RAILROAD THIS WAY

Oregon Eastern Surveyors on the Deschutes.

WILL BE IN BEND TONIGHT

No Announcement as to Where They Will Set Their Stakes for Survey Work.

SHANIKO, Or., Oct. 11.—Last week 15 surveyors reached Shaniko for work in Central Oregon. They did not have instructions with them. Having hung around Shaniko a week, they left to day southward. It is understood that these men are in the employ of the O. R. & N. and that their business is to make definite location of the railroad line southward from Madras to Klamath Falls, by way of Bend. The surveyors themselves said they expected to work through to Klamath.

They are Oregon Eastern Men.

MADRAS, Or., Oct. 12.—An engineer force of 20 men in charge of J. R. Graham, of Portland, arrived here this morning from Shaniko bound for the Upper Deschutes country. They made no secret of their mission to do serious railroad work but do not say, if they know, where their field work will start. They are well supplied with commissary stores and camp equipment. They expect to be in Bend tomorrow night.

E. F. Batten, who came in from Shaniko, arriving in Bend Wednesday night, reports the presence of the engineers at Shaniko. Nothing definite was known as to where they were going or whom they represented, but the general understanding was that they were to work on an extension of the Columbia Southern railroad. They were not to start at Shaniko and it was stated that they would move out to Madras and take their field work south from that point.

Ed Halverson, who arrived Tuesday night, said he heard the engineers talk about working between Madras and Bend on their way to locate a line through to Klamath Falls. He said a carload of heavy work horses arrived at Shaniko day or so before he came through and they were said to be for railroad construction work. This would indicate something more positive than mere surveying.

DESCHUTES SETTLERS ACT.

Adopt By-laws and Provide for Committee to Go to Salem.

At the meeting of the settlers held last Saturday in the B. M. hall the committee previously appointed to arrange a plan of organization reported by-laws, declaring the purpose of the organization to be co-operation of all settlers within the limits of the D. I. & P Co. segregation, in such matters as public roads, transportation, irrigation, experiment work and education in irrigation farming. The meeting was attended by 20 settlers.

According to the by-laws two classes of membership are provided for—one to consist of actual holders of land within the limits specified not merely "ditch" land but a kind of land; and the other to consist of all others who choose to take part in the movement. These latter may participate in all matters except that they will have no vote. Quarterly meetings are to be held in December, March, June and September. Until the next meeting the committee already appointed will conduct the affairs of the organization. It was voted that delegate should be sent to Salem to represent the settlers before the state land board and E. D. Hendrickson was chosen as such delegate. He left this morning for Salem.

J. F. Taggart is home from Portland fair.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Batten returned Wednesday night from Portland, where they spent the weeks. Every day they were in Portland it rained. They say a fair was a very creditable institution, and they have had experience with most of the big fairs of recent years.

and after the two had spent a week examining this locality the bargain to buy the Steidl & Reed lumbering interests was made. The Linsters left Saturday and the son is expected to return tomorrow to take possession of the property.

The elder Linster returned east to arrange for the purchase of a large body of timber land in this region, his associates there having expressed a desire to join him in such an enterprise. If those associates should fail to join, the Linsters will themselves purchase several thousand acres to feed their mill indefinitely.

It is not the purpose of the Linsters to crowd the sawmill business here just now, but to convert the present Steidl & Reed plant into a sash and door factory. They have made a computation showing the annual purchase of sash and doors within reach of Bend to be about $120,000. This is the trade they will first strike for and they will equip a first class plant for the purpose.

HOMESTEAD VS TIMBERLAND

Issue Involved in Contest of Boyd vs Booth.

Last Friday and Saturday the contest of Charles Boyd vs. Lucy S. Booth, was heard before U. S. Commissioner Lawrence. This involved a tract of 160 acres on the Tumalo river a short distance below the Columbia Southern headquarters. The facts brought out are that a cabin was erected on the tract a short time prior to May 23, when it was opened to entry. On this cabin and elsewhere on the land notices were erected to the effect that the tract was claimed for a homestead by "L. A. Booth." Disregarding that cabin and that notice Boyd subsequently, but prior to the 23rd of May, erected a cabin and posted notices that he claimed the place for a homestead. He also fenced a portion of the tract. He occupied the cabin a few days. Lucy S. Booth filed a timber and stone application for the land on May 24. Boyd made homestead application on May 23 but his application did not reach the land office until after Mrs. Booth's had been accepted, and for that reason it was rejected. Thereupon Boyd filed contest.

Boyd's contention is that the cabin of Mrs. Booth (who is wife of ex-County Judge W. A. Booth) was erected merely as a bluff; that the fact that she was not qualified to take a homestead and applied for the land as a timber claim shows this. Mrs. Booth contends that the land is not of agricultural character and is chiefly valuable for its timber and that therefore her application was properly accepted.

There was a wide range of testimony, from that of C. H. Erickson, who swore that he found the land covered with bunchgrass and strawberries upon his last visit, to that of John E. Ryan, who testified that he was upon the tract with snowshoes in May and measured five feet of snow there.

The contestant was represented by Attorney Charles S. Benson, of Bend, and the contestee by Attorney M. E. Brink, of Prineville.

MORE DESCHUTES PRODUCTS.

Vegetables That Cannot be Excelled Anywhere in Oregon.

When E. F. Batten returned from the Portland fair this week, after examining the best that Oregon counties could show there, he went out into his own garden and cussed because he had not taken therefrom to show how this "worthless" region could beat the rest of the state. Then he brought down and added to The Bulletin exhibit some Hollow Crown carrots 18 inches in circumference, Early Blood beets the same size, White Norfolk turnips 27 inches around, French turnips 23 and 24 inches around, celery of thrifty growth and white and crisp to the tips. All this is the first grown on raw land within the limits of Bend. These specimens are not so notable for size as for quality and symmetrical shape.

G. W. Wimer sent in this week some specimens of turnips and celery from his Star ranch at Tumalo, which rank with the products of the Batten garden. A Golden Globe turnip is specially notable for its beauty, tender crispness and fine flavor.

All these were grown in the open garden without special attention, and for general excellence cannot be beaten in Oregon.
