

LIVER AND KIDNEYS

It is highly important that these organs should properly perform their functions.

When they don't, what lameness of the side and back, what yellowness of the skin, what constipation, bad taste in the mouth, sick headache, pimples and blotches, and loss of courage, tell the story.

A great alterative and tonic

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Gives these organs vigor and tone for the proper performance of their functions, and cures all their ordinary ailments. Take it.

Women No Longer Kiss.

No smart women kiss one another, and the most they now do is to rub hats. This is as it should be. In all the wild world of women nothing has so flabbergasted the mere man as the reckless valor with which ladies used to brouse on each other's complexions without the slightest provocation.—Vanity Fair.

HOW ST. LOUIS MAY BE CONNECTED WITH PITTSBURG BY ELECTRIC LINE

The Indianapolis and Eastern Interurban Railway has inaugurated the first interurban railway sleeping car that has ever been operated in the world. With the starting of the first interurban sleeping car service it is expected that sleeping car service will be run on all the electric lines of any consequence in the country.

The Indianapolis and Eastern, through its allied traffic lines, has begun a through limited service out of Indianapolis through this place for Dayton and Columbus, Ohio.

Before many months has passed through traffic will have been established the entire distance from St. Louis, Mo., to Pittsburg, Pa., and Cincinnati, Ohio, making the longest interurban railway system in the world. All that is now lacking for the completion of this great system of interurban railways are short stretches of track west of Terre Haute, Ind., a short stretch five miles east of Richmond, Ind., and a stretch from Newark to Steubenville, Ohio. These lines are already under course of construction. A through line from Chicago to Cincinnati will also have been completed by the close of the year.

The course of the St. Louis-Pittsburg line will be as follows: East St. Louis Traction Company, St. Louis to Collinsville, Ill. (line under construction from Collinsville to Terre Haute, Ind.); Terre Haute and Brazil Traction Company, Terre Haute to Harmony, Ind.; Indianapolis and Plainfield Traction Company, Plainfield to Indianapolis; Indianapolis and Eastern, Indianapolis to Dublin, Ind.; Richmond Street and Interurban Traction Company, Dublin to Richmond; Dayton and Western Traction Company, Richmond to Dayton, Ohio; Columbus, London and Springfield, Dayton to Columbus; Columbus and Newark Traction Company, Columbus to Newark, Ohio; Newark to Steubenville, Ohio (building); Steubenville to Pittsburg, Pa., the Pittsburg and Steubenville Interurban.

THE BATTLE OF MONMOUTH.

Patriotic Celebration of Its Anniversary in Freehold, N. J.

Freehold, N. J., recently appropriately observed the anniversary of the battle of Monmouth. Patriotic citizens from all of the Eastern States, prominent government and New Jersey State officials and troops of militia lent dignity to the celebration. A century and a quarter have passed away since that memorable day when Washington checked the disgraceful retreat of the troops under Maj. Gen. Lee, turning defeat into victory, and brave Molly Pitcher performed the heroic deed which won for her undying fame and enshrined her name in the heart of every American citizen.

The battle of Monmouth was the first engagement of importance which the troops under Washington fought after leaving their winter quarters at Valley Forge. The privations and sufferings endured by the American patriots at Valley Forge had well-nigh discouraged them, and Washington realized the advisability of winning a victory over the British, which would tend to hearten his men and raise the flagging spirits of the nation. Accordingly, when the British, under Sir Henry Clinton, evacuated Philadelphia, on June 13, and marched toward Brunswick, N. J., with a view of embarking on the Raritan river, Washington broke camp at Valley Forge, sent forward some light troops to harass the enemy, and then with the main body started in pursuit. At Allentown Clinton suddenly turned to the right by a road leading through Freehold to Sandy Hook. The evening of June 27 found the main body of the British encamped at Monmouth Courthouse, in the town of Freehold, while the American advance, under Maj. Gen. Lee, was five miles away.

Early on the 28th Lee engaged the rear division of the enemy, his orders being to hold it in check until the main body should come up. The Americans were successful at first, but the charges of the British regulars soon threw them into confusion and they began a disorderly retreat in which their commander participated. Washington, coming up with the main body of troops, beheld Lee's flying men. The face of the American commander-in-chief flushed angrily, as he spurred his horse through the demoralized troops to Lee's side. Sternly he rebuked the commander, and then, rallying the fugitives, hastened back to bring up the main body.

Washington succeeded in placing his troops on an eminence in a favorable position and soon was turning defeat into victory. The British made an ineffectual attempt to turn the American left wing and then turned their attention to the right, where they were also repulsed.

All through the day the fight went on. The drill which the American troops received from Baron Steuben at Valley Forge stood them in good stead. They fought like veterans, and the day was won.

