$6500 FOR SCHOOL

Voters in Favor of Better Building.

WORK TO GO ON AT ONCE

Sentiment of the District Declared and Formalities of Election Will Follow.

Last June the Bend school district authorized a bond issue of $3,500 for a new schoolhouse. This was found to be inadequate for the needs of the district and later the authorized bond was increased to $5,000.

Under these circumstances one of two possible changes were necessary--either provide more money for the structure already planned or reduce the size and cost of the building to be erected.

However, the sentiment of the district having been declared, the building of the schoolhouse will proceed without waiting for the legal formalities of the bond election.

Two bids were received Monday night for construction of the schoolhouse--I. D. Jarvis $4,965, with timber foundation and shingled roof, and Thomas E. Roberts $4,809 with shingled roof and $4,816 with Malthoid roof, nothing said as to foundation.

The board will now seek on adjustment that will be fair to contractors as well as for the best interests of the district, and it is expected that work on the ground will begin next week.

The assessor's estimate of the taxable valuation of the school district this year (the assessment roll is not yet entirely completed) is $140,000, which justifies a bond issue of $7000.

At a meeting of the directors last night it was decided to award the contract for building the schoolhouse to I. D. Jarvis, and such contract is now in course of preparation.

SURVEYING CREWS FROM ALL POINTS

Great Southern Railroad not Saying Much but "Sawing Wood" with Great Energy.

The Oregon Eastern survey corps which is working toward Bend from Madras, is making progress much more slowly than was expected.

Engineers Gordon and Nelson, of the Great Southern (Dufur line) have been very quietly reconnoitering the Willow Creek basin, looking for a way in from the Deschutes canyon.

MUCH NEW LAND IN CROP.

Tumalo Neighborhood Fast Becoming Productive.

TUMALO, Or., Oct. 31. - Edward White visited Tumalo this last week. He has leased a part of his fine farm, 140 acres, to the Leverenz brothers for the next year.

Wimer & Sons report that they seeded some ground to alfalfa the third of last June and just three months to a day after sowing the seed they found it had rooted 16 inches and had made a growth of 16 inches high.

There is strong talk of another large sawmill being built near Tumalo.

The Hightower-Smith Co. report that they cannot supply the increasing demand for lumber. They are now sawing at the full capacity of the mill.

C. W. Thornthwaite has returned from Sherman county. He reports business dull in that country. Mr. Thornthwaite had the misfortune to lose two horses on his trip out and back.

C. R. Pulliam was at Tumalo last week. He said the alfalfa he planted last September is doing nicely and promises to make a good crop next summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerkin, who have a fine farm three miles north of Tumalo, were at Tumalo last week. They have some 30 acres sown to alfalfa, which promises to make a fine crop next summer.

Mr. Hanson, on the Cash ranch just north of Tumalo, has much land seeded to alfalfa and other grasses, all of which is doing well.

John Atkinson arrived at Tumalo one night last week. He brought with him from the valley 70 head of fine cattle and calves.

Coyotes Break Up Band Near Bend.

BELONG TO CHARLES LISTER.

Varmints Ran Sheep Out on the Desert and Killed and Ate Them at Pleasure.

Coyotes broke up a band of Charles Lister's sheep near where the Silver Lake road crosses the Central Oregon canal, two miles south of Bend, Monday night, and when the animals were rounded up next day 600 were missing from the band of 2,400.

Wednesday workmen employed on the lateral flume under construction to convey water to the experiment farm saw in the distance a lot of sheep harried by coyotes.

Coyotes are unusually numerous and hold this fall. A few days ago a band of cattle was scattered by the varmints near where the Lister sheep were attacked.
