Organize to Protect and Promote Interests.

TWO ASSOCIATIONS IN FIELD

Columbia Southern Settlers First, Then Those of the Deschutes Company.

The first step toward the organization of a settlers' association for the Deschutes Irrigation & Power Co.'s segregation was taken Wednesday evening when 40 men gathered at the B. M. hall and appointed a committee of five on permanent organization. This committee is composed of P. L. Tompkins, H. C. Ellis, John Ferguson, John Steidl and John Coleman. The committee was given the power to make substitute appointments if any of those named should fail to act.

Dr. C. E. Coons called the meeting to order and on his motion E.

F. C. Rowlee.

D. Hendrickson was made chairman. A discussion of the objects of the gathering was invited but no speeches were made. The chairman then outlined the matter as he understood it, that it was for the purpose of getting settlers, those holding common interests, together in some sort of an association or union for better acquaintance with each other and to act for the common good. It was, according to his understanding and desire, to be a fair and free organization to protect and promote the interests of settlers in proper and legitimate lines.

P. L. Tompkins moved that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to prepare articles of association. This was seconded and put, but there was so much uncertainty regarding the vote on it that it was finally declared out of order, while Mr. Tompkins, who called attention to the lack of a recording officer, was elected and set to work as secretary.

Hugh O'Kane then got the floor with a motion for a committee of five to prepare a plan for permanent organization. He stated it to be his idea that all the people in this country were settlers, whether living in town or on outside lands, and that the organization should be broad enough to cover all commercial and industrial interests of the Deschutes valley, and that a membership fee of about $2.50 should be charged and devoted to advertising the Deschutes valley. Something usually called a commercial club or push club was what he had in mind.

The chair thought the movement was more particularly for the benefit of settlers on the outside lands but was willing for the scope and character of the organization to be determined by the meeting.

The motion for appointment of the committee of five was passed without an opposing vote.

On motion of John Steidl a recess of 10 minutes was taken, after which the committee was announced.

Inquiry was made as to who should be admitted to membership in the permanent organization and whether the next meeting should be open to the public. The reply of the chair was that those matters would be acted upon when the committee should present its report. The committee will also call the next meeting when it has its report formulated.

COLUMBIA SOUTHERNERS ACT

Water-Users' Association in Working Order There.

"The Water-Users' Association of the Columbia Southern Segregation" was organized at Laidlaw last Saturday with the following permanent officers:

President—C. W. Allen
Vice-President—F. E. Dayton
Secretary—W. S. Barnes
Treasurer—A. B. Vander Wielen

This was the result of a preliminary meeting held two weeks previously at which time a committee on permanent organization was appointed. The objects of this association are to promote the interests of settlers on the Columbia Southern Irrigation Co.'s segregation, discuss methods of irrigation, treatment of soil, etc. Incidentally the question of getting enough water for irrigation of the "ditch" lands will engage attention.

REPORTS RAILROAD SURVEY

Recent Stakes and a Clear Line 18 Miles from Bend.

C. J. Cottor was out to the mountains with his son Sylvester and P. R. Reisdorfer the first of the week and reports running across the line of a recent railroad survey in the southwestern corner of 18-10. The stakes were so new the numbers penciled on them were perfectly plain and the hewn surface of the stakes was not weather marked. There is a quite dense growth of underbrush in that locality and the line cleared through that by the surveyors was easily traced. Its general direction is northeast and southwest, from the direction of Diamond pass toward Bend. The point where the party crossed this line is about eight miles southwest of the headworks of the Columbia Southern irrigation ditch, about 18 miles southwest of Bend.

Charles H. Foster moved his family in from their Powell Buttes ranch last Saturday. They will occupy the Lovell cottage this winter while the children are attending school.

WELL YIELDS WATER

Success of Homesteader in 18-12.

SUPPLY FOR DOMESTIC USE

Water Flow Was Struck Down Sixty Feet Through the Solid Lava Rock.

Three months ago John Ferguson began digging a well on his homestead in section 24, of 18-12. Since then he has put in about a month and a half of hard work upon it, sinking the shaft in lava rock every foot of the way to a depth of 60 feet. A few days ago he was rewarded by finding a tiny stream of water trickling into the shaft.

The water would not stay in the well, however, disappearing through the crevices in the rock. So Mr. Ferguson went down several feet further with the well shaft and now he will cement the walls of that basin up to where the water flows in, making a reservoir for holding it. When this is done he expects to get all the water needed on the farm for domestic purposes and watering stock, but there will not, of course, be sufficient for irrigation.

This water is of excellent quality and there is nothing now to indicate that it will not be permanent. This well is eight miles from the river.

BURGLARS VISIT HOMESTEADS

Cabins Broken Open and Many Articles Stolen.

F. V. Swisher, who has a homestead near Tumalo, returned last week from Sherman county harvest fields, where he had been working for a time. He found that his cabin had been broken open and a number of old coins and some ammunition taken. The house had been ransacked, the trunk opened and the contents strewn about. A boy who had some of the ammunition said Cleve Donkel committed the burglary, but this is not credited, for Cleve is wanted on a warrant for horsestealing and is not supposed to be in this county.

When Charley Stanbrough returned to his homestead this week, after his visit in Portland, he found evidences of another burglarious visit, the second to his cabin this season. The lock on the door was broken and things inside were much disturbed but not much of value is missing. Last summer a lot of provisions and a clock were stolen by someone who rode a horse.

Barney Lewis was another sufferer. His homestead cabin was broken open when he was away and tools, provisions and clothing were stolen.

J. E. Sheridan's homestead cabin was broken into some time ago and the burglar made himself at home there, cooking and carrying away a generous supply of Sheridan's provisions.

The burglarizing of homesteaders' houses has grown to be so frequent that the setting of guns to receive the thieves is contemplated and is said to have been carried into effect by two or three.

More Bend Products.

J. H. Miller, who has a garden on one of the Cottor acre tracts, now comes to the front with a lot of ripe sunflowers, some of which are eight feet tall with discs a full foot in diameter filled with matured and ripened seed. His patch of sunflowers cannot be excelled anywhere.

Mr. Miller also has a very successful general garden. One of his radishes brought to The Bulletin office is 19 inches in circumference.

Henry Hedges brought in this week a specimen of the hops ripened on his vines. They are large and full of lupuline and as heavy as first year hops ever are.

Mrs. L. D. Wiest tired of reading of prize vegetable notices and sent to The Bulletin this week a blushing carnation big as a teacup, grown in her garden since May 1. "Dad" West is eating the third crop of strawberries from his vines this year. There are now blossoms and ripe berries on the same vines. The first killing general frost of the season occurred this week.