There was one other who shared the honors of the battle of Monmouth with Washington, and that was brave Molly Pitcher. Her husband, an artilleryman in Oswald's command, was stationed with his battery in an exposed position in the American line. Time and again the men at the guns were mowed down, but the survivors continued the fight with vigor. Molly Pitcher had been carrying water from a nearby spring for the gunners to wet the sponges when they swabbed out the cannon. While returning from one of these excursions to the spring Molly saw her husband fall. There was no one to take his place at the gun. Without a moment's hesitation the brave woman set down the water she was carrying, seized the rammer and took her husband's place. The army cheered her wildly as she discharged the cannon again and again. Washington personally complimented her and appointed her a captain in the American army.

The Rare American Sailor.

The American sailor is getting to be a very rare bird in these days, says a writer in Leslie's Monthly. Perhaps it is not a well known fact, though any man familiar with shipping matters knows it. The recruiting officers for the navy have the very greatest difficulty in getting Americans, even for our men-of-war. If we have no sailors trained in the merchant marine, where will we get crews in time of war? I have been with a crowd of navy men who were on shore leave in Vera Cruz, when there were not ten words spoken in English.

Even on the big lines which fly the American flag in the foreign trade, the crews are in reality foreigners, though many of them have taken out first papers in order to get berths in the line.

THE SALESWOMAN

Compelled to Be on Her Feet the Larger Part of the Day Finds a Tonic in Pe-ru-na.

Miss Curtin of St. Paul, Gives Her Experience.

Miss Nellie Curtin.

Miss Nellie Curtin, 646 Pearl street, St. Paul, Minn., head saleswoman in a department store writes:

"I have charge of a department in a dry goods store, and after standing the larger part of the day, I would go home with a dull ache, generally through my entire body. I used Peruna and feel so much better that I walk to and from the store now. I know Peruna to be the best medicine on the market for the diseases peculiar to women."—Miss Nellie Curtin.

Nothing is so weakening to the human system as the constant loss of mucus. Catarrhal inflammation of the mucus membrane produces an excessive formation of mucus. Whether the mucus membrane be located in the head or pelvic organs, the discharge of mucus is sure to occur.

This discharge of mucus constitutes a weakening drain; the system cannot long withstand the loss of mucus, hence it is that women afflicted with catarrhal affections of the pelvic organs feel tired and languid, with weak back and throbbing brain. A course of Peruna is sure to restore health by cutting off the weakening drain of the daily loss of mucus.

An Admirable Tonic.

Congressman Mark H. Dunnell, National Hotel, Washington, D. C., writes:

"Your Peruna being used by myself and many of my friends and acquaintances not only as a cure for catarrh but also as an admirable tonic for physical recuperation, I gladly recommend it to all persons requiring such remedies."—Mark H. Dunnell.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

ARE YOU LOSING WEIGHT

If so then your system is out of balance, and there is a flaw somewhere in your constitution, and a possibility that you are losing health, too. The falling off in weight may be slight, but it makes a wonderful change in one's looks and feelings, and unless the building up process is begun in time, vitality and strength are soon gone and health quickly follows. If you are losing weight there is a cause for it. Your blood is deteriorating and becoming too poor to properly nourish the body, and it must be purified and enriched before lost weight is regained. It requires something more than an ordinary tonic to build up a feeble constitution, for unless the poisons and germs that are lurking in the blood are destroyed, they will further impoverish the blood and weaken the system, and you continue to lose weight.

In S. S. S. will be found purifying and tonic properties combined. It not only builds up weak constitutions, but searches out and destroys germs and poisons of every description and cleanses the system of all impurities, thus laying the foundation for a healthy, steady increase in weight and future good health.

Food may be bountiful and the appetite good, but still the system weakens and we remain poor in flesh unless what we eat is properly digested and turned into rich, pure blood. S. S. S. re-inforces the Stomach and aids the digestion and assimilation of food, and there is a rapid up-building of health and strength. S. S. S. acts promptly and beneficially upon the nervous system, strengthens and tones it up, and relieves the strain by producing sound, refreshing sleep. You can find no tonic so invigorating as S. S. S., and being composed exclusively of roots and herbs its use is attended with no bad effects. Old people will find that it braces them up, improves the circulation of the blood, and stimulates all the bodily organs, and persons of delicate constitutions can take S. S. S. with safety, as it does not derange the Stomach like the strong mineral remedies, but acts gently and without any shock to the system. Those whose feelings tell them they are not strong or well, and who are growing thinner and falling below their usual weight, should take a course of S. S. S. and build up again. S. S. S. is recognized everywhere as the leading blood purifier and the safest and best of all tonics. We cheerfully furnish medical advice, without charge, to all who will write us.
