adjutants, in Indianapolis, Ind., seat of the na-tional headquarters of the Legion. An ambitious program for 1923 will be outlined as well as vital problems affecting the Legion internally. There is held to be a great need of There is held to be a glad war to get all veterans of the world war to get into the American Legion and as the organization in the realization of its momentous problems.

In a report just issued by the ser-vice department of the American Legion in Oregon, it was disclosed that an unusually heavy amount of work has been done for members of the Legion and non-members, the partment serving all veterans alike whether affiliated with any veteran organization or not.

The report showed that since February, 1920, when the service de partment was organized, that $1,-500,000 of insurance was reinstated for the government; that 2619 compensation cases were adjudicated; 1552 travel pay claims; 600 allot-ments; 236 clothing applications;

vice pay, 204; liberty bonds paid for but not received, 865; certificates in lieu of lost discharges, 315; lost baggage reclaimed, 56; changes in service record, 10; adjust vocational training awards, 111; adjustment insurance status, 200; 696 miscel-insurance status, 200; 696 miscellaneous items.

The service department has been operated free of charge to veterans of the world war in assisting them to get what is due from the government incidental to their service and helping them overcome "red tape" and other obstacles besetting their path in obtaining claims.

Rogers MacVeagh of Portland was selected as state chairman of the Americanization commission of the Oregon department of the American Legion by the state executive com-mittee in recent session at Portland. Other chairmen and committees ap-Enough votes have been pledged by members of the 1923 session of the Oregon legislature to make certain the passage of the American Legion's anti-alien land law, which failed to secure the required number of signatures to place it upon the ballot November 7th due to lack of time to obtain names, according to George R. Wilbur of Hood River, department commander of the Legion in Oregon.

The carefully drawn bill, which in effect prevents further acquisi-tion of agricultural lands of the state by any person not a citizen and ineligible to become a citizen, protects all present ownerships and treaty rights. Commander Wilbur says the Legion is in earnest and wants Oregon to follow at this late date, the lead of California and Washington in such legislation. Two legislatures have rejected this legislation. islation due, according to Legion leaders, to a combination of ignor-ance of the situation and purpose, politics and vicious selfish interest.
