

That Tired Feeling

Is a Common Spring Trouble.

It's a sign that the blood is deficient in vitality, just as pimples and other eruptions are signs that the blood is impure.

It's a warning, too, which only the hazardous fail to heed.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove it, give new life, new courage, strength and animation.

They cleanse the blood and clear the complexion.

Accept no substitute.

"I felt tired all the time and could not sleep. After taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a while I could sleep well and the tired feeling had gone. This great medicine has also cured me of scrofula." Mrs. C. M. Root, Gilted, Conn.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

No Bath, No Wife.

Among the Turks bath money forms an item in every marriage contract, the husband engaging to allow his wife a certain sum for bathing purposes. Should it be withheld she has only to go before the cad and turn her slipper upside down, and if the complain be not then redressed it is ground for a divorce.

Nerely a Listener.

"And you never gossip about your friends?"

"Never," answered Miss Cayenne. "I can't bring myself to be so cruel as to interrupt my friends when they are gossiping about one another."

Hot Air Cookery.

"I got a cold supper when I went home tonight, and you bet I kicked about it."

"Did that do you any good?"

"Well, my wife made it warm for me."—Philadelphia Press.

The civil war in Honduras was started by a girl who was jilted by the president-elect. Yet, says the Chicago Record-Herald, some of the reformers think woman isn't playing a large enough part in the affairs of the nation.

MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Famous Southern Woman Now Living in a World of Her Own.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, the widow of the late leader of the Confederacy, is living in a little world of her own in New York. She recently took up her residence in a hotel in that city and there probably she will spend the remainder of her days. The windows of her rooms overlook the surrounding roofs, and rarely does she leave her apartments, which are on the fourteenth floor. She walks with difficulty and does not have to visit, as her friends pay court to her as if she were a royal personage. Mrs. Davis uses a tall cane, as people did 100 years ago, and the head is of tortoise shell and gold. She has as a companion a sweet-faced Southern woman who is always with her. On Wednesday afternoons the famous woman sits in a high-backed chair that came from Beauvoir, the Davis homestead, and then she receives the long file of admiring women who call. These are notable gatherings, and there are as many Northerners as women from south of the Mason and Dixon line.

On these occasions Mrs. Davis wears stiff black silk, with old lace at her throat, and despite her years her white hair is abundant and glistens brilliantly in the afternoon light. The companion serves tea, and Mrs. Davis, who is a noted conversationalist, holds the attention of every one without an effort. Her mind is remarkably alert and she keeps abreast of the topics of the day. In her interesting rooms nothing is so engrossing as the portrait of Miss Winnie Davis, her daughter. It is an excellent likeness, and the former child of the Confederacy is depicted wearing the royal robes of the queen of Mardi Gras. The picture is surrounded by incandescent bulbs, and before this portrait the mother spends much of her time gazing and thinking. In the portrait Miss Davis is smiling, and it is the same expression that endeared her to people when she was alive.

Creating a Waterfall.

When the waters of the Niagara River were made to flow over turbines to give electric power and light to the city of Buffalo it was considered a great revolutionary feat of engineering. But at Niagara the dam and the fall were there from the beginning. The power was ready in the rough—it had only to be applied to the machinery. When, however, it was proposed to utilize the speed and force of the Hudson River and to turn them into the power that lights towns, runs street railways and vitalizes factory plants the problem was a different one. The river was there, but the fall had to be created, and to do this it would be necessary to build one of the largest dams ever constructed, a wall, in fact, 1,400 feet long and 154 feet high, at certain points. No such barrier, great or small, had ever been placed across a river of a volume and flow equal to that of the Hudson just above Glens Falls, N. Y., yet this has now been successfully accomplished.—Leslie's Monthly.

One Phase of the Nile.

In the Shab loka pass we have one of the many instances in which the Nile has hurled itself at an opposing mountain barrier and cut its way through. In fact, it often seems to select these unpropitious places for its course, when on each side, a few miles away, there is a tolerably level, unbroken expanse of desert. For ten miles the river twists in and out before escaping to the open once more. Its current is very rapid, making it well-nigh impassable at low water because of the numerous rocks; but at the time of my descent the summer flood was well along, and all but a few of these barriers were hidden below the surface, their presence being marked only by occasional eddies.—Century.

A Doubtful Point.

Mr. Cassidy surveyed the examining counsel with undisguised contempt, which in nowise disconcerted the lawyer.

"And why, may I ask, did you not go to the help of the defendant, in the fight?" inquired the lawyer.

"For the reason," said Mr. Cassidy, in a tone of blighting scorn, "that at that time I had no means of knowing which of them would be the defendant, sir!"

CHANGE OF LIFE.

Some sensible advice to women passing through this trying period.

The painful and annoying symptoms experienced by most women at this period of life are easily overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is especially designed to meet the needs of woman's system at the trying time of change of life.

It is no exaggeration to state that Mrs. Pinkham has over 5000 letters like the following proving the great value of her medicine at such times.

"I wish to thank Mrs. Pinkham for what her medicine has done for me. My trouble was change of life. Four years ago my health began to fail, my head began to grow dizzy, my eyes pained me, and at times it seemed as if my back would fall me, had terrible pains across the kidneys. Hot flashes were very frequent and trying. A friend advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken six bottles of it and am to-day free from those troubles. I cannot speak in high enough terms of the medicine. I recommend it to all and wish every suffering woman would give it a trial."—Bella Ross, 89 Montclair Ave., Rosindale, Mass.—$5000 full if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Lengthening the Joy.

Dot—Is that all the pie I may have, mother?

Mother—Yes, dear.

Dot—Then, mother, will you please cut it in two pieces and give me one at a time?

Roy Stannard Baker's description of "The Great Northwest" are giving the men and women of the East a better understanding of the vastness and wealth of that wonderful region. The magnitude of the Northwest's forests and of its lumbering industry—Tacoma can boast the greatest sawmill, with one exception, in the world—will be the text of the fascinating story, in the May Century, of "The Conquest of the Forest."

Poor Proof of Insanity.

At Edinburgh, Scotland, a lady has been found insane who left $2,000 to provide a fund for the rescue of sane persons improperly placed in lunatic asylums.

THE HOW AND WHY.

Much you may have guessed about life insurance may be wrong. Mr. H. C. Lippincott, of Philadelphia, one of the most foremost insurance authorities of the age, has copyrighted a little book entitled "The How and Why." It has been adopted by several Eastern colleges to teach the first principles of life insurance, and may be had free by addressing Sherman and Harmon, general agents Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., Murphree building, Portland, Or. It may help you to understand How and Why the Penn Mutual during 1902 wrote a larger amount of insurance in Oregon than was ever before written in the state by any company in one year.
