Sulphur Deposit in a Mountain 17,-520 Feet Above the Sea Level,

The highest mine in the world is in the caster of Popocatepetl, Mexico, which was recently sold by its former which was recently sold by its former one of these in an envelope with your owner. Gen. Ochoa, to an American manuscript and mail it to yourself it syndicate for a sum said to be $5,000. will make it easier for all of us, and 000. The mine contains immense quantitles of sulphur, and the supply is supposed to be practically inexhaustible.

Popocatepetl is 10,520 feet above the level of the sea, and the crater containing the sulpbur has a circumference of half a mile and a depth of 250 feet. Not all of this volcanic mountain belongs to the syndicate, as Gen. Ochoa's grant from the Mexican government are sure you will become a permanent only included the bare, rocky surface user of it. No other brand in the of the mountain areas covered by eternal snow fields. No part of the mountain on which a tree, a blade of grass tizing zest as does Monopole. or a shrub finds lodgment ever belonged to Gen. Ochoa, and consequently could not have been transferred.

Lizing less as does stonopole. Creek as does stonopole.

In the securing of the sulphur Gen, land, Ore. Ochoa employed Indian laborers, These were lowered into the crater by means of large baskets which were regulated by a windlass. When the baskets were filled with the sulphur they were raised and emptied, and in this primitive fashion the mining operations have been conducted for years. So rich, however, is the crater in sulphur that Gen. Ochoa has become immensely wealthy. It is estimated that a ton of sulphur accumulates in the crater every day. The mineral is brought from the depths of the earth by the ebuilitions which are almost constantly going on. It is expected that the syndicate will apply timore American. eral.

A HIGH-PRICED DINNER.

Owner of a Dog that Did Not Eat It Must Pay for Repast. The Paris newspapers have lately printed the account of a strange lawsuit which the Green Bag reports for its American readers. The complainant in the case toutified that he was dining on the terrace in front of a restaurant, enjoying the air as well as the food. He had just begun to eat his soup, which he found too hot for his palate. While waiting for the soup to cool, he took from his pocket a roll of him which he had recover a roll of biffs which he had received in payment of a bill.

In counting the money be accidentally dropped a hundred-franc bank note into his soup. He took it out of his plate with a fork, and sent the soup away. The bank note was saturated with the greesy liquid, and he laid it down on the table cloth to dry.

He was partaking of the second course, when a sudden gust of wind blew the note off the table. He ran after it, but a dog, which, although it wore a collar, and therefore in all probability had a home, yet showed every sign of hunger, seized it. The taste of the soup on the paper made it palatable, and the dog swallowed the note in an instant.

The complainant used all his persuasive power in an effort to get the dog to come near bim. "Good doggy!

Come here!" he coaxed. The animal, pleased with the taste of the soup, was finally toled near enough for the complainant to read the disease or simple inflammation of the name engraved on the collar. When nose and throat, and this is why sprays, he had made a note of the name and address of the owner of the dog, he haling mixtures fail to cure. Heredity

Then he sought his lawyer, and it and so do their children. brought suit against the owner of the dog for the restitution of the hundred francs.

The court decided that the owner of the dog must pay, holding that since the dog was property, the owner must be held responsible for any act committed by the animal.

Satisfied With Dog's Warning. When a dog entered the cell of Maurice Bouche, imprisoned at Lille, France, and under sentence of death for the murder of a woman, and licked his hand, on the morning of the day of execution, the murderer, who had all along protested his innecence, and expressed confidence in a reprieve, imme-diately prepared for death.

In the treatment of Catarrh, antiseptic and soothing washes are good for cleansing purposes or clearing the head and throat, but this is the extent of their usefulness. To cure Catarrh permanently, the blood must be purified and the system relieved of its load of foul secretions, and the remedy to accomplish this is S. S. S. which has no equal as a blood purifier. It restores the blood to a natural, healthy state and the catarrhal poison and effete matter are carried out of the system through the proper channels. S. S. S. restores to the blood all its good qualities, and when rich, pure blood reaches the inflamed membrane and is carried through the circulation to all the Catarrh infected portions of the body, they soon heal, the mucous discharges cease and the patient is relieved of the most offensive and humiliating of all complaints.

S. S. is a vegetable remedy and contains nothing that could injure the most delicate constitution. It cures Catarrh in its most aggravated forms, and cases apparently incurable and hopeless. Write us if you have Catarrh, and our physicians will advise you without charge.
