FRIDAY - AUGUST 25, 1905

The indictment mill is again running in Portland; and they say it is grinding exceedingly fine.

One of the things notable in the exploration of the Deschutes country is that it is not a town booming scheme. To get the land occupied by producers is the main thing.

The effect of last winter's light snowfall and this summer's unusual heat is quite visible in the snow peaks of the Cascades that puncture the sky in our western horizon.

There are two wrong Crook county views respecting the Williamson-Gesner-Biggs trial. One is that the defendants can't possibly be guilty, no matter what they did.

As was intimated in The Bulletin several weeks ago, the Columbia Southern advance to Bend will be in two steps—but it may be a two-step that will merge into a glide.

It is a productive year for "The Oregon country." On the whole the most productive and prosperous year it has ever known.

"The Oregon country" is the whole region that lies the American flag, north of the forty-second parallel and west of the Rocky mountains. Every part of it is doing well.

is an inspiration to him and a guide. It teaches him how. The effect of it is seen in every part of the Pacific Northwest; not least in those parts of older settlement which were long in isolation.

James Breen, who has been working in the Paisley country for some time, is again in Bend.

House and lot on Eleventh street and Ironwood avenue. Also sewing machine, large range, and other household goods.

FOR SALE—A new, wide track, Bain 3/4 inch, coast wagon, enquire Sherwood Bros., on Laidlaw-Forest road, six miles south of Redmond.
